

—NINE LEADERS TO ARRIVE—

Masters Program Begins Sunday

The second annual Masters Program will begin Sunday with the arrival of nine of the nation's leaders in business, law, government and education who are united by the common fact that they all are former students of the University.

Two of the originally scheduled Masters, Herbert Brownell Jr. and Allen Sutherland, were forced to cancel their returns to the University earlier this week because of personal reasons.

The Masters Program, started last year by Student Council in cooperation with administration, will feature this year the first woman Master, Dr. Ruth Leverton and the first Nebraska Master, Val Peterson. Another new feature of the 1964 Masters Program is the inclusion of the Masters' wives to speak to women's living units.

The Masters and their positions are Miss Leverton, a leader in home economics and nutrition; Peterson, former governor of Nebraska and Regent of the University; Merle Jones, president of CBS owned stations; Harry Letton, senior vice president and board member of Southern California Gas Company.

Arthur Bryan, president of Union Carbide Consumer Products Division; J. Kenneth Cozier, president of the Cozier Container Company; Edward Stanley, director of public affairs for NBC; Samuel Waugh, former president of the Export-Import Bank; and Robert Hardt, chairman of the board of the American Pharmaceutical Company.

Miss Leverton will address the Honors Convocation at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday in the Coliseum with the other Masters attending as honored guests.

During the two days that they are at the University, the Masters will speak to houses and organizations, tour the University, visit with students and attend classes. All students are invited to approach the individual Masters with questions or topics for discussion.

John Lydick, chairman of the Masters Program, emphasized that the program is for the benefit of the students, so that they can "talk about life and how to make a go of it."

Lydick told the DAILY NEBRASKAN that the program was suggested by Chancellor Clifford Hardin, who participated in a similar program at Purdue University. Other Big Eight Conference schools are currently working on masters programs styled after the University's, he said.

CAMPUS . . .

DR. GEORGE YOUNG, nationally known veterinary scientist from the University, died unexpectedly of a heart attack at his office Friday. He was 47 years old and was chairman of the department of veterinary science.

AN ATTEMPT by over 500 students to submit a massive constitutional change to the spring Student Council ballot met its final defeat Friday at the hands of the faculty committee on Student Affairs.

DR. CLYDE HYDE, professor and chairman of the electrical engineering department, resigned this week from the University. D. Robert Koehl, professor of history, also announced resignation plans.

KAREN NELSEN was elected president of the University Young Democrats. She is the first woman to hold this position.

PREPARATIONS have been in the making for the visit of nine Masters to the University to participate in the Masters Program. They will arrive Sunday and programs will begin Monday.

CITY . . .

THE "NO WORK" RUMBLE AT THE STATE PENITENTIARY ended Tuesday with unconditional surrender by the 165 inmates who went on strike Monday morning. The balking inmates sent notes to the warden late Tuesday morning asking to return to work in order to end the administration-imposed "no-work, no-eat" edict. The sit-down followed the escape and recapture of five inmates last weekend. The escape hole burrowed through the prison cell caused Warden Sigler to cancel all yard privileges Sunday which was the cause given by inmates for the Monday night strike.

A LINCOLN ATTORNEY has denounced the City Council's redefinition of family, which affects student housing, as being unconstitutional. Student Council is now seeking out students who will be affected by the action of the Council.

STATE . . .

THE TASK OF COUNTING more than 13 thousand signatures petitioning for the recall of Mayor James Dworak began Monday. The Mayor announced that he would not go to court to stop the recall election.

THE NEBRASKA AND IOWA Boundary Commission formally agreed Friday to make the center of the stabilized Missouri River channel the boundary between the two states. The action was the first formal move of the joint commission.

FEBRUARY RETAIL SALES registered a 4.8 per cent gain over a year earlier and a 2.4 per cent jump over January, a University publication reported Wednesday.

GOVERNOR FRANK MORRISON observed Arbor Day by planting an evergreen in the yard of the Mansion Wednesday morning. Arbor Day, which was originated at Nebraska City, is one of 11 official state holidays in Nebraska. The State Capitol closed for the day.

NATION . . .

PRESIDENT JOHNSON announced settlement Wednesday night of the five-year-old railroad work rules dispute. The settlement, which requires ratification by the five unions involved, removes the threat of a nationwide rail stoppage scheduled to start at 12:01 tomorrow.

THE BILLION-DOLLAR NEW YORK WORLD'S FAIR got off to a dismal start Wednesday, beset by a cold, relentless rain and besieged by hundreds of surging, shouting, persistent racial demonstrators. There were 294 arrests made as police battled civil rights crusaders.

A FIRE IN AN IDLE SUBWAY shuttle train beneath Grand Central Terminal burst into an inferno of smoke and flame Tuesday, buckling heavy steel beams and threatening a pavement collapse along busy 42nd Street. Six firemen suffered minor injuries. No passengers were involved.

Dancer Presents Recital

"I regard as my mission to breach the gap between the East and West through my dancing," said Vija Vetra, the dancer, choreographer and teacher who will present a dance recital tonight at 8 p.m. at University Theatre. Miss Vetra will present a program of Indian, Spanish and modern contemporary dances. The thirteen selections will include "Pushpanjali," "Radha," and "Kurati" which are traditional Indian music selections.

Spanish selections will include: "Allegrias," "Seguiriyas," and "Farruca."

Miss Vetra, sponsored by the Latvian Association of America and Canada, recently returned from a 14 month overseas concert and study tour.

Miss Vetra toured India on a "personal cultural mission." She gave dance recitals, TV performances and lecture demonstrations in New Delhi and Madras. She also performed in Rome and toured Spain.

In London Miss Vetra appeared as a principal dancer at the Sadler's Wells Theatre in the opera "Carmen" where she also was invited to instruct the Opera Ballet Company in Spanish dancing.

In Switzerland she toured as soloist and partner to famous Ram Gopal, with his Indian Ballet Company.

Members of Miss Vetra's group who will appear with

Students Plan Petition On Housing Decision

By Wallis Lundeen
Junior Staff Writer
The housing ordinance passed by the Lincoln City Council to regulate the number of students who may live in a family dwelling may be unconstitutional, according to Lincoln attorney Robert Guenzel.

The ordinance which was passed primarily because of the traffic problem, was based on one complaint to the police department, several complaints to the Lincoln City Council and the recommendation of the city Planning Department.

Any student who is affected by the ruling is asked to leave his name in the Student Council office, 232 Student Union.

The Student Welfare Committee is planning to petition the City Council in opposition to the ruling. Student support would aid the committee's efforts, said Bob Kerrey.

Guenzel said he believes that the ordinance is right in wishing to do something about the traffic situation, but it is going about it in the wrong way. A regulation to keep cars off the street, or to prevent noise after a certain hour would be more constitutional legislation, he said.

John Comstock, city councilman, said there were people at Monday's city council hearing who complained about traffic and noise, but, in his view "they were no sign of a majority."

Comstock also said the Planning Department was concerned. Robert Holsinger, Traffic Engineer, said he did not present his view at the meeting, and he did not know if he affected the decision. He said he was concerned about the residential areas, where there is available off-street parking for only one car. When several students live in residential areas, they must park their cars on the street, and this creates "undesirable effects," he said.

The effect on the housing program of the University was discussed with University officials before the decision was made, Comstock said. Carl Donaldson, business manager, appeared at the council meeting, but he did not give a definite opinion, according to Comstock.

Ralph Nelson, city attorney, restated the ruling, saying the decision affected areas zoned for single family, two-family or four-family homes.

The ruling does not include areas zoned for multiple dwellings which includes apartments, boarding houses, lodging houses, sororities, fraternities or cooperatives.

He said any student is welcome to come to his office at any time and discuss the ruling, the zoning laws or the areas to which the law applies.

Quiz Bowl Final Will Leave Five

The five winning teams and four to twelve members of other teams will compete Sunday at 2:30 p.m. in four matches to determine who will be on the team for the Big Eight Quiz Bowl, according to Dan Wherry, Quiz Bowl committee member. team will consist of four members and two alternates. According to Wherry, these team members will be selected for their past performance, Sunday performance and fields of knowledge.

Model Resusci Anne Mistaken For Kappa

By Marilyn Hoegemeyer
Reporter
Hey fellas, change your major to P.E. A beautiful, shapely, blonde Norwegian may appear in your classes. Her name is Anne—Resusci Anne.

This Norwegian dish, a life-like demonstration doll leads a very busy life says Miss Celeste Knipmeyer her chaperone and overseer.

Resusci Anne is used in nursing schools, physical education and Red Cross classes to show the proper way to give artificial respiration. The University's Resusci Anne has several thousand sisters—just like her. The first model was developed in Norway four or five years ago. Miss Knipmeyer, who has charge of Resusci Anne at Student Health, said there are four or five models in Lincoln.

Resusci Anne is so lifelike many persons have been scared that someone had passed out when they saw her lying in the classroom.

"She reacts just like a human," said Miss Knipmeyer, her chest rises when you breathe into her. Unless you have her head held back properly and her throat is clear you cannot force air into her lungs.

Resusci Anne comes all packed up in a suitcase. Her legs, arms and trunk must be inflated which can be done in 3 or 4 minutes. Her head, neck, hands and chest are of pliable rubber.

Recently Resusci Anne made a trip to the Kappa Kappa Gamma house donned appropriately in slacks and an N.U. sweatshirt. "Is she dead?" asked one of the girls who believed Resusci Anne to be Nancy Anderson. The girl tore off her coat and knelt down before she realized it was a dummy.

Some of the girls thought Connie Rasmussen, the evening's demonstrator, had blown Resusci Anne up too heavy!

Fellas, if you can't switch majors to P.E., there's another way to have the beautiful, shapely, blonde Norwegian in your life. Resusci Anne is loaned out for demonstra-

Girls Groan; Dorm Lacks Water Flow

By Kay Rood
Junior Staff Writer
Imagine not being able to wash, take a shower, brush your teeth, use restroom facilities, wash your hair, or get a drink of water.

This is the dilemma in which the residents of Piper, Raymond, Love and Heppner Halls found themselves yesterday. "All Water Off for Repair Work—Sorry" read little green signs throughout the dorm.

According to Mrs. Ruth Meierhenry, manager of the Residence Halls for Women the water was turned off at 9 a.m. to repair a leak in the main water line close to the main valve.

One resident returned to her room covered with baby oil after several hours of sunning to find that the showers weren't working and there was no way to wash the oil off. And she had a class in 15 minutes.

Another girl returned to the dorm after her swimming class, hair string straight and wind-dried, to find that her coiffure could not be reset, at least until the water came back on.

Hall residents filled the showers in Pound Hall because it was the only place left to go. Girls spent nickles and dimes for Cokes because there was no water for coffee and the drinking fountains were dry.

But at 3 p.m. the sink faucets gurgled, the shower pipes sputtered, and the water fountains spewed forth again. And now there is water everywhere.
