

GOAL DUST...

By Jim Swartz
Nebraskan Sports Editor

It's the big last day, the Dodgers have finished close all season and they didn't make the World Series an exception. It should be an interesting game, seeing the managers clear the benches trying to find the right winning combination.

For my money—the Dodgers' will shake the Minneapolis jinx and show the Twins the speed and balance the Bums have used to capture the National League pennant.

In things closer to home, the Huskers will make their first Conference road trip Saturday, and league rulings limit them to 40 men on the traveling team.

"We're just going to have to swing some interior line-men," head coach Bob Devaney said. "And it means we'll have to leave some fine players at home."

The injury situation is becoming an acute problem in the Husker camp. Langston Coleman, Mike Grace and Bill Haug, three of the best defensive ends in the nation, are all sidelined with injuries. Although there is a chance Coleman might make the trip, the end spots will be held down by Ivan Zimmer and Jerry Patton, who manned the positions in a convincing manner against Wisconsin.

Reports have sophomore Marv Mueller replacing Ted Vactor in Saturday's defensive line-up. The only other noteworthy change is that Ron Kirkland is back at left half-back. Kirkland sat out the Wisconsin game with a shoulder injury. His running duties were taken over by Pete Tattman while Al Kuehl handled his punting chores.

The Huskers will turn their attention Saturday to the hapless Kansas State Wildcats. The Wildcats stand 0-4 for the season that could become an awfully long one for them. They did manage to hold Missouri scoreless most of the first half last week and changing to the I formation did help cut down on the errors that have plagued them all season. However, the Scarlet should score another victory with some hard-nosed playing.

The game the nation will be watching Saturday is the Texas-Arkansas clash at Fayetteville. The Razorbacks are ranked third in both wire polls while the AP ranks the Longhorns first, three points over the second-ranked Huskers. The UPI ranks the Longhorns behind the Huskers with a second place ranking.

After the Oklahoma-Texas clash last week, a Longhorn linebacker announced that the winner of the Texas-Arkansas game will be the national champs... it should be an interesting game.

Cowboys Resumes Tech Series; Colorado vs. ISU

Oklahoma State resumes an old football rivalry Saturday night, the 16th game of the Texas Tech-OSU series at Lubbock.

A year ago at this stage, OSU's Cowboys clutched a 3-0 Big Eight lead as they prepared for the misadventures that were to come in their game with Kansas, but it has been a different schedule this time around.

As he weighed the 1965 facts last August, Coach Phil Cutchin took stock of the rivals ahead of OSU—defending national champion Arkansas, beefed up Missouri, defending Blue Bonnet bowl champion Tulsa, on-rushing Colorado and a resourceful Texas Tech squad fresh from the Sun bowl. "We can be an improved team," Cutchin ventured, "and still be 0-5 at mid-season." He was determined to beat that time-table but aware of the numerous sophos who would be exposed to the flames while they were forged into varsity hands at OSU. Those five rivals were evaluated rather well. They have won 15 games, lost four and tied one.

Cutchin has said that he'll "never like the taste of defeat" and it can be assumed he draws no solace from the fact that State's early schedule probably has proved itself to be the toughest in the conference, just as advertised. The Pokes sidetracked Tulsa and now have Texas Tech ahead before they plunge back into Big Eight competition.

The Tech series is being resumed after an eight year interruption. It is understood that the schools will meet with more regularity in the future.

Saturday's tussle should be a close, defensive minded affair. A sudden spurt of passing success by either club could be the margin of difference.

—Colorado-ISU—

After a battle with an infantry-oriented Oklahoma State team, Colorado again resumes contact with an air-based offensive when Iowa State moves onto Folsom Field behind the fancy firing pin of Quarterback Tim Van Galder this Saturday. Van Galder completely befuddled Kansas last weekend as the Cyclones won their third game in four starts, a 21-7 upset of the Jayhawkers. Van Galder ran for 77 yards and passed for 174 more to sparkplug the Cyclone attack. A Homecoming crowd of between 25 and 30,000 people are expected to watch the CU-Iowa State clash which will kick off at 1:30 p.m.

Colorado continued to show overall improvement in Saturday's 34-11 win over Oklahoma State. The Buffaloes continued to get good running from a fleet of hard-hitting young backs with FB Dick O'Dell with two touchdowns, the first on a great 25-yard effort. Bright spots of the earlier CU games continued to sparkle

... overall defense, place-kicking, and punt returns. QB Bernie McCall had one of his best days Saturday and the offensive line also continued to gain in effectiveness and cohesion.

Top Colorado performers in Saturday's win over Oklahoma State were End Sam Harris and T-back William Harris. It's the second time this fall the Harris combine has been nominated for Big Eight conference honors. Big Sam, the crashing defensive end from Kailua, Hawaii, turned in his fourth straight stellar performance on CU's defensive left wing. He made four unassisted tackles, was never outflanked, got in on three other tackles, batted down one pass at the line of scrimmage.

and forced another pass to go astray with his rush pressure. CU's sophomore Harris, T-back William (the Conqueror) exploded the game's clincher, a 76-yard TD on the third play of the third period. Harris rushed for 116 yards against the Cowboys, best output for a Buff back this fall.

Saturday's Cyclone-Buff contest should be a high flying, high scoring battle. CU has passed the thirty point mark in each of its last two ball games, and Van Galder won't let the Buffalo herd get out of sight if his arm has anything to say about it.

IM's Add Basketball Golf

Basketball "golf" has been added to University intramural competition, according to Joel Meier, supervisor of the program.

Meier said the new contest is similar to "around the world", where competitors shoot from a variety of court positions. In the new games, the competitor will shoot from seven spots with the lowest score winning the contest.

Interested players will shoot three qualifying rounds Oct. 15 to Oct. 22, at the Men's P.E. building. According to Meier, the best 32 players will qualify for the championship flight, the next 32 for the first flight and the next 32 for the second flight.

In other intramural action, free throws are being completed today and the winner will be announced next week. Meier noted that tennis is scheduled to be finished next week.

Ford Motor Company is:

responsibility

Stephen Jaeger
B.B.A., Univ. of Pittsburgh

A key dimension of any job is the responsibility involved. Graduates who join Ford Motor Company find the opportunity to accept responsibility early in their careers. The earlier the better. However, we know the transition from the academic world to the business world requires training. Scholastic achievements must be complemented by a solid understanding of the practical, day-to-day aspects of the business. That is the most direct route to accomplishment.

Stephen Jaeger, of the Ford Division's Milwaukee District Sales Office, is a good example of how it works. His first assignment, in January, 1963, was in the Administrative Department where he had the opportunity to become familiar with procedures and communications between dealerships and the District Office. In four months he moved ahead to the Sales Planning and Analysis Department as an analyst. He studied dealerships in terms of sales history, market penetration and potentials, and model mix. This information was then incorporated into master plans for the District. In March, 1964, he was promoted to Zone Manager—working directly with 19 dealers as a consultant on all phases of their complex operations. This involves such areas as sales, finance, advertising, customer relations and business management. Responsible job? You bet it is—especially for a man not yet 25 years old. Over one million dollars in retail sales, annually, are involved in just one dealership Steve contacts.

As a growth company in a growth industry, Ford Motor Company offers an exceptionally wide spectrum of job opportunities. The chances are good that openings exist in your field of interest. See our representative when he visits your campus. We are looking for men who want responsibility—and will be ready for it when it comes.
