East Union Manager Finds Variety In New Position

By Jane Palmer

"It's something like being the manager for a small college student union," the new manager of the Union on East Campus said.

The young man is Dave Younkin, and he was talking about the variety that he has found in his new job since he came to work on Aug. 23. He has charge of the food service and program of East Union, which includes being the adviser for five East Union committees.

Working with the students is what Younkin enjoys most about his job, and the contributions made by East Union workers came as his biggest surprise.

"I was really impressed with the way the students volunteered their services in Union, especially with the class loads some of them are taking. You just don't see this in high school students — it's practically nil," he explained.

Younkin is very optimistic about the future of the student union both here and around the country.

"Student unions are becoming more popular among colleges because today we see even small colleges building new unions."

Younkin thinks that the majority of college students do not spend too much time on recreation, but there will "always be a few who do." One thing that particularly surprised him was how little some of the students, even those living on East Campus, knew about the programs and facilities of East Union.

"One area we're particularly trying to improve is culture," he said. On Nov. 4, East Union is going to have Soon Sung Cho of the Political Science Department speak on Viet Nam as part of the Union's Lounge Series.

East Union also has plans for a new building, but Younkin said that the plans were in a very "primitive stage."

WHICH WAY IS YOUR PERSONALITY WARPED?

Don't jump to any quick conclusions! Capitol Records has thoughtfully provided you a foolproof method for answering this question and two equally burning issues:

Is Our Society Going To Pot? and Are You Ready To Hear

ART BUCHWALD?

Pictured here is the first and only record made by nationally-syndicated columnist Art Buchwald. You may or may not know of this fellow. No matter, Buchwald is either:

- a) "The most comic American since Mark Twain"
- b) "Nothing more than a writer of unadulterated rot"

Now with that in mind, you can see why we're afraid this album could fall into the wrong hands. To prevent that possibility, we've designed the little quiz you are about to take. DO NOT DIVULGE YOUR SCORE!

	TRUE	FALSE
1) The Russians scramble every third word of Mr. Buchwald's column to confuse the C.I.A.
2) The Louvre can be run in under six minutes.
3) Arthritis is unavailable in Palm Beach, Florida.
4) The best reason for contributing to charity is getting your picture taken.
5) There is a drastic shortage of Communists in the U.S.
6) Every American city should have a resident Communist.
7) J. Edgar Hoover is a fictional character appearing in the Reader's Digest.
8) The majority of college men believe in chastity.
9) College girls don't respect boys who "give in."
10) A Harvard boy wouldn't think of "going all the way" with a girl; besides, he wouldn't even know what it meant.

SCORING: Give yourself 5 points for every TRUE; give yourself 0 for every FALSE. Interpretation: A score of 0 indicates you can't be fooled by stupid questions. Don't waste your time on Art Buchwald. A score of 100 indicates you're sick, so sick you'd better hear Art Buchwald right away. Any score in between indicates "it's a tie"; take the test again!
