Service Will Be Saturday

Dr. Cypreansen Dies Of Cancer

A memorial service for Dr. Lucile Cypreansen, 60, head of the University's speech and hearing clinic who died Friday, will be held Saturday noon at the United Campanus Christian house. The Reverend Carol Lemon will officiate. Miss Cypreansen, who died of cancer, had been selected by the 1964 Cornhusker as a recipient of one of its outstanding service awards. She had received the citation just a week ago.

A Cypreansen Scholarship Fund is being established at the University Foundation. Anyone who wishes to may contribute to this fund.

In her nineteen years at the University, she worked with over 1000 children in her job as supervisor of the speech and hearing clinic. She assisted with the training of several hundred speech therapists and teachers in special education. She was an associate professor of speech and dramatic art.

Last year Miss Cypreansen was selected as a U.S. representative to the World Congress of the Rehabilitation of the Disabled in Copenhagen, but she could not attend because of illness. She was presented the "Who's Crippled Award" in 1955 by the National Society for Crippled Children.

As a graduate assistant at the University, she helped to establish the speech and hearing clinic program in 1942. She received her Master's in 1942 and became a member of the faculty in 1945. Her Ph.D. was gained at Syracuse University in 1952.

Phi Gamma Delta Housemother Dies

Mrs. Gertrude Louise Thomas, Phi Gamma Delta housemother, died yesterday of a coronary. The former Kearney resident had been hospitalized for 10 days.

Mrs. Thomas had been housemother in the Women's Residence Hall for two years previous to her term with the Phi Gamma Delta house. She had also been a housemother at Kearney State College.

Mrs. Thomas was a member of P.E.O. and Housemother's Club.

She is survived by one sister, Mrs. Helen Skold of Kearney and two sons, John of Boston and Tom of Kearney.

Quiz Bowl Completed; Big Eight Team Sought

Saturday featured the quiz bowl finals in which five out of the last ten teams were eliminated. The order of the five remaining teams will be determined by total point accumulation and announced later.

The five teams are Kappa Alpha Theta, Beta Theta Pi, Outcasts of Campus Flats, Farmhouse, and Delta Sigma Phi.

Yesterday, competition for the quiz bowl all-star team was held in which the members of the above five teams plus twelve other outstanding members from other teams took part. These individuals were divided at random into eight teams.

Those competing in yesterday's games were Jane Crabb, Joann Strateman and James McCall representing Kappa Alpha Theta; Jim Gleason and Terry Vogt from Beta Theta Pi; Ron Rogowski, David Kittams, Gerald Patrick and Bob Cherny from the Outcasts of Campus Flats; Tom Greer, Tom Trauthen, Don Hanway and Jerry Wilkins from Farmhouse; and Lawrence Rogers, Steve Knee, and Gregory Kropp from Delta Sigma Phi.

The other twelve which were picked at large were Bill Buckley, Sigma Nu; Mike Barton, Phi Kappa Psi; Cathy Origer, Pharmacy; Norm Rosenberg; Sigma Alpha Mu; Harry Andrews, Sigma Nu; Joane Spivy, Heppner Hall; Garry Watzke, IF's; Dave Wilhelm, Pharmacy; Doug Smith, Theta Xi pledges; Paul Connley, Theta Chi; Dave Roberts, Kappa Sigma; and Jim Moore, WLR's.

From these 29, a team of four plus two alternates will be chosen for the all-star team which will compete in the Big Eight quiz bowl meet held May 9 in Oklahoma City. These six will be chosen on the basis of past performance, on how well they answered the questions yesterday, and also by their fields of interest and their majors.

The questions stressed literature and history with minor stresses on art, music and current events. A tally was kept of every question made and the field the question pertained to.

The question committee composed of Doctor Donald Olson, associate professor of speech, and Albert Book, associate professor of journalism, spent many long hours deriving these comprehensive questions.

Olson was also the quiz bowl moderator and previously trainer of the G. E.

College Quiz Bowl team. Barb Pandzik, a member of Gamma Phi Beta, also deserved mention for the many long hours and the terrific job she did typing the questions.

One interesting development occurred Saturday and Sunday when a participant, Ron Rogowski, was confined to Student Health. The problem was overcome by letting him answer questions by telephone.

Breakfast Introduces Masters

The Masters Program began officially this morning with an inaugural breakfast as the nine distinguished former-University students met Chancellor Clifford Hardin.

During the day the Masters will tour the University, hold a press conference and lunch with their student guides. Tonight they are on special speaking assignments to various living units.

The Masters are Dr. Ruth Leverton, Washington D.C.; Val Peterson, Hastings; Merle Jones, New York City; J. Kenneth Cozier, Cleveland; Edward Stanley, New York City; Samuel Waugh, Washington D.C.

Lodge Bid Sought

Students wishing to endorse Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge as the Republican choice for President in the Young Republican Rally May 7th will meet tomorrow at 7 p.m. in the Union north party room.

Nate Holman, state chairman of Nebraskans for Lodge, will speak, and plans for the rally will be discussed.

Persons interested in supporting Lodge should contact Ken Lanka or Doug Paine.

Linda Hall, national committeewoman of Young Republicans (YR), recently tendered her resignation. This created a vacancy in the YR executive council. Persons interested in filling this position must submit an application to the executive council or President Bill Harding.

Finalists Named For Pub Board

Six finalists have been named for the Subcommittee on Student Publications by a Student Council preliminary interviewing committee.

Seniors are Jim Moore and Karen Gunlicks. Juniors named were Cuz Guenzel and Karen Johnson while sophomore nominees are Kelley Baker and Chuck Sayre.

Student Council will select one senior, junior and sophomore for the finalists at their regular Wednesday meeting. Present Pub Board members are Maurine Frolk, Miss Gunlicks and Miss Guenzel. The interviewing committee was composed of Buzz Brashers, Susie Segrist, Susie Pierce and Gary Oye.

HONORS CONVOCATION

Boucher Awards To 3

Three senior students will receive the C. W. Boucher Memorial Awards for scholastic excellence at the University's Honors Convocation tomorrow at the Coliseum.

One hundred sixty-five seniors will be honored for superior scholarship and another 564 students for high scholarship.

Linda Larson will be given the award for the senior with the highest cumulative grade average. Her average is 8.649. James Davis will be honored as the ROTC candidate for an officer's commission with the highest four-year average. His average is 7.5.

Richard Callahan will receive an award for the senior athletic letterman in a major sport with the highest cumulative average. His average is 6.468.

The convocation will begin at 10:30 a.m. in the Coliseum with Dr. Ruth Leverton, associate director of the Institute of Home Economics, U.S. Department of Agriculture, as principal speaker. Dr. Leverton appears in conjunction with the Masters Program. Her topic is "And Miles To Go."

The University Foundation will present two distinguished teaching awards—one in the field of science and technology and the other in social sciences and humanities. Each award includes a $1000 stipend and a medallion.

Miss Larson is majoring in psychology in the College of Arts and Sciences. She has received a $2700 fellowship to attend graduate school at the University of Wisconsin. She has been elected to Phi Beta Kappa, Phi Mu Epsilon, Phi Sigma Iota, Psi Chi and Alpha Lambda Delta honoraries. She was elected to Mortar Boards and served as vice-president of Tassels.

Davis is majoring in mathematics in the College of Arts and Sciences. Following military service, he plans to become an actuary for an insurance company. He was elected to Phi Beta Kappa, Phi Mu Epsilon and Phi Eta Sigma honoraries.

Callahan is a senior in business administration. He lettered in football four years and has participated in intramural sports. He was a member of the all Big-8 scholastic first team and the Scholastic All-American second team for athletics. He was a regional winner of the Sigma Chi Balfour award.

Chancellor C. M. Hardin will preside at the convocation; and the Rev. Dr. Ford Forsyth, pastor of the First Plymouth Congregational Church, will serve as chaplain. Professor Emanuel Wishnow will direct the University Symphonic Orchestra.

Med Student Wins Grant

Gerald Freedman, junior student at the University College of Medicine, has been awarded one of the ten SAMA-Sears Preceptor-Scholarships for 1964. The winners were announced by Russell Staudacher, executive director of the Student American Medical Association.

The junior student will take his preceptorship with Dr. Robert Adams and Dr. Joseph Powell at Chetok, Wis., from July 1-Aug. 31.

Suzanne Young Named Queen

E-Week Starts With Open House

E-Week, annual University event sponsored by the Colleges of Architecture and Engineering, begins Thursday, bringing with it an open house, a convocation, a banquet and a queen.

Suzanne Young, University sophomore art major in Teacher's College, was selected Miss E-Week of 1964 by students of the College of Architecture.

Some 7000 visitors are expected on the campus to view student displays and demonstrations depicting engineering principles and new developments in the various fields.

Students who constructed the displays will be on hand at the open house from 2 to 10 p.m. Thursday to demonstrate their models to the public.

Some of the highlights this year include devices to purify liquids such as water; the remote control of model ships in a large water tank; a student-built digital computer; balancing forces on an engine; a wind tunnel showing the lift on a baseball; and other displays in sanitation, hydraulics, rocketry and heat transfer.

The E-Week open house is held each year by the students of the College of Engineering and Architecture to give the public a better appreciation of new developments in their fields and to interest high school students in their profession.

Visitors to the Thursday open house will be routed through the campus by signs from the starting point immediately east of Architectural Hall on R street.

The annual E-Week convocation will be held at 11:30 a.m. Friday in Love Library auditorium. W. J. Hergenrader, a University graduate and executive with the Seymour Filter Co., will speak on the "Added Dimension."

The annual E-Week awards banquet will be held in the Lincoln Hotel, 7:30 p.m. Friday to honor the outstanding engineering and architecture students at the University.

IT BEATS GRANDPA'S — George Corke is demonstrating a smoke ring machine which blows bigger and better rings than Grandpa ever dreamed of. The machine is a part of the E-Week displays.

Nehru

UN Expansion Creates Power Balance—Nehru

The expansion of the United Nations since its birth has created a balance of power and thereby strengthened the organization, according to B. K. Nehru, India's ambassador to the United States.

Nehru addressed 1,500 people at the opening of the Nebraska Wesleyan University Model United Nations Friday, including the University, attended the Model UN, which ended Saturday.

In the early days of the UN, he said, the United States and its allies controlled UN policy, which reduced its effectiveness. The membership increase from 46 to 112, however, has brought about a feeling in the world that the U.S. no longer dominates UN action.

"The great powers must go today to an authority, an organization of impartial people and plead a case and satisfy judges," he said.

Nehru listed several areas in which the work of the UN is overlooked or underrated. The elimination of poverty and human suffering, he said, is the removal of two of the greatest causes of war.

He defended India's use of force in driving the Portuguese out of Goa, both in the view of world support and the necessity of decreasing the "pockets of colonialism" which still exist in the world. Most of the world's former colonies, however, are free today.

Nehru said that the UN, as an "instrument of persuasion" should exercise "moral authority" in its actions and judgments.

Spanish Author To Speak

Camilo Jose Cela, who is considered by many to be the greatest living novelist of Spain, will speak May 6 on "Spain, the Spaniard and the Spanish Essence" at 7:30 p.m. in Sheldon Art Gallery Auditorium.

The University is one of six in the United States where Cela will speak. His visit is sponsored by the Department of Romance Languages and the University Research Council.

Nearly all of Cela's novels and short stories have been translated into the principal European languages. Two of his novels—"La familia de Pascual Duarte" ("The family of Pascual Duarte") and "Nuevas andanzas y desventuras de Lazarillo de Tormes" ("New Fortunes and Misfortunes of Lazarillo de Tormes") are classics in Spanish literature.

"La familia de Pascual Duarte", Cela's first novel, was also the first novel published in the Spanish Post Civil War Period. In this novel, as well as in his others, Cela uses the "Tremendismo" style of stark realism and accounts of senseless violence.

Besides his novels, Cela writes poetry, essays, short stories and travel books. He is editor of one of the finest periodicals in the Spanish language, "Papeles de Son Armadans." He is the youngest member of the Royal Spanish Academy.

The diversity, adventure and realism of his works may be attributed to Cela's earlier experiences as a bullfighter, movie actor, newspaperman, soldier, painter and office clerk.

Some of Cela's other novels include "The Hive," "Pabellon de reposo" ("Pavillion of Repose"), "Mrs. Caldwell habla con su hijo" ("Mrs. Caldwell Speaks with her Son"), "La Catira" and "El molino de viento" ("The Windmill").
