'Drizzled' Student Stays Underwater To Set Shower Record Of 101 Hours

The shower fad continues to flood campuses suggesting himself for 60 hours. Not long since.

A Sir George Williams University student in Montreal Canada last month doused after a Utah student immersed himself for 75 hours.

Then the championship went south to New Mexico where two University of New Mexico freshmen stood and slept together under the nozzle for 80 hours.

A Canadian, Phil Calvert at Acadia University, has racked up 101 hours in the shower. Emerging dragging an air mattress behind him, Calvert admitted he felt a little "Drizzled."

Not to be outdone on the cleanliness kick, another Acadia student endured a 31 and a half hour molar-polishing marathon to smash the previous world record for tooth-brushing by more than 20 hours.

Many social commentators see the current rash of fads as a rebellion against the "unwashed ethic" of the beatnik crowd.

Supposedly the fads will continue to expand and will soon include hair-combing marathons, shaving contests and maybe even a nail-clipping go-round or so.

Meanwhile, two Acadia coeds added a new dimension to cleanliness and godliness, symbolically at least.

They set a new international record for ice-cube tossing: 1,316 tosses of a single ice cube of standard size at room temperature.

University of Minnesota students have expressed mixed emotions over the anti-necking bill now under consideration in the States Senate.

The Bill says "any person, who while a passenger in a motor vehicle . . . puts his or her arm around the driver, or any driver of such a motor vehicle who puts his or her arm around any passenger when such motor vehicle is in motion is guilty of a misdemeanor."

The bill makes an exception to this one "in case of an emergency" but it does not explain what kind of emergencies are acceptable.

Chicago Newswoman To Address Banquet

A Chicago news woman whose experiences range from covering national political conventions to murder trails will speak at the annual Theta Sigma Phi Matrix Banquet Saturday evening.

Miss Gladys Erickson, staff writer and feature editor for the Chicago America, will address women journalists at the banquet, open to the public, which begins at 6:30 p.m. Saturday in the Nebraska Union Pan American room.

Miss Erickson's experiences have included riding as a jockey in a horse race, being inducted into an Oklahoma Indian tribe and receiving an award from the King of Greece. She was awarded the Golden Cross of a Greek royal order for contributions to the welfare of Greece made by stories she wrote while touring the country in 1958 and 1960.

A field of special interest to Miss Erickson has been the Illinois prisons. She has conducted several exclusive interviews with prisoners, and has written a book about the former warden of the Joliet, Ill., prison.

Recently Miss Erickson was in Nebraska to cover the Fritz Johnson-Lawrence Bader case for her newspaper. She has been on the staff of the Chicago American for 18 years.

Two "Women Journalists of the Year," one from a weekly and one from a daily newspaper, will be honored at the Matrix Banquet.

Awards will also be given to women journalists in three areas — weekly, metropolitan daily, and non-metropolitan daily newspapers — in the categories of general news and features, women's news and features, columns, and best woman's page.

Tickets, at $2.50 for students and $3 for adults, can be obtained from Theta Sigma Phi at the School of Journalism.

AFROTC To Sponsor 'Flick Of The Week'

The 465th Air Force ROTC Detachment will sponsor a series of free military oriented movies in their new "Flick of the Week" program.

The first in the series will be shown tomorrow, in 203 Military and Naval Science Building.

The series will offer films on many different topics and will be shown every Tuesday. These film sessions are open to attendance by any and everyone. Showtime will be 3:30 p.m. to 5 p.m.

This week's topics are "Swift Strike Three," which shows how a combat-ready force can be moved into and supported at a potential battlefield by Air Power; and "Highlight 1964," a review of missiles, events, planes and personalities that were a new and significant part of the Air Force during the past year.

Law Student Association To Hold Conference Here

Medicine, electronics and law will be the theme of the 16th annual Eight Circuit Conference of the American Law Student Association, March 25-27, at the University Center.

More than 75 students in law and medicine as well as practicing lawyers and physicians from 10 states are expected to attend the conference, according to Hal Daub, national vice president of the Association and a law student at the University.

"The conference is unique in that it involves practitioners from two professional fields—medicine and law—to discuss common problems and to gain a better understanding of each other's profession," Daub said. "The conference will include a mock malpractice trial conducted by lawyers and doctors from Lincoln and Omaha."

U.S. Senator Roman Hruska will address those attending at a special session at 10:30 a.m. Friday in the Nebraska Union ballroom. He will speak on the Criminal Justice Act.

The president of the American Law Student Association, Mont Powell Hoyt of Norman, Okla., also will take part in the conference. Hoyt is studying law at the University of Oklahoma.

Philip Sorenson, lieutenant governor of Nebraska, will speak at a luncheon Friday noon in the Nebraska Center.

The conference opens Thursday evening at the Nebraska center with a seminar on "Presidential Disability" featuring Richard Hansen, Lincoln attorney who is the author of the book "The Year We Had No President." Dr. Robert Gillespie of Lincoln also will participate in the discussion. Both Hansen and Gillespie will lead a discussion on the "Battered Child Syndrome" Thursday evening.

The program on Friday morning will include a discussion on the computer and the law by Profs. John Gradwohl and Wallace Rudolph of the University and Harvey Perlman, a University law student.

A "Medical-Legal Seminar" will be conducted Friday afternoon by William McAuliffe, Jr., lawyer and director, medical ethics department Office of the General Counsel, American Medical Association, Chicago, Ill.

Morris J. Bruckner, Lincoln attorney, will lead a discussion on "Medical-Legal Trial Techniques" assisted by John Miller, Omaha attorney and president of the Nebraska Association of Trial Attorneys and Drs. Robert Klein of Omaha and P. E. Getscher of Lincoln.

The annual banquet will be held at 7 p.m. Friday in the Cornhusker Hotel. Members of the Lincoln and Lancaster County Bar and Medical Associations have been invited to attend. McAuliffe will be the guest speaker. Gov. Frank Morrison will be the honored guest.

There will be a series of workshop sessions Saturday, a business meeting, election of a vice president, and awards to the most outstanding student presidents in the Eighth Circuit.

'Fabulous Romeros' Plan Guitar Concert Thursday

The Fabulous Romeros, an extraordinary classical guitar ensemble will appear in concert in the Nebraska Union Ballroom Thursday at 7 and 9 p.m.

The Romero family, often called Spain's Royal Family of the guitar came to the United States eight years ago. They make nationwide tours and operate a conservatory for classical guitar in Los Angeles.

Father Celedonio Romero, 46, is a product of the Madrid Conservatory, but he has trained his sons—Celin, 26, Pepe, 20, and Angel, 16—himself.

Time Magazine describes the quartet as "undisputedly one of the best guitar ensembles today." The New York Times said they were "perfectly glorious . . . astonishing."

Celedonio fought for the republican case in the Spanish Civil War and remained dissatisfied with the political situation under Generalissimo Franco.

"Father was the most recognized guitarist in Spain and played for most of the diplomatic receptions," said Celin, who acts as family spokesman because his English is most fluent. "He did not have freedom to leave the country until Americans became in-fluent in Spain in 1957. Then it was possible to go."

"Americans have tremendous will power for practicing and they make tremendous guitarists," said Celedonio. "They have a great affinity for the Flamenco and Spanish rhythms. Americans are not as reserved as we had thought—they are fiery and emotional."

Celedonio specializes in classical guitar selections, Celin excels in late romantic works, Pepe is strong in Flamenco literature and Angel prefers the Baroque repertoire. When they play ensemble, Celedonio is the lead guitarist and his sons are the orchestra.

"When I married, I never dreamed I would produce an orchestra," said Celedonio. "But I never pushed it. It just happened. The boys loved the guitar as much as I did."

Their feather-weight instruments are made by a Cordoba master and cost $1,000 each. The tops are spruce, the bodies rosewood, the necks Spanish cedar, the Romeros make to modern bridges ivory and the fingerboards ebony.

The only member of the family who does not play is Mrs. Romero. "Someone has to listen," she explains.

Home Economics Subject Of Annual Hospitality Day

Four hundred and ten girls are busy preparing to greet 2,000 other girls. It's the annual hustle and bustle required to stage another Hospitality Day at the University.

This year's event is scheduled at the East Campus April 10. On that date, some 2,000 high school girls from throughout the state will converge on the School of Home Economics for tours and talks regarding careers in the Home Economics field.

The 410 coeds, majors in home economics, will show the visitors how they may prepare for careers in family economics and management; foods and nutrition; human development and the family; home economics education; home economics journalism; and textiles, clothing and design.

Theme of the 15th annual Hospitality Day is "Destination—Home Economist," according to Dr. Virginia Trotter, Dean of the School of Home Economics. The guest speaker will be Dr. Beverly Downing, Dean of the College of Home Economics, University of Rhode Island.

Sandra McDowell is general student chairman, and Dr. Eleanor Williams, associate professor of foods and nutrition, is general faculty chairman.

In addition to career exploration, visiting high school students will gain an insight of college life by visiting with students.

Student Professor Announced Soon

The selection of a University Student Professor is soon to be announced. After months of nominating and counting ballots, which were distributed to the organized living units and Lincoln independents, the ballots are now tabulated and ready to be presented before the Advisory Board.

This committee, which consists of the deans from the nine colleges of the University, all contributing organizations except those on the Executive Council, and a student representative from each college, will narrow the nominations down to the top four candidates.

These top four candidates will be presented to the Executive Council which consists of representatives from the following eleven organizations: Student Council, AUF, Mortar Board, Innocents, AWS, Kosmet Klub, Ag Exec., Sinfonia, Nebraska Blue Print, Daily Nebraskan Editor, Builders President and Vice-President of Public Relations and the sponsor of Builders.

This Executive Council will select from these four candidates the one who is most deserving of the Student Professorship.

The selection of this Student Professor will not be made necessarily on the basis of research or service, but on methods of teaching and personal guidance.

All organizations on the University campus were contacted and were asked to contribute as much as possible towards the "Student Professorship." Further contributions from organizations will still be accepted in the Builders office.

Each organization which contributed will receive a certificate of appreciation and the name of the organization will be placed on the "Student Professorship" honor roll which will be displayed in the Union.

The candidate selected as Outstanding Professor will be acknowledged at a convocation this spring at which time he will be awarded $500.
