

WEEK IN REVIEW

CAMPUS . . .

STUDENT COUNCIL PASSED a motion Wednesday calling for the Council to work with the Faculty Senate and Administration in shortening the length of time required for students to receive their grades after the end of a semester.

SENATOR PAUL DOUGLAS of Illinois Monday endorsed the Johnson administration at a news forum. He accused the American press of "probing man's soul" in news accounts. Other targets of the Democratic leader's political ax were former President Eisenhower, gas and oil interests and Southern Democrats.

FOURTEEN STUDENTS have been named as candidates for Ideal Nebraska Coed and Ideal Collegiate Man. They are Nancy Holmquist, Joan Skinner, Barbara Pndrik, Karen Benting, Susan Ayres, Jean Probasco and Joane Stratemann for Ideal Nebraska Coed and Mike Barton, Gary Flick, John Lydick, John Lonnquist, Tom Kort, Glenn Korif and Tom Schwenke for Ideal Collegiate Man.

THE UNIVERSITY CELEBRATED its 95th birthday Saturday. Several University officials will commemorate the event through the month with speeches in the state.

CITY . . .

ACTING MAYOR JOHN COMSTOCK said Wednesday the special three-councilman committee did not make an outright recommendation of a liberalized beer-liquor policy plan to the City Council. Comstock, who headed the committee, said the group "only assumed the responsibility of trying to develop a workable plan." He said the committee found the present foot-patrol policy is "unrealistic" because six outlets not within the patrol area have been added by annexation.

STATE . . .

COLORADO OFFICIALS said Tuesday they know nothing about smuggling of cigarets from Colorado into Nebraska. Nebraska Agriculture Director Pearle Finigan said his department has received reports that cigarets are being smuggled into Nebraska from Colorado, which is one of three states without a cigaret tax.

NATION . . .

THE HUNT FOR JURORS for the Jack Ruby murder trial is still continuing. Little progress has been made so far.

FOUR CUBAN FISHING boat captains were convicted Wednesday of violating U.S. waters and paid $50 fines rather than serve six months in jail. Their fish were confiscated. The sentences were handed down by 72-year-old Judge Thomas Caro who warned the captains that if they ever venture too close to Florida shores again their boats may be confiscated.

HEAVYWEIGHT BOXING CHAMPION Sonny Liston promised Dayton fan Timothy Smith on Wednesday will finish Cassius Clay in one to three rounds of their title fight Tuesday. KFOR radio will carry the fight Tuesday evening.

TRIAL OF THE KIDNAPPERS of Frank Sinatra Jr. is continuing in Los Angeles despite the fact that the young singer has left for Europe. Frank Sinatra Sr. has denied that the abduction was a publicity stunt.

Four Buildings Relieve Aging University Hall

In 1888 wearing mortar boards. The townspeople, according to Manley, viewed this as "too much Eastern snobbery brought to campus."

University Hall, already old and worn, was joined in the late 80's by four other buildings. The Chemistry lab was completed in 1886, to be followed closely by Grant Memorial Hall (1888) Nebraska Hall (1889) and a boiler house.

Grant Memorial Hall, constructed for $20,000, is the only one of the buildings from the 80's that remains on the University campus today. It presently serves as the women's physical education building, although it was built for use as a drill hall and gymnasium.

When the lands located near the campus were found to be unfit for agricultural instruction, the farm of Moses Culver, two and one half miles from campus, was purchased by the Board of Regents. The 320 acre tract became the site of The College of Agriculture.

The Agricultural students rode to and from the campus in a wagon. They were expected to work at the farm for their board, but a cartoon in an early student pamphlet shows them playing mumble-ty-peg behind the barn.

Outstate support for the agricultural program, however, was lacking and only six students were registered in the agriculture course in 1884.

The College of Agriculture as such did not exist until many years later, and agriculture students were enrolled in the Industrial College.

The attitude towards farming held by typical students from the totally agricultural state is expressed by Will Owen Jones in THE UNIVERSITY OF NEBRASKA 1889-1919 when he says "Nobody wanted to go back to the farm."

Although the University was not yet a university in the true sense of the word, its growth and advances during the 1880's laid the foundations of higher educational and physical growth. Education was freeing itself from the traditional bonds; at the same time the University was freeing itself from the straightlaced policies of its founders and issuing a promise and a challenge to the future:

"A generation hence shall be
New builders, bold of faith as we;
For millions yet shall crowd these fields,
And claim the best our culture yields."
From "Founder's Day Hymn" by L. A. Sherman,
February 15, 1894.

Countesses Honored; Cherry Trip In Offing

Frank Morrison, Governor of Nebraska, has issued a proclamation declaring the months of January and February as Cadence Countesses months in Nebraska.

The proclamation urges citizens of Nebraska to "do whatever they feel is possible" to help promote the appearance of the Cadence Countesses at the Cherry Blossom Festival in Washington, D.C. It also recognizes the advantages of their appearance in the promotion of the state.

The University girls' precision drill team has been invited to compete in the Festival, but no University or state funds are available to finance the trip. The girls have planned several activities, sales and public appearances to obtain the funds for their trip.

The immediate plans of the girls' group are a trip to Wahoo tonight to perform during a basketball game at half time, a performance at the half time of the Nebraska-

Kansas game on February 24 and a show at Northeast High School on Feb. 29.

The drill team will compete in the National Pershing Rifles Competitive Drill Meet in Champaign, Illinois on March 13, 14 and 15, and the Pershing Rifles Second Regimental Drill Meet in Madison, Wis., on April 17, 18 and 19.

A record sale, car wash and bridge party have also been planned by the Cadence Countesses to raise money for the trip this April.

Weatherwax Gives Report

Loren Weatherwax reported on his trip to the National Young Democrat (YD) Convention in Las Vegas at the YD meeting last night.

Bill Peters, state college coordinator for the YDs, also spoke to the group. He told about some of the history of the organization in Nebraska and outlined their purposes and goals.

Sale of bronze medallions in memory of the late President John Kennedy and prints of his Inaugural Address was also discussed. These items would be sold to provide funds to send the YDs to the state convention in Omaha in April.

A membership drive is now underway and anyone interested in joining the group is encouraged to attend the next meeting, according to President Murry Schaeffer.

Racial Clash Reading Set Sunday Night

"Cry the Beloved Country," the story of human suffering and struggling in modern South Africa, will be presented as a dramatic reading Sunday evening at 6:30 p.m. by the Lutheran Student Foundation.

The story is one of clash between black and white, of poverty and prosperity. "All roads lead to Johannesburg" where old tribal ways are smashed and the white man becomes rich by the black man's labor.

A Negro priest follows the road to Johannesburg in search of his family. He finds them but they are changed by fear, hatred and bitterness. His son is convicted of murder and the Negro priest returns home to continue what he feels is a wasted life.

The story then becomes one of Christian love. The old Negro priest's life is rebuilt with the aid of the father of the victim slain by the son of the Negro priest.

This story is relevant to our society and it shows some unpleasant facts about the human race and about our civilized society.

Flicia Kamai adapted the story from Alan Paton's novel "Cry the Beloved Country." The play will be directed by Wilma Wolfe and will be put on by ten students from the Lutheran Student Association.
