—MANUFACTURERS CANCEL—
 No Cigarette Ads Causes Problems

Cigarettes are threatening to go up in a puff of smoke on college campuses.

Columnist Max Schulman, long time writer of columns in college newspapers, is now without a job. He wrote columns for Marlboro Cigarette.

Only last April Schulman completed his ninth year of writing this column. His column has appeared in the DAILY NEBRASKAN.

Pressured by the Federal government, PTA groups and school administrators, the National Association of Cigarette Manufacturers agreed to voluntarily cancel all tobacco advertising in scholastic media.

The Grand Prix and Winston quizzes fell prey to the same fate. Free samples are out too.

The measure came as a surprise to some college publication business managers. The DAILY NEBRASKAN lost approximately $3,500 in cigarette advertising in the current year, according to John Zeilinger, business manager.

THE DAILY TEXAN cried that the resultant budget cutbacks would prove a severe financial burden and could cause a reduction in reader services.

Most college publications derive the major share of their income from advertising and the revenue loss in many cases can only be balanced by increasing fees assessed on the student readers.

Several universities with salaried news staffs are expected to return their news operations to a volunteer basis.

The sale of cigarettes has been banned on the Kansas University campus by a recent decision of the Board of Regents there, according to the DAILY KANSAN.

The order came after a report by the associate professor of surgery at the KU Medical Center. The sale of cigarettes will be banned in all university buildings, residence halls and the union, according to L. C. Woodruff, dean of students. "We have no immediate jurisdiction over the fraternity and sorority houses," he said.

Unicameral Adds Six; 175 File For Election

EDITORS NOTE: This is the first of a series of stories on candidates running for state offices in Nebraska. Coming are articles on senatorial candidates.

Over 175 persons have filed for Nebraska's redistricted legislature election in November. There are now six more unicameral seats to be contested, bringing the total to 49 districts.

Three more senators will represent the Omaha area, two more in the Lincoln area and one more in the Norfolk area. The last session's redistricting action gave more emphasis to population representation.

Incumbants are lacking in fourteen districts while incumbants J. W. Burbach, Richard Marvel, Elvin Adamson and George Gerdes will be running unopposed.

One of the prominent legislators stepping down this year is Hal Bridenbaugh of Dakota City who represented Dixon and Thurston counties. Bridenbaugh was on the rules committee, budget committee, intergovernmental cooperation committee and committee on committees during the last session.

All committee chairmen are returning except William Brandt of Unadilla who heads the Salaries and claims committee.

District filings:
First District — Calista Hughes of Humboldt, Floyd Pohlman of Auburn, Jack McGrath of Crab Orchard and Bill Price of Pawnee City.
Second District — Rick Budd of Nebraska City, Frank Sorrell of Syracuse and Carl Swanson of Waverly.
Third District — Incumbant Dale Payne from Omaha who served on the salaries and claims and government and military affairs committees at the last session will oppose Waldo Shallcross of Bellevue.
Fourth District — Lawrence Shaw, Henry Pedersen, Richard Dustin, Milton Soskin, Woodrow Fleming and George Abdouch, all of Omaha.
Fifth District — Incumbant Eugene Mahoney who served on the banking, commerce and insurance and miscellan-ous subjects committees and as chairman of the enrollment and review committee.

Sixth District — Salvatore Tauro, Wallace Rankin, Frank Riha, Harold Kelly, Harry Roach, Harold Moylan and Arthur Hanson all of Omaha.
Seventh District — Incumbant William Skarda from Omaha who served on the banking, commerce and insurance committee, committee on committees, intergovernmental cooperation and miscellaneous subjects committees to oppose Archie Wilfong of Omaha.
Eighth District — James Beveridge, George Grunberg, David Stahmer, William Kirkman, Dale Hooker, Alice White, Harry Foster, Edward Lund, Pat Moulton, Robert Daley, H. L. Patterson, Donald Patterson, Charles Rogers, Albert Marcell and George Duncan all of Omaha.
Ninth District — Incumbant Sam Klaver will have six opponents in November. Nick Pillege, Gerald Mathews, Edward Mertz, John McMahon, V. Deutsch Sullivan and E. Tom Gumbert, all of Omaha, have filed. Klaver was chairman of the public health committee and served on the committee on committees and the labor and public welfare committee in the last term.
Tenth District — Clifton Batchelder, Cliff Ogden, Allen Pirsch, Art McMahon, Robert Gehringer, Robert Bevins and Thomas Nybbell, all of Omaha.
Eleventh District — Edward Danner seeking re-election, served on the education, labor and public welfare and public health committees in the last session. Roy White, Hezekiah Stewart, and Ralph Adams will oppose Danner, who is from Omaha.
Twelfth District — Edwin Rehder and William Briza of Ralston, Richard Proud, Lola Popken and Charles Bystrek of Omaha, William Cole of Irvington and George Woodward of Valley have filed.
Thirteenth District — George Syas, a member since 1951, served on the agriculture and committee on committees while heading the miscellaneous subjects committee. He will be opposed by M. N. Mitchell also of Omaha.

Fourteenth District — Otto Bromm of Tekamah, B. F. Lundt of Blair, C. W. Holmquist of Oakland and Paul Christensen of Lyons have filed.
