Several Appearances Scheduled--

Band Practices Bowl Show

The Marching Band, 130 men strong, has begun its final week of rehearsals in preparation for the Orange Bowl trip to Miami, Sunday, Dec. 29.

Prof. Jack Snider, director, said the Band will make several public appearances in Florida along with Joyce Burns, Nebraska's champion solo twirler.

The bandmen, scheduled for a week of hard work and play, will leave by chartered plane Sunday, Dec. 29, and will perform in a public concert at the Hollywood, Florida, Municipal Park the same evening. They will rehearse all day Monday and Tuesday and will take part in the traditional Orange Bowl Parade in downtown Miami Tuesday evening.

They will again rehearse New Year's morning and will play during the halftime of the Orange Bowl game in the afternoon.

Professor Snider said some provision would be made to allow the students to go sight-seeing and swimming.

Expenses for the trip will be paid with proceeds from the Orange Bowl game.

Campus Calendar

JUDO will meet at 6:30 p.m. in the Student Union conference rooms.
NIA will hold their Christmas party at 7 p.m. in the Student Union party rooms.

Most Parties Set At Home

Even parties, formals and other social events are not enticing enough to keep most homebound University students on campus for activities tonight. Only two organizations braved the migration home and scheduled events. The majority of students will most likely party at home.

TONIGHT
Phi Delta Theta winter formal at Hillcrest Country Club from 8-12 p.m.
UNICORNS Christmas Caroling and chili feed 8-12 p.m.

Yimatu Was Speaker

The Daily Nebraskan in yesterday's issue incorrectly identified Zed Yimatu. He is a University student from Ethiopia, not Europe, as was stated.

Yimatu was one of the speakers at "Operation Crossroads" which was presented by the Nebraska International Association (NIA) last night.

Exhibitionists, Fires Among Other Campuses' Problems

Life on other campuses throughout these United States has its quirks as does life everywhere. These range from exhibitionists on the University of Colorado campus to bicycle parking problems on the Colorado State campus to demonstrations against ROTC at the University of Kansas at Lawrence.

On the University of Colorado campus at Boulder, coeds have reported seeing three exhibitionists in the past three months.

Two months ago at the University of Kansas at Lawrence, members of the Student Peace Union picketed a meeting of the Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps that was held in the Student Union.

The Colorado State University COLLEGIAN reported that a problem arose from about "35 to 46 bicycles that are now usually found blocking the east entrance to the Student Center." However the COLLEGIAN assured the students that the problem will be solved with the coming of the new bicycle racks that have been ordered.

From the SCRIBE, issued from the University of Bridgeport in Connecticut a report tells of a fire alarm situation with which the authorities are having a problem. The SCRIBE says that someone has been pulling fire alarms and causing false alarms. LeRoy McCarty, director of safety and security on the campus said, "We are sure as hell are looking for him."

FROM THE DAILY TARHEEL located in Chapel Hill, North Carolina, comes a story telling of telephone line jamming. When a person dials a number, such as a dorm number, and the line is busy, the person dialing can talk to other persons that are also trying to dial the same number.

The TARHEEL says this about the mess, "It's a wild time, indeed, with the total at any one time often reaching ten or more phones. Fraternity men swear at anonymous dorm voices, dorm men scream 'Frat rats' and they all go crazy when a girl joins the line."

Ag Honors Program Geared To Individual

By Marv McNeff
Ag News Editor
A program of studies for the student with the urge to go further faster is now in its fourth year at the College of Agriculture and Home Economics.

The Ag Honors program, termed by Dr. Franklin Eldridge to be "geared first of all for individual progress," has allowed seniors who will be first to graduate under it this spring to carry out advanced research projects typical of graduate work. One of the current projects has resulted in a paper which will be published by a professional journal.

Selection of second semester freshman for participation in the honors program has not yet been announced. Participants are selected on the basis of ability to meet the high requirements of the advanced program, and personal interest in the program.

other Ag campus courses. Dr. Eldridge gave the example of the technical writing course, English 100, which covers material useful for the honors routine, and in some cases material already used in the honors section.

"We try to stress the personal approach to encourage originality, creativity, and individual initiative," said Dr. Eldridge. "Our purpose is to both permit and prod the student to go outside the usual undergraduate area of interest."

Eldridge said one startling result of working with the honors program students, who are in the top 10 per cent of their classes in the Ag College, was the accumulation of much more knowledge about teaching, and the effects of teaching.

Although the program is costly in terms of time devoted to students for counseling, Dr. Eldridge feels the benefits after four years of time involved.

Student Opinion Poll On Drinking Problem

Both a student opinion poll and a random sampling of the campus will be taken on the drinking situation at the University, according to Mike Barton, Student Council opinion chairman.

Approximately 200 individuals will be chosen at random and be sent forms to be returned to the student council.

"In this way all facets of university life will be guaranteed representation," said Barton. "This is a more accurate way to gain true feelings on the drinking situation."

In order that all interested students may express their opinions and to create more interest in the project, a regular campus opinion poll will also be taken," continued Barton.

The opinion poll will be distributed to the living units on the Monday when students return from vacation. The following Wednesday an official form will appear in the Daily Nebraskan. Also on Wednesday, an opinion poll booth will be opened in the main lounge of the Student Union from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

"We are trying to make this as honest and sincere as possible," said Barton. "We want this to be scientific and valid."

We urge students to support this and to give an honest opinion."

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

The courses for freshmen, known as Ag. 90, and for sophomores, Ag. 190, are guided by Dr. Eldridge and Dr. David McGill, assistant to the dean of the College of Agriculture, and professor of agronomy.

A typical class session will go like this: short research papers will be presented by students, ranging over subjects in their specialized area of interest.

After the presentation, the undergraduate giving the paper will be quizzed by fellow students and faculty members, who are teachers and researchers in the area covered by the paper.

The administration goals and aims sections of the honors program are handled by the Honors Council, composed of faculty members who are advisors to the students in the program. There are usually from 10 to 15 in each class.

The disciplines required for the course, are adaptable to an integrated approach with

The Church . . . For A Fuller Life . . . For You

On the holy night, the Christ child was born to an unknown carpenter and his wife in Bethlehem.
No palace physician attended the Prince of Peace — perhaps a mid-wife or a serving maid.
No fine linens were prepared for the mother; no crib for the Babe — just the straw and the manger were theirs.
No royal salute was fired to announce His arrival — only the braying of the animals in their stalls was heard.
Never was royalty greeted with less pomp and circumstance. Why? Because man could not raise himself to God!
So God sent His Son to light up our hearts and minds with His Divine Presence.
His living Spirit brightened the most ordinary and commonplace tasks of the day.
If He could so hallow that stable, can He not hallow our homes, our places of work, the whole of our lives?
Of course! Consider again and again the miracle of His birth. Be in church on Christmas to welcome anew the Christ child in your heart.
