Lee Marshall—Sports Editor

Congratulations

As the football season takes off its cleats for another year, we find the usual number of post-season bowl games, all-star geams, and other honors bestowed upon various individual players. This year the Huskers have placed men on many of these teams.

All-America Larry Kramer and Bob Hohn have both been chosen to compete for the North squad in the annual Senior Bowl game held in Mobile, Ala. on Jan. 9.

Kent McCloughan and Chuck Doepke were recently honored with positions on the Big Eight scholastic team. These are only the most recent awards Bob Devaney's boys have collected, and it remains to be seen after the Cotton Bowl game just how many awards the Huskers

Speaking of the Senior Bowl, congratulations to them for breaking precedence and choosing four Negro players representing both teams. This marks the first time a Negro has played for either team.

My last congrats goes to former sports editor Peggy Speece who recently resigned. Being one of the few females to ever call the sport shots for the Daily Nebraskan, she has served for almost two semesters and not missed anything sportworthy except perhaps a locker room inter-
