

Gebo, Brooks Star; Huskers Place 6th

It was a long night for Nebraska's track squad as they watched the Missouri Tigers win the Big Eight Indoor Championship Saturday night in Kansas City.

Plagued by injuries and bad luck, Nebraska, the defending champion, could only muster sixth place, beating K-State and Iowa State. Missouri piled up a substantial 57 points to win over Kansas who garnered 47 points—the same number of points Nebraska won with last winter.

The two brightest spots for the Huskers were Victor Brooks who won the broad jump with a 24-2½ leap and captain Gil Gebo who won the 600 yard run in 1:11.6.

It seemed from the start that the Huskers could not get rolling. The short distances, where their strength could have come, were lost mainly through injury.

Ron Moore was the only NU hurdler to qualify for the finals. Preston Love and Lynn Headley both had trouble with injuries. Moore qualified in the highs and lows but turned up lame for the finals and scratched from the events. Colorado's Jim Miller won both races.

Kent McCloughan got a slow start out of the blocks in the semi-finals of the 60 and thus failed to qualify for the finals. Defending champion Rick Beldner of Missouri took the gold medal in :06.2.

The middle distances, where the Tigers picked up a lot of points, were disastrous for Nebraska.

On Friday night they failed to qualify anyone for either the 1,000 or 800-yard runs.

Dave Crook, after qualifying for the 440 with ease on Friday, drew the inside lane for the finals. He got boxed in on the first lap and never did recover as O-State's Jack Miller won with a :50 time.

The 600 saw Gebo win and Dick Strand finish sixth. Strand, like Crook, was the victim of circumstances. Starting the second lap, someone stepped on his shoe and it was wrenched off his foot, forcing the junior runner to complete the race with only one shoe.

Missouri dominated the mile and Kansas the two mile. Robin Lingle, famed Tiger runner, handily won the mile and equaled the 1,000 yard run record of 2:11.6. John Lawson of Kansas won the two mile in 9:14.4.

In the field events, Nebraska took a fourth in the shot put in addition to Brooks' first place broad jump. Jim Beltzer tossed the shot 53-4¼.

The only record set during the meet was in the pole vault. Floyd Manning of Kansas and Missouri's Bill Younger both cleared 15-8 to better the old record of 15-7¼. Both vaulters thrilled the crowd as each apparently had cleared 16 feet only to have the bar topple off. First place was awarded to Manning, who had fewer misses at 15.3.

The mile relay composed of McCloughan, Strand, Crook and Gebo was second to Oklahoma State's fleet crew. The Huskers defeated the Cowboys in Lincoln a few weeks ago and the O-State coach prophesied that Nebraska would not beat his mile relay again.

NU Cagers Gymnasts Get Lumps Win Pair

Nebraska suffered a jolt in its chances for a first division finish in the Big Eight conference.

Oklahoma State's Cowboys took an 81-45 decision to drop the Huskers to a 5-7 loop mark.

David Wright led all scoring with 21 for Oklahoma State before 4,500 fans at Stillwater Saturday night.

The Huskers were outshot by the Cowpokes 45 per cent to 41 per cent, and were completely beaten in the rebounding department. Bob Antulov led the NU rebounders with eight grabs.

Charlie Jones was the Husker to score more than 5, as he hit 13 on 6 field goals and 1 of three free throws.

Nebraska stays in Oklahoma and faces the University of Oklahoma Monday night at Norman.
