

WEEK IN REVIEW

CAMPUS . . .

A RECORD 11,156 spring semester students are attending the University. This represents a 10.8 per cent increase from this time last year.

A CONSTRUCTION WORKER, Glenn A. Lybarger, was killed last Thursday while working on the new men's dorm at 17th and Vine.

JUNIOR WOMEN will have an extension of hours, effective next fall. The action, allowing junior women 11 p.m. hours on week days, was passed by Associated Women's Students Board Tuesday.

COED FOLLIES revealed the Chi Omega skit as the winner. Alpha Chi Omega won the travelers act competition. Nancy Holmquist was named Ideal Nebraska Coed and John Lonnquist received the Ideal Collegiate Man title.

CITY . . .

THE LINCOLN HOUSING Authority committee Wednesday recommended the authority sponsor a pilot project of two blocks in which substandard units would be eliminated, standard units preserved and new low-cost housing provided. If the six-to-one ratio of income to rent is accepted as prescribed by the Housing Authority Act, there exists a need in Lincoln for 4,412 dwelling units renting for less than $50 per month. No site has been pinpointed for the project.

THE BEER-LIQUOR Policy liberalization which has been proposed to the City Council was deferred Monday until the Police Department's enforcement costs can be ascertained by a special Council committee. The proposal would allow off-sale beer and package liquor outlets in "permissible suburban areas outside of downtown Lincoln and Havelock."

STATE . . .

GOVERNOR FRANK MORRISON filed a petition Wednesday and officially announced his plans to be a candidate for a third term as Nebraska's chief executive. Two other persons have filed for the gubernatorial nomination. They are Tony Mangiamelli and Charles Bates.

FOUR CANDIDATES have filed for the GOP gubernatorial nomination. They are Lt. Gov. Dwight Burney of Hartington, Leo N. Bartunek of Lincoln, Roland L. Ehlers of Omaha and Albert E. Hahn of Grand Island.

MRS. TERRY CARPENTER of Scottsbluff, wife of Sen. Terry Carpenter, will file for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor. Mrs. Carpenter said that she will not be directed by her husband if she is elected. Carpenter is a Republican.

NEBRASKANS will have nearly $12 million in additional spending money under the new federal income tax law, Richard Vinal, district director for the Internal Revenue Service said. The estimate, he said, is based on actual 1963 collections for amounts withheld from wages and amounts paid on declarations of estimated tax, compared with anticipated collections from the same sources under the new law.

NATIONAL . . .

THE SENATE yesterday narrowly defeated a bill which would have limited the cattle importation. The Johnson Administration worked feverishly to defeat the beef import amendment offered by Senator Roman Hruska.

TEAMSTERS PRESIDENT James Hoffa was convicted Wednesday along with three other men on charges of trying to fix the jury which heard Hoffa's conspiracy trial in Nashville in 1962. Hoffa announced that he would appeal the case. He faces up to ten years in prison and $10,000 in fines if the convictions, on two charges, stand up.

YR's Hear Russillo, Thompson Duel Over Nebraska Politics

Sen. Michael Russillo presented his reasons for favoring a bipartisan legislature to the Young Republicans (YRs) last night, then matched politics in a light hearted but at the same time serious duel with Sen. Don Thompson.

Russillo blamed the individuality of each of the senators for the sectionalism for which Nebraska has become noted. "Each senator can be a king and each is a king."

In a series of reasons that the present non political legislature should be revised, Russillo included: the lack of contact between the Governor and the legislature; the number of unopposed candidates for the legislature; the lack of continuity between the legislatures; the drawing of older, more established men to the legislature hindering the development of leaders and the failure of the senators to become important in other facets of state politics. "You have to be for something," he said in conclusion, "or you are neuter. Our present system is neuter."

YR President Chuck Peek then introduced Sen. Thompson, GOP candidate for lieutenant governor. During the next half hour the senator from Omaha and the senator from McCook sparred happily over various issues over which they agree and disagree.

On the representation laws, Thompson emphasized that the present system which will give some weight to land area does not give votes to "fence posts and cattle" but in reality protects the rights of the minority.

Russillo answered that he firmly believed in the idea of equal rights and representation.

The senators concurred on the value of Nebraska's education. Russillo said that a recent survey shows that Nebraska has more high school and college graduates per capita than Iowa.

Thompson agreed that Nebraska education is successful. "Otherwise, how could so many well trained people be leaving the state?"

Committeeman Lists '64 Campaign Issues

Ted Muenster, national committeeman of the Democratic party outlined the probable issues for the 1964 campaign at a Young Democrat (YD) meeting last night.

"The Republicans will probably try to bring out the national economy," said Muenster. He stressed that the gross national product was over $600 million, corporate profits were at an all-time high, the stock market was strong and the $11 billion tax cut would release more spending money.

Fiscal policy was the second issue that Muenster felt the Republicans would stress. "The gross national product has increased 135% over that of 1947 while the national debt has increased only 17%," said the national committeeman.

He felt that the agriculture problem would be another issue but said that the proposal to limit import of foreign beef would not help the market. "The meat producers must realize that American agriculture is capable of over-producing the market," he said.

Other issues he thought the Republicans would bring out are social and economic needs of the people, civil rights, education and foreign affairs.

He said the biggest thorn in the side of the Democrats would be foreign affairs.

In their business meeting, Loren Weatherwax announced that the YDs are selling medallions with the engraving of the late President Kennedy and copies of Kennedy's inaugural address.

The Schiller Linden was planted in 1905 in memory of the great German poet on the centennial of his birth. The marker was placed in position when the tree was planted, but was torn away by vandals during the First World War. It was replaced in 1933. Manley calls the first years of the twentieth century "the golden years of the University." It was at this time that the school began the process of modernization, but at the same time, discovered a pattern of difficulties, which with a few variations, remains to this day.
