

Douglas Will Visit University Campus

U.S. Senator To Address News Forum

Senator Paul Douglas, senator from Illinois, will visit the University campus Monday and will participate in a news forum at 10:30 a.m. in the Union ballroom.

Douglas will be accompanied by three Washington correspondents; Neal Stanford of the Christian Science Monitor, Lucian Warren of the Buffalo Courier-Express and past president of the National Press Club, and John Metcalfe, a syndicated news columnist.

Douglas, a Democrat, serves on the Finance committee. He has been a consultant on labor and welfare problems.

The four will arrive in Lincoln Sunday evening and will depart early the following Wednesday.

The only other scheduled programs on campus for the group is a luncheon following the news forum with Chancellor Clifford Hardin and his wife, Governor and Mrs. Frank Morrison and campus officials.

The group is sponsored by the Union program committee.

Hruska Talks At Thursday Convocation

Senator Roman Hruska will speak to the University students at a convocation Thursday at 10:30 a.m. The convocation, originally scheduled for the Union ballroom, has been changed to the Union small auditorium.

"I urge everyone to attend," said Bill Harding, Union public relations chairman. "Students may expand their political knowledge and meet first hand with one of our United States senators."

The senator will arrive at the Union between 10 a.m. and 10:30 and will be available to speak to the students informally.

Interviews Scheduled For Outstanding, Ideal

Interviews for Ideal Nebraska Coed and Outstanding Collegiate Man will be held Thursday night in the north and south conference rooms in the Student Union basement beginning at 6:30 p.m. Candidates will be judged on the basis of scholarship, personality and service to the University. Finalists will be presented at the AWS Coed Follies show Feb. 28 at Pershing Auditorium.

Judges for the Ideal Nebraska Coed preliminary interviews will be Dean Helen Snyder, Dr. Doris O'Donnell, Dr. Loren Bonneau, Albert C. Book and Sally Larson.

For Outstanding Collegiate Man, the judges will be Dr. Sue Arbutnot, Dr. Paul Landolt, Dean J. Winston Martin, Cindy Tinan and Bonnie Knudsen.

The candidates and their interview times are:

- 6:40 Susan Ayres, Mike Barton
- 6:50 Janee Benda, Donovan Benson
- 7:00 Karen Benting, Chuck Clement

PTP To Sponsor 'Students Abroad'

People to People has revealed the opening of the Student Abroad Program.

Under this program students would go to a foreign country, live with a family for a month and then continue on a planned itinerary to other countries. There is an alternate plan in which staying with a family is omitted.

Israel, Greece, the British Isles, Scandinavia, the Netherlands, Germany, Belgium and France are included in the program which costs approximately $750.

The purpose of this program is to offer students a plan whereby they can meet other students of other lands and learn about the people and the country in which they are traveling.

All students who are interested in participating in this program are asked to contact Margery Langille, 799-2895, or Loren Fairbanks, 442-2522.

Student Attends YDCA Convention

A majority of Young Democratic Clubs of America (YDCA) members maintained the "political middle," backing the Johnson administration measures at their recent weekend convention in Las Vegas, Nev.

Lauren Weatherwax, from the University of Nebraska, represented the state's college members. Weatherwax, a Kappa Sigma junior, carried with him three proxy votes from the University and two from Nebraska Wesleyan.

An all-out civil rights dispute was expected, but moderates successfully closed debate on the resolutions committee report despite disapproval from Arizona and California delegations on one side, and southern Democrats on the other.

Weatherwax said the Nebraska votes favored the Johnson administration's civil rights stand, but opposed the Minneapolis delegation's president-elect, Albert House, a North Carolina attorney.

Nebraska delegates voted for loser John O'Malley of Boston who was considered by observers the more liberal candidate.

Weatherwax explained that the college YD's join the regular national Young Democrat Club for the convention. He said that colleges were well represented at the convention and will play a more important role nationally in the future.

Speakers Orville Freeman, Secretary of Agriculture, and Senator Cannon from Nevada impressed the convention and that tributes to the late President John Kennedy.

The first presentation of "Madame Butterfly" will be given tonight by the University Theater in cooperation with the department of music. Curtain time will be at 8 p.m.

Subsequent performances will be given Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The show's musical director is Richard M. Grace, associate professor of music, who will work in conjunction with Charles Howard, technical director.

Friday Ag Campus Dance To Feature 'Shadow Club'

Ag campus' annual Winter Dance will feature a "Shadow Club" atmosphere Friday at 8:30 p.m. in the Ag Union.

A kit from Harold's Club in Las Vegas and two months of work have prepared the "night club" effect for the dance, according to Terry Franci, chairman of the Ag Union dance committee.

The crowning of the Block and Bride Queen will highlight the evening. Tickets will be purchased at either of the student unions.

The "Nite Owls," from Denver, Colo., will provide music for the evening.

major report despite disapproval from Arizona and California delegations on one side, and southern Democrats on the other.

—Student Prices Unchanged—

Public's Grid Tickets Upped $1 Per Game

Demand for stadium seats and increased operating expenses has prompted a $1 increase per game in University of Nebraska public reserved football tickets, Athletics Director Tippy Dye announced yesterday.

Dye's decision came after Friday's proposed 12,000 seat addition to Memorial Stadium.

No change is planned in the $10 student fee for season tickets. Faculty tickets will sell for $12.50.

Stadium reserved seat prices in 1964, including the new South Terrace addition, will be $5 per game, or $25 per season book for five home games. This compares with the 1963 price of $4 per game or $24 per season book for six games.

Box seat prices also advance $1 per game, or from $4.50 to $5.50, and the knothole price will be $1, which matches the current price charged by other Big 8 schools.

"We have just reached the place where a ticket price increase cannot be avoided if Nebraska is to have adequate stadium seating, pay its operating bills, provide a better home program of non-conference football games, and continue to develop a strong overall athletic program," Dye said.

"The athletic department receives no tax money or other state funds and the fans are the only revenue source we have to call upon," he said.

Dye said he expects the addition to Memorial Stadium to be completed in time for use next fall. The enlarged capacity, plus the increased ticket price, will enable the Huskers to schedule much better non-conference opponents.

At Kansas State University a similar increase has been promoted by the administration. Revenue increases at the Manhattan campus come from additional fee increases.

Kansas State's Student Senate heard a proposal last week to raise the student athletic fee (allowing them to attend games) from $2.75 per student to $7.50 per student, to raise regular student fees five dollars a semester and giving the Wildcat athletic department exclusive control over fee apportionment and expenditure. Presently, the Student Senate's apportionment board has to approve athletic department fee changes.

The Kansas State increase, if passed by the senate and the Board of Regents, is expected to bring in an added $120,000 annually.

Student Council President Dennis Christie says the Student Council plans no action of approval or disapproval since the ticket matter doesn't concern the students directly.

Viet Nam Specialist Speaks

YD-YR Meeting To Hear Major

Major Joseph Ulatoski will be the featured speaker at the joint meeting of the Young Democrats (YD) and Young Republicans (YR) on Feb. 13 at 7:30 p.m. in the Pan American Room of the Student Union.

Major Ulatoski is currently en route to an assignment in Viet Nam. He has studied at Major Ulatoski Monterey Peninsula College and North Carolina State and is a graduate of Omaha University. He has done graduate work at Columbia University.

He has also studied Russian at the U.S. Army Language School and has completed the Army's Foreign Area Specialist Training Program which consists of a four year orientation about the Soviet Union. In 1957 he was assigned as Assistant Army Attache to the Soviet Union.

Major Ulatoski entered the army in 1945 and is recipient of the Silver Star, the Bronze Star with "V" device and two oak leaf clusters, the Army Commendation Ribbon, the Purple Heart with oak leaf cluster, and the Korean Service Medal with five battle stars.

Bill Harding, publicity chairman for YR, said that "It should be emphasized that this is not a political meeting, but one whereby both clubs hope to present to the student body an informative and interesting look into an important topic."

The meeting will be open to the public.

May Queen Filing Set

At least two senior women from each dorm and organized house with 5.5 overall averages and who are not Mortar Boards are requested to file for May Queen.

Applications are due Feb. 19, at the division of students affairs, Administration Building. Three to by three inch pictures of each candidate must accompany the applications.

Registration Has Few Surprises For Grad Student

Graduate students are apparently not hampered by the fact that classes are overcrowded, according to Harold Wise, associate dean of the graduate college. Graduate students do not pre-register and then may choose the courses they want and need after classes have begun.

Wise reported that no students have complained and that apparently everyone is getting into the classes they want.

He said that at this date no trouble is anticipated. Over half of the graduate students have completed registration for this semester already.

The major reason for the lack of difficulty is that many of the departments have reserved space for their graduate students, said Wise.

The library is designed to afford students an opportunity to obtain well-known artistic works. In this way students may enjoy and become acquainted with art that is of particular interest to them.

Before, such items have been inaccessible due to the exorbitant cost.

The art-lending library has been met with encouraging response in the past. Last semester nearly 120 paintings were checked out. Borrowing is expected to be even heavier this semester, said Scott.

The library has ordered from the New York Graphic Society ten famous paintings which are scheduled to arrive in time for the fall semester.

Three Positions Open On Daily Nebraskan

Three paid positions are still available on the DAILY NEBRASKAN staff, according to John Morris, editor.

The staff has openings for two junior staff writers and an editor for the College of Agriculture. Each of these positions pay $17.50 per month.
