Swim Meet To OU

The 32nd annual Big Eight Swimming Meet will be held at the University of Oklahoma instead of Iowa State.

Wayne Duke, executive director, said the change was made because construction on Iowa State's $2 million swimming pool would not be completed in time for the three day meeting starting, March 5.

Defending conference champion Oklahoma has won the crown 13 of the last 15 years including the last 10 years in a row.

With another chance to knock-off one of the front-runners in the Big Eight, Nebraska travels to Manhattan tonight to face the Kansas State crew.

The Wildcats are tied for the lead with a 6-2 loop mark.

K-State is led by 6-7 sparkler, Willie Murrell, the leading scorer in the conference with a pace of 21.4 points per game.

Nebraska's fighting Cornhuskers who have played real well and real poorly at different times during the season showed some of each in a 60-52 loss to Colorado last Saturday night.

Coach Joe Cipriano's squad played spirited ball most of the night, but it was two cold spells that made the difference.

Starting slowly, the Huskers fell behind 12-3 at the outset, then went for more than five minutes with only three points at the close as Colorado increased its lead to ten points.

These two slumps surely cost the Cornhuskers the game.

As the largest crowd of the season packed into the coliseum Nebraska had a chance to upset the Buffaloes and possibly gain a share of the league lead. And when Grant Simmons hit a short jump shot with only 28 seconds gone in the game and moments later sank a free throw for a 3-0 lead the 7,000 fans went wild.

But Colorado soon ended the delirium by rattling off 12 straight points in the next four minutes.

Nebraska had to fight to catch-up throughout the rest of the half.

At the start of the second stanza the Huskers had the upper hand as they held the Buffs to seven points in the first 10 minutes of play and led 41-40 briefly. The score then see-sawed for the next five minutes with Charlie Jones and Coley Webb keeping the Huskers in the game offensively.

Colorado, on scores by George Parsons and Norm

Saunders, pulled away to a six-point lead which it was able to stall out for a win.

The man-to-man defense of the Huskers held Colorado's normally high-scoring offense below its average. The Buffs were most successful on lay-ups by men who had lost their defenders.

Jim Davis, high scorer of the game with 22, and Saunders played the high post for the Buffs. A pass to one, while the other rolled to the basket often resulted in easy two-pointers.

Nebraska on the other hand, had to get most of their points from the outside as the Colorado zone kept the Huskers from getting many shots up close.

Parsons, playing the point in the 1-2-2 alignment for the Buffaloes, gave the Huskers fits all night. NU countered with a weave by the three men out front which got the Huskers many shots although they hit only 34.5 per cent.

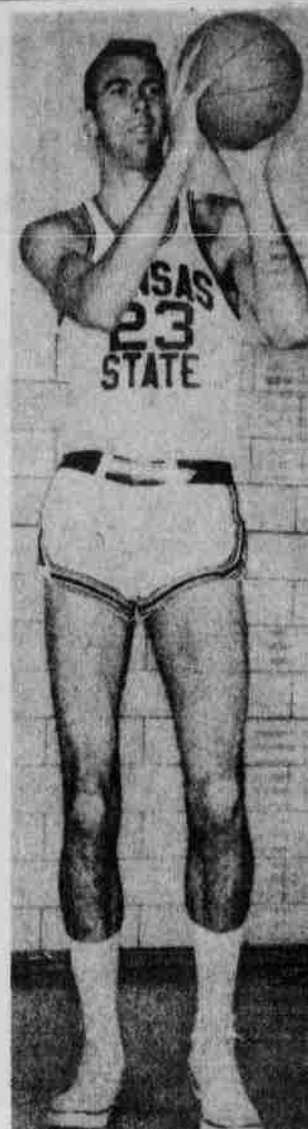

Both teams picked up 19 field goals but the Buffaloes got 31 tries at the charity stripe, connecting on 22 compared with a 14-21 effort for the Cornhuskers.

Harold Cebrun led the attack with 13 points, hitting 5-10 from the field and 3-3 from the line. Next was Webb with 10, six of them coming from the line.
