Scarlet Bombs Purple 34-14

By Jim Swartz
Sports Editor

Nebraska's guns started booming Saturday as the Scarlet outgunned TCU in a 34-14 battle at Memorial Stadium.

Rain fell on the record 52,650 spectators that saw the nation's number one team unleash a game attack good for 134 yards in the air and 250 yards on the ground against the Horned Frogs.

The first quarter featured scoring drives of 78 and 43 yards, highlighted by the hard nosed running of left half-back Ron Kirkland and capped by the pass-catching of left end Freeman White who was on the end of two touchdown passes.

White's afternoon effort of eight grabs wrote him in the Husker record book, bettering the old mark of five.

Safety Larry Wachholtz showed fine form in punt returns. Wachholtz returned a punt for 28 yards after picking up a block from Walt Barnes to set up the Scarlet's second touchdown.

Left corner back Bill Johnson pirated a Kent Nix pass and returned it 50 yards to make up the balance of the Husker's first half scoring, and killing the Purple's victory hopes.

TCU found their way into the scoring column with 12:04 left in the half as Nix connected on a sideline pass to Sonny Campbell, who had managed to loose defender Kaye Carstens on the slippery turf.

The second half remained the Husker's game as Kirkland put himself in the scoring column after running and twisting out of a pack of tacklers on the TCU five to take it in for the TD.

TCU managed to score again the fourth quarter as Gresham intercepted a Fred Duda pass and lateraled to John Richardson to kick it in to the Husker 12.

Sophomore halfback Steve Landon took the ball in from the three to add sparkle to his fine afternoon.

The final Husker score came with :09 seconds left in the game on a Duda pitch to Ken Brunk who took it in from the one.

The Huskers move into practice this week in preparation for Saturday's encounter with the Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs.

The Falcons were brought down Saturday in a 31-14 encounter with Wyoming.

In other Big 8 action: Iowa State bettered Drake 21-0; Colorado battled Wisconsin to a 0-0 tie; Texas Tech topped Kansas 26-7 in a game called in the fourth quarter because of tornado warnings; sixth-ranked Arkansas rolled over Oklahoma State 28-14; and Indiana downed Kansas State 19-7.

Oklahoma was idle and opens its season Saturday against Pittsburg.

Huskers Rise, Tide Subsides

By Jim Pearce

A motley lot of umbrellas covered the 52,650 who sat in Memorial Stadium in Lincoln Saturday to witness the uncovering of Nebraska's football firepower.

The expectant throng, along with a good part of the nation which is partial to collegiate football and leary of pre-season predictions, did not have to sit in wonderment (and rain) long before they saw the Husker guns shouting out.

After a sluggish start, the defensive unit put the clamps to TCU and allowed the Frogs only 164 yards for the afternoon.

Though not enough to allow the Huskers to coast the rest of the way, Saturday's performance, whether by the airways, overland, or in defensive endeavors, was the best of the best in the nation.

Last season's national champion, Alabama, unveiled their guns in enemy territory. The Crimson Tide surged into the lead against Georgia with a scant two minutes to go, but it took all their ammunition. After the kick-off, Georgia scored on a 73-yard pass and pitch play, then made a two point conversion to turn back the Tide.

Arkansas, 1965 Cotton Bowl King, launched its season by mauling the Oklahoma State Cowboys 28-14. The Hogs rolled up 422 yards offensively.

Texas trounced out-matched Tulane 31-0 Saturday night. For Texas it was merely an exercise under game conditions.

Highly regarded LSU won, but had a difficult time with Texas A&M, 10-0.

However, Irish of Notre Dame displayed some awesome power in their 48-6 romp of California. Ara's army should provide the pollsters with a puzzler when it comes to selecting the nation's top team this week: Notre Dame or Nebraska?

Intramural Notes . . .

The fall football season kicks-off its schedule today as three games are slated to open the competition at the Ag Campus fields, weather permitting.

According to intramural supervisor Joel Meier all team managers should check the schedule as all fields are scheduled for games tomorrow.

Fall golf starts today and all competitors should have their first round played and scores in by Sept. 27.

The second referee's clinic is scheduled for tomorrow night at 7:00 p.m. Referees

Tennis Meeting

Tennis coach Ed Higginbotham announced today that there will be a meeting for all varsity and freshmen tennis players Thursday, 5:00 p.m. at the P.E. Building.
