Astronauts From Boulder At Pershing December 6

A fast-rising "surfing combo", the Astronauts, will be playing for all avid lovers of "surfing music" at Pershing Auditorium Dec. 6.

The Astronauts, a fairly new group from Boulder, Colo., have been playing at Tulagi's on the University of Colorado campus. The combo is made up of Bob Demmon, Rich Fifield, Jim Gallagher, Dennis Lindsey and Stormy Patterson.

The group's leader, Bob Demmon, formed the combo at Boulder in 1961. Demmon, the only college graduate of the group, studied at the University of Colorado and received a teaching degree. He is now teaching school in Boulder in addition to leading the group.

Fifield, who was born in Ogallala, plays lead guitar for The Astronauts. He studied at Colorado State University and joined the combo in August of 1961.

Jim Gallagher comes from a musical family in Chicago. He started playing the drums in the eighth grade and has been supplying the beat for the Astronauts since their beginning. Gallagher studied at the University of Colorado in Boulder, but left school to join the Astronauts.

Twenty-one year old Dennis Lindsey writes most of the Astronaut's comedy material. Born and raised in Colorado, Lindsey attended the University of Colorado and the Pasadena playhouse in California.

Stormy Patterson excels in skiing, wrestling, and football as well as music. He shares the up-front singing chores with Rich Fifield as well as playing bass guitar for the Astronauts.

Tickets are on sale for the Astronauts in the Student Union, the Record Discount Center, and Pershing Auditorium Box Office. The price is $1.50 per person.

State Council Convention Forms Constitution Group

The Nebraska Student Council Convention, Nov. 22 and 23, held at Doane College formed a committee to draw up a constitution for a permanent Nebraska Student Government Association which would involve all the colleges and universities in Nebraska.

Jim Klimes of the University is one of the members of the committee. The committee is headed by George Douglas of Chadron State College.

It was felt by the group, which represented only about one third of all Nebraska colleges, that if all colleges were involved mutual problems, such as representation, apathy, inner-campus publications and others, could be dealt with more effectively.

Chadron State College will host the next convention and sponsor the newsletter for the coming year.

Representatives from the various college newspapers there felt that an annual editor's conference would be beneficial. Efforts will be made to get it organized by next fall.

Mohammed Shuhud of the World University Service addressed the group on the "Role of Students in Developing Countries."

"Some feel America has burdened itself enough and should let someone else take the responsibility," said the speaker. "There is someone else but will he be agreeable to us?"

He pointed out that the American student must respond and prevent others from going to the other side by default rather than choice. He also said that the difference between American students and students in the developing countries is that students in developing countries are more concerned with world affairs. "We feel that the student who blinds himself to the problems of the world is not a student at all."

Military Cites 18 Senior AF Cadets

Col. Frank E. Sullivan, University Professor of Air Science, has announced the Distinguished Military Cadets of the senior class.

They are: William J. Beldon, Charles H. Bennett, Robert Brightfield, Lloyd W. Buchfink, Lawrence E. Cary, Roger E. Christensen, William W. Davis, John F. Dwyer, E. Clark Edwards, Don R. Endorf, Joseph Ewing, James G. Lemons, Roger D. Lyle, Clark A. Nelson, Laurence E. Ourada, Darrel G. Petch, Larry E. Pope, and James T. Wilson.

These cadets were recommended to Col. Sullivan for selection by a board of advanced course instructors. To be selected, a cadet must possess outstanding qualities of leadership and high moral character; clearly demonstrate leadership ability; have high academic standing in the University and AFROTC courses; attain a minimum standing on the USAF Officer Qualifying Test as prescribed by United States Air Force Headquarters; and have excellent performance rating from his summer training unit.

Freshman Assistants Chosen For YWCA

Freshman assistants for YWCA committees were chosen in interviews Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. They are: Kathy Deines, newspaper; Linda Taylor, speakers; Linda Grothe, special projects; Marian Christensen, visitations; Connie Blue, membership; and Andrea Block, publicity liaison.

Ag Students Participating In High School Experiment

Sixteen University of Nebraska senior students majoring in agricultural education are getting a taste of off-campus teaching experience.

The men students are assigned to state high school training centers for approximately eight weeks. Theories of learning, methods of teaching in the classroom and shop and techniques of instruction studied in the campus classroom are now being put into practice under the guidance of seasoned supervising teachers according to M. G. McCreight, director of Student Teaching in the Department of Agricultural Education.

These students will be teaching classes in vocational agriculture, instructing in agricultural mechanics, supervising the experience programs of voc-ag students and working with the Future Farmers of America. The student teachers share the responsibilities of school activities with the regular high school faculty members in which they are teaching.

Department faculty members will visit each training center three times during the eight week period to observe the trainees.

Assigned to the Superior High School training center is Robert Olson, to Holdrege—Douglas Genereux and Lawrence Umland; to Henderson—Alton Crook and Charles Eggers; to Newman Grove—Ray Robertson and Carl Sojka; to Columbus—Paul Gustman, to Schuyler—Donald Friedrichsen and Myron Carlson; to David City—Eugene Cook and Leroy Friesen; to Pawnee City—Andrew Nelson; to Waverly—Lyle Hermance and James Kent.

Little Choice On Cal Oath

Berkeley, Calif.—A majority of the sorority presidents of the University of California have little to say about the anti-discrimination clause which they are required to sign. Two sororities have or are signing, and three admitted they have not signed.

According to Sue Herney, Panhellenic Council president, "Information is not available on who has signed." President Clark Kerr said that only six out of the twenty-two sororities have signed the non-discrimination clause, and that the situation "is starting to get difficult." He added that sororities which do not sign the pledges may lose approved housing status.

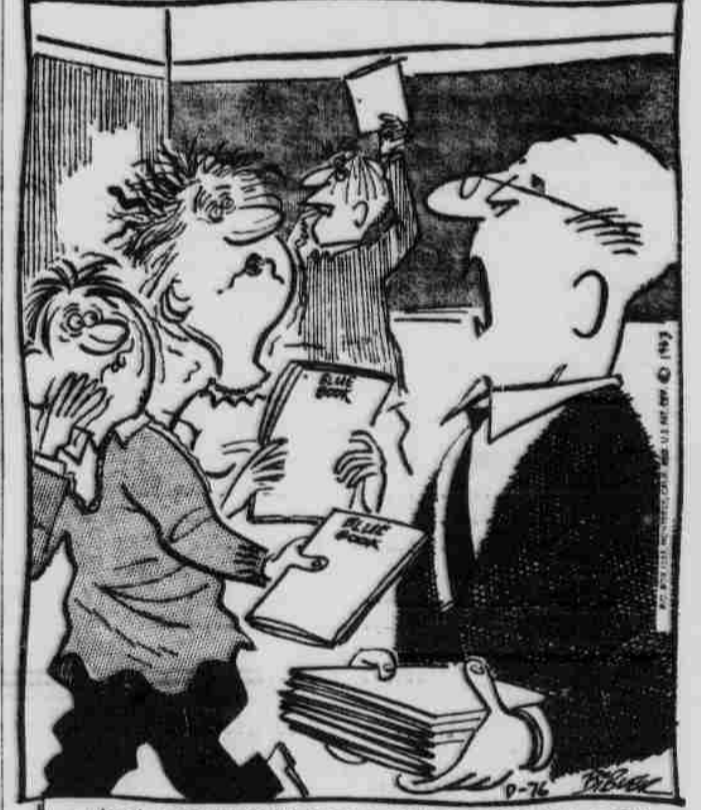

Kerr said that the greatest pressure against the non-discrimination pledge comes from the national headquarters of the fraternities and sororities. Of those who have signed, some have succeeded in changing national policy at national conventions.
