Rain or shine, snow or sleet, cold or colder, the intramural basketball tournament goes on as usual.

The Misfits moved ahead early against Navy ROTC, and steadily widened their lead for a comfortable 45-29 win. Bob Andrews paced the winners, but was backed by a good team effort.

The Aggies and the Hustlers played a tense game all the way with the lead changing hands many times. The Aggies finally came out on top 41-40. Gerald Larson scored 15 points for the Aggies with Bernie Trausch close behind at 11. Ron Moxham and Dick Bowers potted 12 and 13 points respectively in a losing cause.

After being tied at the half Hitchcock spurred to a nine point advantage over Benton at the three-quarter point. This was too much for Benton as Hitchcock won by the final score of 44-33. Hitchcock's Kaye Carstens and Benton's Terry Challie shared game honors with 15 points each. Carstens' teammate, Dean Beck, had ten points as did Benton's Cliff Knispil.

Beta Theta Pi "B" won another close one Monday. This one over Phi Kappa Psi "B".

The Betas' defensive ace, Van Vanle, held the Phi Psi's usual high scorer, Bob Churchich, out of the picture making them look elsewhere for points. In the first half Jammie Ammerman took over the role scoring all 11 of his total points in this period. He was shut down in the second half and this was just enough to make the difference. While not playing defense Vanle scored enough to lead the Betas with 11 points.

Delta Upsilon "B" swamped Ag Men "B" 48-29 on the strength of three men in double figures. Jack Buchfinch had 13 and Rick Rockwell and Bob Medina each scored ten. The D U's had little trouble as they opened up a 21 point lead at the end of three quarters. Gary Muller was high for the losers with ten points.

Phi Delta Theta "C" had an easy time of it in defeating Sigma Chi "C" 48-23. "Chester" Salem couldn't miss as he hooped the ball from astounding distances for a grand total of 13 points, high for the game. The Sigma Chi's were behind all the way and couldn't find a man to score in double figures.

Glenn took an early lead and widened it in the late goings despite pressure from Kennedy to win 46-37. Veldon Magnuson paced the winners with 16 points with Ron Finke's 13 points a close second. Ron Lockard scored 16 for Kennedy.

Sigma Phi Epsilon "A" kept rolling along in their league with a convincing 49-33 win over Pioneer House. The Sig Eps compiled margins of three to five points in each quarter for the win. The Sig Eps' Tim Schmad was again high scorer with 16 points. Tom Ham scored 15 points for Pioneer House.

Another outstanding point output by Bob Witte and Bill Zuspan raised Sigma Nu "A" past their opponent. This time it was a tough Cornhusker Co-op "A" team by the score of 54-49. Witte potted 28 while Zuspan was dumping 17. Sigma Nu was up 16 points at the half only to see a fantastic Co-op third quarter put them down by three. Wayne Johnson and Ernie Novak each scored ten for the losers while Gene Zitek scored 12.

"Devaney's crew plus one" stomped out a win for Burnett over Canfield 64-48. Devaney's crew consisted of Freeman White (18 points), Harry Wilson (11 points), and Ted Vactor (12 points) while the "plus one" was Dale Sall (13 points). This formidable team was just too much for Canfield to contend with. John Elifson scored 18 points and Jerry Patton scored 16 points trying to stop them.

The reports of two games played Monday which didn't make yesterday's paper follow.

Canfield allowed Seaton 15 points in the first quarter and then allowed them only 16 points the rest of the game to coast to a 63-35 victory. John Elifson potted 20 points for Canfield while Al Kuehl and Ivan Zimmer pointed 12 and 14 respectively. Only man in double figures for Seaton 1 was Danny Richnaisky with 13.

Sam's Salvos

Coach Joe Cipriano is long overdue for some praise for his fine job this year at the helm of the basketball Cornhuskers.

He has brought a team that was short on experience, short on depth, and long on sophomores to a team which is gaining in experience, acquiring depth, and making the most out of what height it has.

"Cip" has found what apparently is the style of play that his boys can handle most adequately, the zone press. On most occasions, the Huskers have made quite good use of the zone press, and it has contributed dividends to the good side of the win-lose column.

But Cipriano's biggest contribution to Nebraska basketball cannot be fully ascertained this year, but will have to be evaluated in the next two campaigns. The invaluable experience and seasoning that the sophomores are gaining this year will surely be felt when the boys are juniors and seniors.

One thing Cipriano has failed to do, however, is to develop an effective scorer at the post. Bob Antalov looked like the answer during the first few games of the season, but he fizzled quite badly just before he was sent home from the Kansas State game at Manhattan.

Brice Pearson showed a real flair toward the middle of the season, reaching his peak at the Colorado game away before he injured his ankle in that contest. Pearson has been only at half strength since early February. Pearson must learn to look for the shot if he is ever to become an effective pivot man, and on offensive rebounds, he would do better, it would seem, to go up with more authority when on a follow-up shot.

Pearson has improved markedly from last year, and even the early season this year, and he could be the ray of hope at the post position.

BETTER TALK SOFTER - I THINK MY HOUSEMOTHER OVERHEARD YOUR LAST REMARK.

1. I've been weighing the possibility of becoming a perpetual student.

Last week you said you were considering the merits of milk farming.

2. With graduation drawing near I realized how much more there was for me to learn.

You didn't also realize, did you, that when you graduate your dad will cut off your allowance?

3. I must admit the thought did enter my mind.

Has the thought ever entered your mind that you might get a job and make a career for yourself?

4. What about my thirst for knowledge?

Just because you work doesn't mean you have to stop learning.

5. You mean earn while learning?

Right. And you can do it at Equitable. They'll pay 100% of your tuition toward a qualified graduate degree. At the same time, the work is challenging, the pay is good, and I hear you move up fast.

Husker Headliner Versatile Simmons Is Floor General

The Husker Headliner award of the week goes to Grant Simmons, 6'3" junior guard.

Simmons has come of age as far as scoring goes, and has been in double figure the last several games. Since the Iowa State game at Lincoln on January 18, Simmons has been high man for the Huskers on four of eight occasions. He has tallied 269 points this year for about a 12.3 points per game average.

His field goal percentage has been outstanding throughout the year, and he is presently hitting at a clip of over forty per cent from the floor.

Simmons greatest asset to the team is not his scoring proficiency but his hustle and team leadership. Simmons and Willie Campbell are the mainstays of the successful zone press the Huskers have used of late.

Simmons is a great all-around athlete, and hails

Grant Simmons from Omaha Benson where he was an All-America—but not in basketball! Simmons played end in high school football where he garnered many of his laurels. He was outstanding lineman in the Shrine Bowl football game after his senior year.

If Simmons has a fault on the maples, it is probably his tendency toward erratic defense. He has a tendency to let his man get a step on him, and then commit a foul in trying to recover position.

Simmons however, is capable of coming up with the big defensive steal at any time, and his harrassing tactics are effective and the cause of many opponents' mistakes.

Simmons' defense is getting better all the time, and with the advent of additional defensive consistency, Grant could be one of the top guards in the Big Eight Conference.

Fred Hare, sophomore sensation was in strong contention for the award for the third straight time.
