

Home Economists To Hold Meeting

Techniques of working with low-income families will be the main topic as Nebraska home economists meet at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education today and tomorrow.

The two-day conference, sponsored by the Nebraska Home Economics Association, is a followup to the American Home Economics Association (AHEA) conference held in Chicago last March.

The purpose of the Nebraska workshop are to acquaint home economists with the methods of working with the under privileged and to encourage home economists to assume greater leadership in meeting the needs of families caught in the poverty cycle.

Three speakers featured at the Nebraska conference are Dr. Allison Davis, professor of education at the University of Chicago; Mrs. Naomi Brill, assistant professor of the University Graduate School of Social Work; and economics consultant of the Department of Health Education and Welfare in Washington, D.C.

Phi Eta Sigma To Hold Fall Initiation Sunday

Phi Eta Sigma, freshman scholastic honorary, will hold its fall initiation next Sunday. Letters of invitation should have arrived to eligible students, but if there are any questions, students are asked to contact Dr. Leslie Hewes, 104 Geography Building before Friday.

Does your E equal Ennu? Do you feel that MC<sup>2</sup> means Charley McSquare when you approach the "IN" crowd? Cast off those bonds of picayune pigeonholing. Break the boss barrier with Pop Art! You have to study. Or leave your Ivy-Ivory Tower. But study and stuffy are not synonymous. Wrap your math books in Pop. See the difference. Next time you inhabit the library, open your newly-covered Pop Art textbook and...find out how E equals Extraordinary excitement!

Pop Art book covers available at your nearest logarithm; or wherever records are sold.

(And, unless you're a loser, you'll check out the lineup of Capitol records, too! That means the Beatles, The Beach Boys, The Lettermen, The Seekers and so on!)
