Quiz Bowl Set For 72 Teams

More teams will have to play each night when Quiz Bowl is held this year due to the fact that 72 teams have signed up.

Last year only 40 teams were entered, and the pressure was not so great on the Quiz Bowl committee, according to Cuz Guenzel, chairman.

Six matches will have to be held each time for at least twelve weeks according to Miss Guenzel, to accommodate the large number of teams before the end of the school year and the coming of the Big Eight Conference in the spring.

The procedure for selecting tournament entries will be based on the double elimination principle. This means that every team will be in at least two matches.

The first matches will be held tomorrow night. The first two teams will be the Purple Gougiers and the Alpha Omicron Pi team. Their match will be at 7 p.m. The second two teams for the evening, Heppner Hall No. 1, and Sigma Nu, must also be present at 7 p.m., due to some duplication of questions.

The second set of teams must be present at 7:50 tomorrow night. The Phi Psi Rumcakes will meet Gustavson II B at 7:50, and Alpha Gamma Rho will meet Love

Memorial Hall at 8:15.

In the third set, Gamma Phi Beta I will meet Alpha Tau Omega at 8:40, and Sigma Kappa will meet Theta Xi I at 9:05. Both teams must be present at 8:40.

Miss Guenzel said that since so many teams must be taken care of per night, there must necessarily be duplication of questions, and each set of teams must be present at the same time, so the one set may be isolated until their match comes up.

Debate Institute Meets Saturday

The annual Debate and Social Studies Institute for Nebraska high school debate students will be held this Saturday.

About 325 students will attend the institute sponsored by the University Speech Department and the Nebraska School Activities Association.

The day's activities will begin at 9:15 a.m. in Love Library Auditorium.

The high school students will participate in two rounds of discussion in the afternoon.

The Institute will conclude its program with an audience debate at 3 p.m. in the Love Library Auditorium. The debate will be between the University of Nebraska and the University of Wyoming on the topic: "Resolved that Nuclear Weapons Should Be Controlled By An International Organization."

University YR's Plan Spirit Parade Tomorrow Night

The University Young Republicans (YR's) will hold a rally-parade and coffee hour tomorrow for all member organizations and GOP candidates. The parade will begin at 7 p.m. at the north door of the Student Union, and the coffee hour will be held in the south party room following the parade.

Marilyn Bowen, YR membership chairman, reminded all houses in competition for the Robert B. Crosby spirit award that "this will be the last general meeting at which you may buy membership cards to be counted on your living unit's percentage for the award."

The Crosby award will go to the organized house with the greatest percentage of its membership registered in the YR's.

Campaign chairman Doug Paine said "It looks as if this parade will be twice as big as the one we had last spring." He asked anyone interested in being represented in the parade, and anyone with a convertible who wanted to drive in the parade, to contact him at 434-6451.

YR President Bill Harding said "This is an ideal opportunity for all Republicans to actively demonstrate their support of the party and its candidates."

"It is hoped that every student that is able will come to the parade and the coffee hour afterwards and discuss with the candidates the policies and issues of this campaign."

Panhel Scholarship Awards Recognize High Averages

Chi Omega, Alpha Xi Receive '64 Trophies

By Marilyn Hoegemeyer
Junior Staff Writer

"It is only fitting that a trophy be awarded for scholarship—for you are first and foremost students at a great university," Helen Snyder, associate dean of Student Affairs, told sorority members at the opening session of Panhellenic Week, 1964.

Chi Omega was awarded the first place trophy for the highest sorority average last year—6.4096. Pi Beta Phi was second with a 6.399 average.

Alpha Xi Delta won the Elsie Ford Piper Scholarship Improvement Award for the greatest scholastic improvement of the year. They earned a 6.142 last year compared to a 5.712 the year before. This raised their rank with other sororities three places.

"We give this recognition because we do believe in scholarship. The all-women's average last year was 5.877. The first semester there were nine sororities that had over a 6.000 average and ten who were over that average second semester," Miss Snyder said.

"There is less than one full grade point between the top and bottom average. The competition is keen. As the Yankees were deposed, so the group who has been in top place many years was deposed this year," she said.

Mrs. LeRoy Shelton, Panhellenic Delegate from Glenwood, Ill., presented her answer to the question, "What is a Fraternity?"

Mrs. Shelton described three assumptions that are basic to a fraternity or sorority. "First we believe the whole is equal to the sum of its parts or as it is often said, 'together in union there is strength,' she said.

"A fraternity is a voluntary social organization based on Mutual choice. It is also a family of friends bound together by a common set of ideas," Mrs. Shelton said.

"You are your fraternity," she told the group, "it is as good as you who have made it good."

The friendship one has in a fraternal organization promotes tolerance and understanding, she said. Mrs. Shelton told the group of an Indian prayer which exemplifies the understanding one should have: "Great Spirit, help me never to judge another until I have walked for two weeks in his moccasins."

"Ideals are merely mirrors for perfection," Mrs. Shelton said. Ideals give life purpose, power and pattern. There can be no string of development without ideals, she said.

"You must know how to make your ideals come alive. A fraternity is a social unit bound together by a set of ideals of perfection," Mrs. Shelton said.

There are three objectives a fraternal organization has to promote to develop an individual's self perfection. The three objectives are, according to Mrs. Shelton, to develop character, to promote scholarship, and to preserve traditions.

"A fraternity seeks to utilize the power of friendship to develop the individual, who is then ready to be of service to others, and can assume the responsibility of being a contributing citizen," Mrs. Shelton said.

"May you all know the pleasures and responsibilities as a Greek woman in the world of today," she said.

Dinner exchanges among sororities and the Panhellenic training school groups will highlight the rest of Panhellenic Week.

Demo Candidate To Talk Politics With Two Groups

David Downing, Democratic candidate for State Attorney General, will address two groups on campus today.

At noon, Downing will informally discuss Nebraska political issues at the University Faculty Club Luncheon.

At 7:30 p.m. Downing will be the guest of the Young Democrats and will discuss some of the controversial issues of the campaign. Open question sessions will be a primary part of the presentation. The public is invited.

Downing is a graduate of the University College of Law. He was a member of Sigma Chi and Phi Delta Phi fraternities. He is a past president of the Alumni Association of the University College of Law.

He is the City Attorney of Superior, and has been since 1961.

RAM Urges Weekend Visiting Hours

... Seeks Selleck Rule Change

The Residence Association for Men (RAM) Council met Monday night and unanimously passed John Marburger's resolution to seek a rule change allowing weekend visiting hours in Selleck Quadrangle.

The Resident Management Committee studied the resolution over the past week and made suggestions for carrying out the proposal.

A permanent committee was set up with Marburger as chairman and RAM Council members as committee men. This Committee will work toward the rule change that would allow the resolution to go into effect.

"We have received a lot of support for the resolution and we were glad to hear the criticisms," Marburger said. "If we can't have a forward looking proposal that RAM, the University and the students can be proud of, we would rather not have anything at all," he said.

The Resident Management Committee had originally set up the new committee to "further co-ed facilities at the University" as well as work on the new proposal. This was amended out of the committee's motion because as Marburger said, "RAM has no definite stand on permanent co-ed dorms and facilities at the University."

Theta Chi Purchases New Home

Alpha Upsilon chapter of Theta Chi fraternity signed the closing agreements last Wednesday for the purchase of a new fraternity house at 1979 D Street.

The purchase represents another step in the growth and progress of reorganization begun two years ago when the fraternity moved out of its former house at 331 No. 13th street.

During this time Theta Chi's membership has grown from three to 27 men. The fraternity's scholastic ranking has risen from twenty-third to second among the fraternities on campus. Theta Chi had a 6.01 average last semester.

Members began moving into their new house, formerly a private residence, amid the festivities of Homecoming.

An open house will be held for the campus following the Missouri football game, Oct. 31.

Financing was obtained through the Theta Chi building corporation and the H. A. Wolf Company of Lincoln.

Music Department Opportunities Offer Activities To Non-Majors

Editor's note: This is the third in a series of articles concerning opportunities for students in fields other than their major fields of study. This story concerns opportunities in the music department for non-music majors.

By Priscilla Mullins
Senior Staff Writer

For the student who has an interest in music, but whose future vocation does not lie in this field, the University Music Department holds many opportunities.

There are a number of music classes or activities which non-majors may take part in, according to Emanuel Wishnow, department chairman.

The first performing organization is the Madrigals group, directed by John Moran, assistant professor. This group, which is composed of 32 persons, is open to all freshmen by try-out.

The Varsity Men's Glee Club, directed by Dr. Dale Ganz, is composed of from 55 to 60 men. The group was originally organized for non-music majors to acquaint them with techniques of musical entertainment.

This was later changed to include all interested men. Membership is by try-out. The number of members in the group is determined by the balance of voices.

The University Singers is a group composed of from 90 to 100 sophomores and upperclassmen from all colleges. Directed by Earl Jenkins, professor of voice, membership to this group is by try-out.

The chorus classes in the department do not go on the basis of try-out. To be in these groups, the student must be able to sing and read notes.

There are three sections on the city campus, and one section on the East Campus. Membership for these groups does become more selective, according to Wishnow, when the 200-voice limit is reached in each section.

Any student may try out for membership in the University Orchestra conducted by Emanuel Wishnow, professor of violin. The group is composed of from 65 to 70 musicians. In conjunction with the Choral Union, the Orchestra presents the "Messiah" at Christmas and the Spring Oratorio, which is presented the latter part of May.

The University bands, marching, collegiate and symphonic, are open to all students by try-out. The marching and collegiate bands are directed by Jack Snider, associate professor, and the symphonic band is directed by Don Lentz, professor of woodwinds. Try-outs for these organizations are held before the start of school each year.

Each year the department presents an opera. Parts in this production are open to music majors primarily, but any other person who is qualified may try out for a part. This year the opera will be "La Traviata." Those interested may apply to Richard Grace, assistant professor for try-outs.

Another class which is available to the general student is music history. Sometimes called "music appreciation," this class teaches the student the cultural aspects of music. It teaches him what to listen for in music.

In accordance with the music instructor's schedules, students may take applied courses in music. That is, they may take lessons in piano, voice, string, woodwind and other instruments. This may be done with permission from the department chairman, but priority is given to music majors and minors.

A special part of the department's service to the University is in the classes it offers to Teachers College students. Those students who will be general teachers in schools, and must teach music, are given a piano lab course to prepare them.

"We have always considered this a prime part of our department," Wishnow said. "We service almost every college at the University."

Wishnow said the music department provides a cultural part of the University student's education.

Tradition Broken

-No Military Ball-

A fifty year old tradition on the University campus—the Military Ball—will not be held this year.

Lt. Col. Robert Prentiss said the exact reasons could not be pinpointed, but he noted a lack of enthusiasm and a loss of money as some of the reasons.

Formerly the ball, once a big social event in Lincoln as well as campus, officially signaled the opening of the social season around the first of December.

It was sponsored by all three military reserve training groups—the Navy, Army, and Air Force.

Prentiss said the Army ROTC is planning their own version of the Military Ball to be held sometime in February. Definite plans have not yet been made.

UN Day Meeting To Be Saturday

A special United Nations Day meeting will be held on Saturday, at 7 p.m. in the small auditorium of the Student Union.

Dr. Willard N. Hogan, professor of political science will speak on "The United Nations and Its Future Scope." The meeting is sponsored by the Nebraska International Association.

All interested students and faculty members are invited to participate. A discussion session will be held after the topic is presented. There will be an opportunity for those who wish to become NIA members to do so. NIA is an organization that seeks to promote understanding and friendship among students from the many countries represented at the University.
