Rights Enforcer Sees Negro Vote Increase

A large increase in the percentage of Negroes who will vote is expected in the coming election but not in the hard core areas such as Mississippi and Alabama, said John Doar, first assistant to the Civil Rights Division, Office of the Attorney General.

Doar spoke by teleconference Wednesday to members of Phi Delta Kappa at the University.

Doar recently received the President's Award for Distinguished Federal Civilian Service. He was cited for outstanding contributions in the administration and development of the law in the enforcement of voting rights.

"We tell students that the federal government can not provide protection when traveling in the South," Doar said when asked if the Federal government could protect those college students which are going into the south at this time.

It takes time to get the Negro use to the idea that he can vote and won't be turned away, Doar said.

A native of Minneapolis, Minn., he graduated from Princeton in 1946 and obtained a law degree from the University of California in 1949. After practicing law a number of years, he joined the Department of Justice in 1960.

In addition, records have been taken or demanded for inspection in approximately 130 southern counties, as compared to 12 counties at the time of Doar's appointment.

This was the third and last of a series of programs sponsored by Phi Delta Kappa. The summer theme for these programs has been "Civil Rights Legislation and Its Impact on Education."

Borgialli To Coach Wrestling

Orval Borgialli, a high school coach at Lusk, Wyo., will succeed Bob Mancuso as the University wrestling coach.

Athletic Director Tippy Dye announced the appointment Friday following the Regents meeting.

Borgialli is a 1959 graduate of Chadron State Teachers College.

A native of Newcastle, Wyo., Borgialli played football three years at Chadron and as a senior was instrumental in launching an intercollegiate wrestling program at that school. He taught the sport and also competed.

The new Husker coach, who will also teach physical education, currently is completing work on his master's degree at Colorado State College in Greeley.

At Lusk High School, Borgialli was an assistant football coach in addition to coaching wrestling and serving on the faculty. Last winter, Borgialli coached two state champions—heavyweight Tom Thompson and Mike Kinney. Two others on his team, Allen Butler and Doyle Davies, ranked 4th and 3rd in the state, respectively.

Borgialli and his wife, Carol, have two children, Susan, 5, and Merlen, 3.

Social Studies Reading Room

Greener, William S., THE BONANZA WEST. The carefully written account of mining rushes in North America begins with the California gold rush. A wealth of information about the Comstock Lode, Cripple Creek, and the Klondike rush make this a valuable starting point for information on mining rushes.

McNeill, William H., THE RISE OF THE WEST. The author, a professor of history at the University of Chicago, approaches his subject, the history of man, from the point-of-view that there is a cohesion in history transcending peoples and continents.

Chambers, Clarke A., SEED-TIME OF REFORM. Dr. Chambers presents a lucid account of American social service and social action during the period between 1918 and 1933.

Science Reading Room

Ley, Willy, HARNESSING SPACE. One of the leading authorities on rocketry and space travel has written this book to show the peaceful applications and values of space research. In a lucid, prose style, the author reports the status of satellite systems which are presently giving useful service as navigation aids, weather reporting and communications. A wealth of illustrations and references, appendices which include a chronology of satellite events, a glossary of space terms and a bibliography make the book useful as a reference aid.

White, Philip Rodney, THE CULTIVATION OF ANIMAL AND PLANT CELLS. The second edition of this useful work presents in simple, concise form the major techniques of cell culture. New methods are described for the handling of both plant and animal materials. The chapter on nutrients is almost wholly new. The book can be used by those with little experience in the field; yet it presents techniques and methods for the more advanced student. The appendix outlines basic experiments and lists sources of supplies and equipment. A long bibliography is included.

Humanities Reading Room

Bernad, Miguel A., BAM-BOO AND THE GREEN-WOOD TREE; essays on Filipino literature in English. As the subtitle explains, this book is a collection of essays dealing with Filipino literature in English. Not meant to be a conclusive study of the field, the various essays deal with only a few selected authors and some aspects of the field in general. Since the area of Filipino literature has frequently been ignored, this book presents facts of a little-known literature.

Antek, Samuel, THIS WAS TOSCANINI. Dedicated to the memory of Toscanini, this large book is a potpourri of photographs, essays and personal reminiscence by the author. As one of the great conductors of the world, Toscanini has long had many admirers. The author was one of these, and in this book presents a stirring eulogy to the great master.

Educators Meet Today In Union; Gilchrist Talks

A conference on "Current Problems in Secondary Education" is being held at the University today.

A national authority on curriculum, Dr. Robert Gilchrist of Cleveland, Ohio is serving as consultant, according to Dr. Galen Saylor, chairman of the department of secondary education.

Dr. Gilchrist is director of curriculum research, Educational Research Council of Greater Cleveland and is directing a curriculum study for the schools in the Cleveland area.

The conference begins with a luncheon at noon in the Nebraska Union. Gilchrist will speak on "Who Should Develop the Curriculum?" The second session will be held at 2 p.m. in Love Library auditorium.
