

Ivy Day To Change Location

Ivy Day, a University tradition that dates back to 1889, will have a new look Saturday.

Festivities will take place on the lawn between the Sheldon Art Gallery and Architectural Hall. In recent years the program has been held just north of Ferguson Hall.

The program will be moved up to 10 a.m. starting with a concert by the University Band and concluding by mid-afternoon with the tapping of Mortar Boards and tackling of Innocents.

Both the Innocents, senior men's honorary, and Mortar Boards, senior women's honorary, joined the Ivy Day program in 1905. Members of the Black Masque Society, now Mortar Board, first masked their new members in 1906.

Members of Innocents in their colorful long red robes and Mortar Boards in black and gold attire roam the grounds in search of likely members.

In typical feminine fashion, Mortar Boards tap their new members, but Innocents make dashing plunges for their choices.

Infact, they often receive instruction from the football coaching staff on ideal tackling techniques. Each Innocent assumes the responsibility for tackling his successor.

Other Ivy Day activities include the coronation of the May Queen, men's and women's sing, presentation of scholarship and activity awards, and, of course, planting the ivy by the presidents of Innocents and Mortar Board.

Master of ceremonies at the 1965 Ivy day will be Dr. Curtis Elliott, Regents professor of economics and insurance.

Lorraine Morris will be Ivy Day soloist. A senior in music, she sang the lead in the 1965 opera "La Traviata." She is a member of Mu Phi Epsilon, music sorority.

Children in the court, youngsters of former members of Mortar Board, are Colleen Ann Holloran, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Holloran; Ann Louise Gourlay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Gourlay, and Scott Douglas Keene, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Keene.

This year's Ivy Day schedule includes: 9:45 a.m., Carillon; 10, Band Concert; 10:10, Mortar Boards and Innocents enter; 10:15 Chancellor gives welcome; 10:20, Innocents alum gives traditions and dedicates days to Nancy THIRTEEN ON THIS TEAM . . . John Lonnquist, president of Innocents, leads the tackling practice for Innocents held Thursday on the football field. Tackling ceremonies will commence in the area between Sheldon Art Gallery and Architectural Hall at 1:50 p.m. Saturday.

Vox Populi Emphasizes Incorporation Of ASUN

Vox Populi (Voice of the People) drew up the following platform at a meeting last Saturday. All Vox Populi candidates were present at the meeting.

"We, Vox Populi, applauding the work of the Constitutional Convention and seeking to implement its intents and purposes, to improve and strengthen the role of Student Government in the University Community, to bring improved Student Government into reality, and firmly believing that party government as implied in the Constitution will bring about both increased interest and greater participation on the part of the student body in the governing process, will seek to establish the following programs and policies.

Student Welfare:

1. Investigation of textbook prices and bookstore policies and of the establishment of a co-operative bookstore under the direction of the ASUN, and immediate support and enlargement of the Alpha Phi Omega Book Exchange.

2. Expansion of intramural and recreational facilities.

3. Investigation of the possibility of erecting a parking building on campus to free space for class buildings and malls.

4. The establishment of a tutoring service under the direction of the ASUN which would direct students to qualified tutors.

5. A generous budget allotment to bring prominent speakers to the campus regardless of their political, social, economic, or moral convictions.

6. The strongest possible ASUN action to insure that adequate student housing will be equally accessible to all students.

7. Encouragement of the Administration to increase the opportunities for student employment on campus and realistically re-adjust student wage scales.

8. An increase in library hours and administrative efficiency during vacations as well as the regular term.

Student Government:
1. Incorporation of the ASUN, thus allowing it to be legally and financially capable of undertaking such projects as a co-operative bookstore.
2. Establishment of a committee to investigate affiliation.

Fund Established To Honor Schultz

Dr. C. Bertrand Schultz, geologist, professor and director of the University State Museum, was honored Friday when the Nebraska Academy of Sciences announced the establishment of a memorial fund in his name.

The Schultz Memorial Fund will be an undergraduate research fund.

Dr. Schultz received his B.S., M.S. and Ph. D. degrees from the University.

Since 1932 he has been research associate in the Frick Laboratory, American Museum of Natural History.

Specializing in cenozoic fossil mammals and geology, Pleistocene (Ice Age) fossils and man, Dr. Schultz is the author of more than 100 scientific papers.

He was a delegate to an international congress on Ice Age research in Poland for two months in 1961 and studied the Tertiary and Pleistocene deposits on the European continent in the summer of 1964.

He has been secretary of the Academy since 1942 and was chosen president-elect during the balloting at the meeting Friday.

Spring Day Spirit Tested By Contest

"How We Looked When We Won the Tug of War!"

This is the theme for a new spirit contest which will begin next week. The contest is being sponsored by Spring Day and all living units are encouraged to participate.

Trophies will be awarded at Spring Day, May 7, to the living unit having the best sign or display in front of their house with the tug of war theme.

All displays must be up and completed by Monday at 3:30 to be eligible for the trophy.

tional organization of student governments.

3. Passage of organic acts (bylaws) which will effectively implement the structure of the Constitution.

4. Initiation of a Student Advisory Board in those colleges which do not already have one and appointment of a coordinating Secretary of Advisory Boards to serve on the President's Cabinet.

Student Communications:

1. A request to the Board of Regents to allow the ASUN President and Vice-President to attend their meetings.

2. Initiation of a system of teacher and course evaluation to aid the student in formulating his schedule and to assist the Faculty Senate in appraising their personnel and curriculum.

3. Closer work with alumni organizations in order to improve the image of the University throughout the state.

4. Promotion of co-operation of various student organizations with the Centennial Commission so that the University can participate in the 1967 Centennial showing the people of Nebraska the role of the University in the history and progress of the state."

Vox Populi Senate candidates are: Cuz Guenzel, Becky Marshall, Bob Samuelson, John School, Ron Neel, Karen Westerberg, Byron Moore, Jeff Lefko;

Ciardi To Talk Wednesday

John Ciardi will present a lecture in the Nebraska Union ballroom Wednesday at 3:30 p.m. The topic of his lecture will be "What Good is a College?"

Ciardi received his A.B. degree from Tufts College and his A.M. at the University of Michigan. He has taught English at English University of Kansas City, Harvard University, and Rutgers University. He is poetry editor of "The Saturday Review" and director of the Bread Loaf Writers Conference.

Ciardi was the recipient of the Avery Hopwood Award in Poetry, 1939; Blumenthal Prize, Poetry Magazine, 1944; Eunice Tietjens Award, 1945; Levinson Prize, 1947; Harriet Monroe Memorial Award, 1955; Prix de Rome, American Academy of Arts and Letters, 1956.

Ciardi has contributed poems and articles to "Atlantic Monthly," "Harpers," "Saturday Review," and many others. His latest additions to the literary world include "I Met A Man," "In The Stone-works," "The Man Who Sang The Sillies," and Dante's "Purgatorio."

Ciardi is married and has two children. He is writing a regular column in "The Saturday Review" called "Manner of Speaking," and has appeared on CBS television in a weekly program, "Accent."

Students Prepare For Spring Day

Over 3,000 University students will celebrate spring and the approaching school wrap-up with Spring Day festivities Friday.

Events on the tractor field of the East Campus will include tug of war, roller skating, obstacle relays, push ball and pyramid races. Permanent trophies will be awarded to the men's and women's groups winning the greatest total of points in the games.

Sigma Kappa won the overall trophy for women's groups last year. The men's overall winner was Sigma Chi.

To build Spring Day enthusiasm, living units on the campus will display posters in front of their residences on the theme, "How We Appeared When We Won the Tug of War Contest." Trophies will be awarded for the best posters.

Mike Jeffrey is Spring Day chairman. Jim DeMars is assistant chairman

Senate Candidates Explain Plans For Ag, Home Economics College

Ten persons are candidates from agriculture and home economics for Student Senate. Three of the candidates will be elected.

The Daily Nebraskan interviewed these candidates to find out what they want to do or feel must be done for the new government and the student body next year.

Jan Binger, freshman, said she thought the most important thing next year in student government will be to make the new constitution work.

She also pointed out that she felt some definite things need to be done to improve communications between the city campus and the East campus.

Dennis Rickertson, sophomore, suggested that school start three weeks earlier in the fall.

"If school started earlier," he said, "rural students could get out sooner and be able to help their families with the spring work."

More publicity about social functions on East campus and better publicity between the city and East campus were both ideas of Karen Hastings, sophomore. She also said that a committee should study the bus service between the two campuses.

"Many students don't know what the new constitution is and there is a definite problem of communication between the students and their representatives," said Ken Beebe, sophomore.

Beebe suggested that monthly reports could be sent out by the Senators to keep their constituents informed.

Carol Boyd, sophomore, said that the new student government needs to be more of a governing body and not just another activity. She said it should help co-ordinate the activities of other organizations.

Bob Milligan stressed the fact that the new Association has got to get more students interested and informed about student government.

He also pointed out that certain activities that Council is now involved in or may be in the future should be left to other organizations. He called for more publicity and more knowledge about activities on both campuses, especially on East Campus.

Wesley Musser, sophomore, said that relations had to be improved between East and city campus. He also called for working on such problems as the bus service.

A more active government is the way Curtis Bromm, sophomore, describes the government he wants to see next year.

He wants to see the Association working out more issues and conflicts and giving the students more of a say.

Dave Snyder and Ron Prior could not be reached for comment. Their views will be in Wednesday's paper if they contact the Daily Nebraskan before then.

Arts and Sciences candidate John Peak, sophomore, said that student apathy is a mistaken phrase. He pointed out that students often don't have confidence in the government because it takes no concrete actions.

He said that he would like to see student government sponsor a publicity program throughout the state for a broadening of the tax base. "This," he said, "would solve the University's real financial problems."

Teachers College candidate Byron Moore, sophomore, said that the first thing the new government will have to do is to put the Constitution into effect.

He also said that the Association must be incorporated so that then it can act as the legal representative of the student body. He said that student government may be able to then set up its own co-operative book store.

Candidates List Plans For Graduate College

Student Senate candidates from Graduate College, Bruce Beck, Rich Miller, Leon Orendler and Paul Readhead, have presented the following ideas to work on in the student senate in the coming year.

Their prospective plans include working with the Administration to develop a more efficient means of registering graduate students and expanding library hours to meet the needs of professional and graduate students.

They will also search for better communication with the students they represent to more fairly and accurately represent their views on problems that arise.

Famous Alums Arrive; Masters Week Begins

By Rich Meier Junior Staff Writer

The University Masters program began yesterday and will last through tomorrow.

The program gives students an unusual opportunity to meet and talk with several alumni leaders who have achieved outstanding success in their chosen fields.
