

Mathews Talks

Mathews said. Women make women out of all their male children.

"What does it mean to be a woman who is impacting history head-on and carrying on her biological role? This is the new image of the female," Mathews said.

"The womb image of marriage is gone," he said. "It is no longer seen as a means to prop each other up and waddle to the grave together. Romantic love is no longer feasible or possible."

In its place is the "missional image," he said. "The merging of two webs of relationships is the man and woman who unite their psychological power in realizing the bending of the course of history."

"Sex has a new image also," Mathews said. "Instead of whispering sweet nothings about nothing, it is now whispering sweet nothings about common action to change the course of history. A woman must not sell herself for security of status."

The final lecture in the series presented by Reverend Mathews was a summation of the first three.

"The New Image of Man in the 20th Century" was a summation of Reverend Mathews' first three lectures.

With a strength and vitality that seemed to climax the demanding forcefulness inherent in his speaking, Mathews pressed his audience to a realization of their existence.

He described the man of faith as one who has experienced the Christ Happening. He said that this occurred when a man realized that there "is but one everlasting, eternal, sustaining word, and that is that we are approved."

Mathews went on to say that "when a man experiences himself as approved, he doesn't have to defend himself."

"The man of faith is one who dares to interfere with the civilization processes without needing a reason."

YW-YMCA Hold 'Project Horizon'

"Project Horizon," a YWCA-YMCA spring conference, was held Saturday and Sunday for junior high students and college students.

Students from the juvenile court, Malone Center and Lincoln church groups took part in the conference, which was designed to help the students "get away from the routine of every day life, to develop co-ordinated living for a short time and to help the students try to experience the nearness of God."

The program for the conference consisted of games, music, hikes, discussions and formation of new friendships.

Natalie Jones, junior from Nebraska Wesleyan, who took part in the conference, said "I believe we should have two camping times; one in the winter and the other in the spring. I thought there was the right combination of age groups. It was so much fun because it was different."

Linda Cleveland, YWCA District chairman, from the University, said "Because of the natural setting, the students from different cultural and social backgrounds were able to gain a better understanding of each other."
