Peggy King Aids Gulfport Project

By Tony Myers
Junior Staff Writer

A 1964 University graduate, Peggy King, saw for herself this summer what a civil rights organization does in the South.

Miss King returned recently to Lincoln after working for the Gulfport Project, a civil rights group under the sponsorship of the Freedom Democratic Party, in Gulfport, Miss.

Miss King was responsible for putting out a weekly newsletter, the Liberty Bell, which had a circulation of 2,500 and was the only source of information concerning the civil rights movement in Mississippi.

"It is important to note that we are a mixed group working as servants of the Negro community, but our main purpose is to show the Negroes of Gulfport that they can have an effective influence over the way their lives are run," commented Miss King.

"Because Negroes are not allowed to join the Democratic Party in Mississippi and because the Republican Party is practically non-existent, we are trying to organize the Negroes into a political organization, so that they can obtain some degree of political power.

"We have set up a political structure beginning with block captains and carrying on up to the leaders of the party.

"There should be a great deal of interest in the upcoming school board elections, because we will be backing our own candidates."

The Gulfport project is not completely political in nature. In addition to the political activities, the Freedom Democratic Party has a credit union in the planing stages and has in operation a sewing center and a thrift shop.

"Because this is such an economically poor area, when a Negro is forced to borrow money, he must make weekly payments instead of the usual monthly payments," stated Miss King. "This forces him to pay an extremely high rate of interest and through the credit union we hope to be able to cut down on this amount."

"The thrift shop and the sewing center are supported by donations made to the project by civic organizations in Rochester, N.Y., and Palo Alto, Calif."

While attending the University, Miss King was President of the YWCA, secretary of Friends of SNCC, treasurer of Mortar Board and a member of Phi Beta Kappa, national scholastic honorary.
