Huskers Face I-State Before Indoor Meet

Nebraska trackmen will host Iowa State tomorrow in the final meet before the Big Eight Conference meet in Kansas City next weekend.

Coach Frank Sevigne will probably use this meet to do some juggling in the lineup. Sevigne said the most likely changes will be Dick Strand running the 880 and Peter Scott in the mile-1,000 double.

Other switches may be Tucker Lillis to the mile, Gil Gebro to the 440 and Dave Crook to the 600. This would be a change-about for Crook and Gebro. In the opening meet, Crook set a Stadium record in the 440 and Gebro set one in the 600.

Fans will get another chance to view the Husker mile relay which broke the Stadium record two weeks ago and the Colorado fieldhouse record last week. Their best time to date is the 3:21.4 clocking at Colorado.

Sevigne said he plans no change in the relay team composed of Gebro, Crook, Strand and Jim Murphy.

A top battle could take place in the 60-yard lows. The Cyclones will send captain Norm Johnston who also runs the highs and high jumps, against the Nebraska trio of Preston Love, Ron Moore and Lynn Headley.

Love won the lows two weeks ago and won the highs at Colorado last week. Moore and Headley did not make the Colorado trek due to injuries. Sophomore Jim Beltzer who has consistently thrown the shot around the 53-foot mark, will be in that event again.

The lineup for the Huskers:
Pole Vault—Juris Jefferson, Larry Steinman
Shot Put—Roland Johnson, Jim Beltzer
High Jump—Jack Cramer, Wesley Paulsen, Bob Polard
Broad Jump—Victor Brooks, Juris Jefferson
Mile Run—Peter Scott, Tucker Lillis, Howard Dash—Kent McCloskey, Lynn Headley
440-yard Run—Dave Crook, Peter Mills
600-yard Run—Gil Gebro, Jim Murphy, George O'Boyle
800-yard Run—Ron Moore, Preston Love
1 mile Run—Larry Toothaker
1600-yard Run—Tucker Lillis, Peter Scott
800-yard Run—Jim Wondt, Dick Strand
440-yard LH—Ron Moore, Preston Love, Lynn Headley

Cage Clash With I-State On Saturday

With only five games left, Nebraska's revived Cornhuskers are now at a crossroad in this season's schedule.

This weekend the Huskers face Iowa State on Saturday and Kansas on Monday in games that could make a big difference in the Big Eight standings.

These two games are the last two home games for Coach Joe Cipriano's cagers who are now 4-5 in conference play. NU's final three tilts are on the road, two of them against the two of the top three teams in the league.

A good showing in these home games could start the Huskers afire again and put them in a better position to break their road jinx.

After two last second losses to Colorado and Kansas State the Cornhuskers have fallen to a sixth-place tie with Missouri.

K-State is currently leading the league with a 7-2 mark, followed by Colorado, 6-3, and Oklahoma State, 5-3.

The Cyclones, who are presently in a tie with Kansas for fourth place, are the hottest team in the loop. Last weekend they knocked-off the Buffaloes and the Cowboys who were then tied with K-State for the lead.

Gymnasts At K-State

Contenders for the Big Eight championship, Nebraska's gymnastic team goes against Kansas State today in Manhattan.

Coach Jake Geier explained that a dual meet consists of seven events.

Leading off the meet is floor exercise. Each contestant is allowed 40 square feet of floor and a minute to do a routine. Tumbling, strength, and balance movements are all included.

Second event is the trampoline followed by the side-horses. There is no time limit on the routine but they should include at least ten moves said Mr. Geier.

The horizontal bar, parallel bar, and rings all have no time limit but again, ten different moves must be included.

Concluding a dual meet is the tumbling event. This event uses a 60 foot mat and the contestant is allowed a minute and a half to do a routine. The routine includes four trips down the mat.

Scoring a gymnastics meet is somewhat complicated. Mr. Geier said that four judges score each event on the basis of a 10 point high. After all four scores for a contestant are obtained, the highest and lowest scores are discarded. The two remaining numbers are averaged together and the result is the contestant's score for the event.

In a dual, each team is allowed three entries in each event.

Nebraska's gymnasts will be preparing the next three weeks for the Big Eight Conference meet in Ames, Iowa Mar. 13-14.

SO FAR THIS YEAR — These are the trophies won by the gymnastics squad, consisting of Harry Howard, Francis Allen, Dennis Albers, Tom Stizman, Bill Pfeiff, and Coach Jake Geier.

How's Your Rubber Tire?

In this the sixth round of the 10-round title match for graduation, I find myself still in school (a noteworthy feat), still employed, almost 21 (next Friday is the big day — don't look for a column), and worst of all — about 20 pounds overweight.

For us folks nearing obese proportions these whitticisms float out way:

—“How's that rubber tire around your waist?”

—A smirky, “Putting on a little weight, aren't you? Yuk, Yuk!”

—“Say, those pants look a little small for you.”

—“Can I tie your shoe strings for you?”

—Or just a straightforward, “You look terrible!” from the guy who struts around with all-America proportions but couldn't cut a square out of a piece of chalk for all the Charles Atlas books in Love Library.

Of course, there are steps to take to alleviate ridicule. You can start smoking (to cut down on between meal tidbits but increase cancer), quit eating lunch (but run out of things to do at noon) or cut down the beer-drinking (if you stay at home on the weekends).

But if you can't see your belt buckle in the mirror, the best thing to do is invest in a sweat suit, buy some handball gloves and roll (meant literally) over to the Coliseum or Field House for a workout. (You were probably wondering about this time what this little ditty was doing on the sports page.)

“If you play handball three times a week,” says a respected university handball addict, “I guarantee you'll be in top shape within a month.”

One must, however, sacrifice in the early going. A couple of comrades took their first turn at the game the other day and came out with sore muscles “from the top of my stomach to my knees,” one said, puffing on a cigarette.

Another is still limping from blisters sustained in his first game since the start of the second semester, played last week.

So if you are fat, chubby, corpulent, plump, paunchy, rotund, blessed with an overabundance of flesh in unsightly spots, feel run down, depressed. Take heed and give handball a go. According to the experts, it's great.

Notes . . .

Kansas coach Dick Harp will retire from coaching at the end of this season and enter the ministry, according to a usually reliable source.

Over the years Harp has been active in Christian athletic associations.

. . . It's been a tough season for Joel Kortus. After playing 15 games of clutch basketball for coach Joe Cipriano, the 6-3 junior appears out for the season with a bad knee, reinjured in practice last week.

. . . Speaking of basketball, Saturday and Monday are the last times Cornhusker followers will get a look at their surprising team. Iowa State has been playing the upset role of the Huskers lately. The Cyclones who knocked off Oklahoma State and Colorado, both formerly atop the standings, sneak into Lincoln for the Saturday contest.

Devaney Gets Big Task

Bob Devaney, NU football coach, has been given a difficult assignment.

A. James Ebel, Nebraska Centennial Chairman, with tongue in cheek, announced that Devaney was appointed to a Centennial sub-committee to try to secure a spot on nation television on January 1, 1967.

Ebel emphasized the importance of the Nebraska football team appearing in a major bowl game on that date.

Devaney was advised that “the Commission certainly wants you, as a committee,
