

Dr. Wise Succumbs Saturday

Dr. Harold Wise, 62, dean of the Graduate College at the University died Saturday, after he had been reportedly hospitalized for surgery.

Wise had been with the University since 1935, serving as a civilian consultant in science to the war department.

He had been named assistant dean of the University's Graduate College.

A past president of the National Science Teachers' Association, he had served as vice president of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Wise, who served on a panel in 1958 to select recipients of National Science Foundation Scholarships, was a past secretary of the junior academy of the Nebraska Academy of Science.

He belonged to several other scientific and educational organizations.

Committee Makes Recommendation To Convention

Vicki Dowling, chairman of the structural committee, submitted a list of recommended duties for a legislative branch of a student governing body in a brief meeting of the Constitutional Convention, Sunday.

The suggested duties were only recommendations, and no action was taken.

A name for the legislation passed by the governing group was discussed. Ordinance was mentioned as a medium between laws and regulations, which were suggested as other possibilities.

John Lydick, convention president, said that the name eventually decided upon for the "Student Senate" would affect what the bills would be called.

It was decided not to accept immediately a motion for a three-branch system of student government. Dave Kitams said that the judicial area was critical, and more should be known about it before a decision was made.

'Brain' Authority Visits University

Dr. Elizabeth Drews, professor of education at Michigan State University and authority on gifted persons, will visit a select group of students at the University today and tomorrow.

Her appearance is sponsored by the Nebraska Career Scholars, an organization of students who intend to pursue college level teaching upon graduation.

Dr. Drews is considered a leading authority on the study of gifted children and has recently produced a series of 10 documentary films on adults with creative inclination.

She will speak to the career scholars on the subject of her own research, and other studies that the students might undertake.

IFC Conference Scheduled

The National Interfraternity Conference will be held in Cincinnati, Ohio, Dec. 3 to 5 to discuss ways of strengthening the college fraternity system.

Buzz Madson, IFC secretary, John Luckasen, public relations chairman, and Stan Miller, affairs committee chairman, will be attending the conference.

Madson said those attending would study several aspects concerning the Food Management Association, IFC publications, fraternity and sorority expansion, and rushing programs.

Dr. David D. Henry, president of the University of Illinois, a leading educator, will address the opening general session.

Dr. Noah N. Langdale, Jr., president of Georgia State College, will be the principal speaker at the awards luncheon.

The new motion picture on the fraternity system in American colleges will be un-

Don Carter, managing editor of the National Observer, will head a panel discussion of career opportunities in journalism.

Discussions of press-bar relations, civil rights coverage, presidential election coverage and the communications "revolution" in print and broadcast journalism will be presented at the convention.

Convention delegates from the society's 162 chapters will meet with former President Harry Truman during a visit to the Truman Memorial Library at Independence, Mo.

Student members will compete for cash prizes in a

PTP Chooses Student-Of-Month

The International Student of November is Olatunde Ojomo, an agronomy student from Nigeria.

"Tunde" as he is known to all, was selected the outstanding international student of the month in November by members of the Student to Student committee of the People to People organization.

Tunde was selected because of help he gave to other foreign students who arrived on campus this fall. He met them personally when they arrived in Lincoln, helped them find housing and adjust to the campus life.

Tunde, who is working on his thesis in agronomy, has a high scholastic average and is rated a top student in his field.

A graduate student in the College of Agriculture, Tunde was chosen to attend the agronomy convention in Kansas City last month.

The Student to Student committee will continue to choose an International Student of the month during the school year.

The interviewing board was pleased with the applications received, although only a limited number can become finalists.

Fire Damages 16th Street Home On Sunday Night

The home of William Miller, located by the University parking lot at the corner of 16th and Vine, was heavily damaged by fire Sunday night.

The fire is believed to have been caused by an overheated furnace in the rouse. The furnace was a coal burning or woodburning type and was located in the basement of the house. According to the fire department's report of the fire, the blaze extended through the walls of the house to the first and second floors.

The report stated that after the fire was extinguished, a railroad tie was pulled from the furnace.

Miller said that he has no insurance on the house.

Tassels Will Admit 50 Kernals To Yell

'Asked To Pay Parking Ticket At 4:30 a. m.'

Some 200 to 250 University and Wesleyan students who have overdue parking tickets are on a list at the Lincoln Police Department, according to Lt. Donald G. Smith, of the Traffic Violations Department.

Offenders who were picked up included University student, Charles Scriven. Scriven said he was awakened at 4:30 a.m. Monday morning, and escorted by two officers to the police station where he paid his fines.

Smith said the policy in most cases of overdue parking fines was to impound the car of the offender. He added, "We are using the procedure of taking these students to the station to pay their fines in order to save them the $5 charge they would have to pay if their cars were impounded."

Scriven, who had failed to pay a series of parking tickets, including some from last year, was charged $2 a ticket.

Chief Warren Graves, responding to the charges that officers had picked Scriven up at 4:30 a.m., said it "was possible, but not probable."

"We would certainly not encourage our officers to waken anyone up that early in the morning," he continued.

It was reported that there were several other students in the station at the same time Monday morning. Graves said "it was not likely that there were many people in the station at that hour."

Graves said that the list of offenders was just recently released, and that more offenders would be picked up in the near future.

SC Quizzes Students About Bus

Questionnaires concerning the intercampus bus are being handed out by Student Council members today, according to Bill Poppert, Parking Committee chairman.

The following questions appear on the list:

Do you feel this bus service is adequate to meet the needs of your schedule?

How many times, this year, have you been late or missed classes due to this bus?

Do you feel this bus would serve you better if it were to make a stop between campuses? If yes, where?

Poppert said the facts gained from this questionnaire will help Student Council and the administration to make appropriate changes in order to improve the service of the bus.

Poppert also said that many students are receiving tickets for the violation of not parking between marked stall lines at all times.

He said that this regulation holds true 24 hours a day. Special care should be given, he said, when parking near the library in the evening hours. Cars may not park on the curb, but must be within a marked stall, he said.

Quiz Bowl Teams Clash Tomorrow

Fourteen teams will meet at Quiz Bowl tomorrow evening, to accommodate all the teams entered this year before the Big Eight match.

The first three matches are: Gamma Phi Beta II versus Chi Phi at 7 p.m.; Brain Busters versus Phi Psi Rangers at 7:25; and Farmhouse I versus Alpha Gamma Sigma I at 7:50.

These first six teams must check in by 7 p.m.

The second set of matches includes: The Olds versus Delta Gamma III at 8:15; and Alpha Xi Delta II versus Theta Xi II at 8:40. These four teams must check in by 8:15.

In the third set, Alpha Delta Pi II versus Beta Theta Pi pledges at 9:05; and Beta Theta Pi II versus Kappa Sigma "A" at 9:30. These four teams must check in by 9:05.

Three sets of questions will be used this week, and will each week for the rest of the tournament, according to Larry Johnson, publicity chairman for Quiz Bowl.

International Buffet Scheduled Sunday

The Nebraska International Association will hold their annual dinner buffet this Sunday, at the First Christian Church at 16th and K Streets.

Food for the buffet will be prepared by foreign students of the University. Various dishes from India, China, Africa, Syria, Germany and many other countries will be prepared.

In addition, there will be displays of cooking utensils and cookbooks from many different countries.

Tickets are available for $1.50 at the foreign student office located in the Division of Student Affairs in the Administration Building.

The buffet is an annual NIA event presented to acquaint University students and the people in Lincoln with various customs and foods of countries represented on campus.

Callan Guest Speaker For Young Democrats

First district representative-elect Clair Callan will speak at the meeting of the Young Democrats today at 8 p.m. in the small auditorium of the Student Union.

Callan will speak on his plans for legislation, giving special attention to education. The YD business meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. All YD members are urged to attend, as several items of important business will be brought up.

In addition, Kennedy Credo Medals will be on sale. The medals, designed in memory of President John Kennedy and distributed by the University YD's, are available in anodized aluminum, bronze, and silver.

Student Tickets Sold Out Bowl Orders Returned

No Cotton Bowl tickets for Nebraska fans are available through the University ticket office.

The University's ticket allocation of 12,500 has been sold and mail orders which will not be able to be filled are now being returned, according to University ticket director James Pittenger. He estimated that from five to six thousand orders will have to be returned.

He estimated that approximately 3,000 University students have purchased tickets for the New Year's Day clash, which will be against the University of Arkansas. Student ID cards must be presented with student orders, he said.

A drive is now underway to raise funds to build a Nebraska float for the Cotton Bowl Parade which will take place on the morning of the game. A goal of $5,000 has been set for the fund. Contributions should be sent to: Dollars for Dallas

Nebraska Centennial
P.O. Box 1967
Lincoln

Also on the entertainment agenda for those who make the trek to Texas is the Dallas All-Star Rodeo. It will be presented Dec. 26-31.

Harvard Lauds NU Symposium

The University's annual symposium on Current Theory and Research in Motivation has been termed the "best" source of information this topic by Harvard University.

Harvard's 1964 list of books on psychology states that the Nebraska symposium is "by far the best source of information on modern American thinking and experimenting in the field of motivation." Papers presented at the annual symposium are published by the University Press.

American Indian Authority Presents Talk Tomorrow

A folklorist and authority on the Middle American Indian, Prof. Munro Edmonson of Tulane University, will present the second in a series of Latin American Lectures tomorrow.

The lecture, which is open to the public, will begin at 8 p.m. in Love Library Auditorium. Edmonson will speak on "The Phenomenon of Social Revolution in Latin America."

Edmonson, a native of Nogales, Ariz., holds three degrees from Harvard University in the social sciences and anthropology.

He joined Tulane University in 1953 and was named professor of anthropology in 1960, the post he now holds. He has been a member of Tulane's Latin American Studies Committee since 1954.

The author of numerous publications on Middle America, he is the author of several articles now being published in a "Handbook of Middle American Indians," "Problems in Latin American Education," and "The People of Rimrock: A Comparative Study of Value Systems."

He has served as visiting professor of anthropology at the Universidad de San Carlos in Guatemala and at Purdue University. Edmonson also conducted field work in New Mexico as a research assistant for the Harvard Laboratory of Social Relations and attended summer school at the National University of Mexico.

He is a member of the American Anthropological Association, Society for Applied Anthropology, American Association for the Advancement of Science, American Ethnological Society, Louisiana Academy of Science and the New Orleans Academy of Science.

Panhel Receives Down Slip Lists

Down slips for each of the sororities on campus were passed out to the presidents and Panhellenic delegates by Dean Helen Snyder, Dean of Women, at the Monday meeting.

The largest number given to any one house was 135, according to Dean Snyder. She had no average of down slips given this semester, but it seemed more were given than last semester.

A letter was sent to the Sigma Chi house outlining ways to improve Sigma Chi Derby Day next year.

A copy of the letter was sent to the Interfraternity Council and to Dean Snyder who approves all of the Sigma Chi games.

A Christmas Tea will be held Dec. 14 rather than the regular Panhellenic meeting,
