

No More Trouble Expected At U of C

By Rita Dershowitz
The Collegiate Press Service
WASHINGTON (CPS) — The demonstrations which rocked Berkeley last year won't happen again, President Clark Kerr of the University of California believes.

"The mood within the faculty is changing fast," Kerr said in an interview during the 48th annual American Council on Education meeting. "There is no question that the undergraduate has been neglected, but the faculty has a new interest in him." This is one of the "constructive results" of the Berkeley conflict, he contended.

Another factor in the "new mood on campus" was the shakeup within the administration, Kerr noted. The immediate cause for the original student protest was an administration ruling, given without consulting either the faculty or students, which closed off an area on the campus traditionally reserved for distribution of political literature. "Roger Heyns (The new Berkeley chancellor) just isn't going to make a mistake like that," Kerr said.

The lack of communication among students, faculty and administrators was growing before the Berkeley revolt, he commented. "The students came to us better prepared and more highly motivated toward academic study at the same time that the faculty was drawn to research and tasks as consultants. The gap grew."

How is the administration developing the channels of communication that students charged were lacking last year, Kerr was asked. The Byrne report, prepared for the university regents, recommended decentralization along the lines of a "commonwealth" to meet the needs of the individual campuses of the University.

"We are not going to implement the Byrne report," Kerr said. "In a commonwealth any member can withdraw at any time, and no one really wants that."

Kerr was the target of attacks from all sides during the conflict, and he has remained a target for conservative pressure in the state. "There is some feeling outside the campus that the liberalization that had gone on during my seven years as president had gone too far, and the demonstrations were an inevitable result. Conservatives see no counteraction from us for the actions of the students; as in a Greek tragedy they expect sufficient retribution."

Rumors have been rampant concerning Kerr's resignation or firing for some time, and he actually did try to resign last March. However, he now says unequivocally that he "has no intentions of leaving." He appears to be much more optimistic about Berkeley's future than he was reported to be at the time of the crisis — "People don't understand the tremendous vitality of this place. You could have gone through the whole of last year without ever realizing anything was wrong."

Devaney Dorms?

By Mark Plattner
The University has made a fatal plunge towards luxury living. Either the University feels that the students should have nice living conditions, or they feel that education is NOT here to stay and they can turn the campus into a resort.

Whatever the reasons, the University has decided to build luxury dormitories. These resplendent buildings are to be complete with swimming pools, phones, and everything that any student could want.

But there is one thing that will be done wrong. The name given to this building will certainly not meet up with the miracle that the building represents. Perhaps the name of the building should indicate a miracle of its own.

We cannot deny that these dorms are needed. The increased enrollment has necessitated building them. But what is the cause of this building enrollment?

The answer is simple, national prestige.

This national prestige has come from two major facets of our campus life. First, now that the ASUN is supreme over everything, anything that happens must be cleared through the senate.

The second reason is our football team. It is number one in the nation, and it is winning us prestige, trips to bowl games, and new students.

But I digress. The University of Missouri, our home away from home, has named their luxury dorms Mark Twain. The stated reason is that he (Twain) spread the gospel and truth of Missouri throughout the world and nation.

Following this lead, we should name our dorms Bob Devaney Hall. Because of Coach Devaney 1,500,000 Nebraskans are cheering for the team. Millions of Americans are cheering for the Cornhuskers. And, of course, three hundred million Chinese are yelling, "Go Big Red."

We owe this to our coach, our team, and to those three hundred million yelling Chinese.

More Teach-In's?

The SDS teach-in was successful. It was stimulating.

Those who attended heard voices from the left and right and from those who rode the proverbial fence.

Those who attended clapped in agreement when a speaker projected their own Viet Nam philosophy. They questioned various speakers' positions.

This interaction was the most thought-provoking, beneficial part of the teach-in. Unfortunately all those who had questions could not ask them.

That undergraduates, graduate students, professors and even some interested Lincoln residents would attend and participate is a significant indicator that more such discussions, forums, teach-ins are needed on this campus.

There is obvious interest. There is a vacuum of opportunity to learn through discussion in an out-of-the-classroom situation on this campus.

Police surveillance of the teach-in, though expected, was not necessary. Those attending were not there to riot, march or picket — they were there out of curiosity.

What would a teach-in be like? Those who attended have their answer: an educational and stimulating experience.

May University of Nebraska students, faculty members and administrators be offered another similar experience—very soon.
