Skirting Other Campuses Fraternity Projects, Riots Compete With Keg Rolling

The 1965-66 school year is well on its way with student projects, movements and issues picking up speed and fire on every campus across the country. News stories and editorials from college newspapers show that everything from girls' hours to fraternity projects and riots are causing interest on college campuses.

The Creightonian at Creighton University in Omaha reports that the pledges of Delta Sigma Pi have set a world's record in keg-rolling. They set the record by rolling a keg 9.3 miles in two hours and 42 minutes.

At Boulder AWS and an Ad Hoc Committee on Women's Rights, both lead by students, are clashing over means of reforming women's hours. The Colorado Daily says that AWS stresses the need for a slow process while the Ad Hoc Committee calls for a big and quick change. One member of Ad Hoc Committee pointed out that if the basis of AWS is "the prevention of pregnancy then the function of AWS should be to distribute birth control pills."

The Colorado Daily also recently published the results of a report from a U.S. Senate subcommittee describing the teach-ins held last year at the university and charging that students are being "brain-washed" by a group of faculty members and the Colorado Daily.

At the University of Illinois the Daily Illini reports that Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity has announced plans to sponsor a blood crusade on the university campus. A speaker for the fraternity was quoted as saying they were neither in support nor opposition to the U.S. policy in Viet Nam, but rather hoped to show support or the soldiers in Viet Nam.

An editorial writer in the Iowa State Daily, commenting on student protest movements said, "I would submit that these egg smeared dissenters are one of the most valuable assets our country possesses. Without dissenters who can, and will, express differing opinions, how can more than one side of an issue be presented to the public? Without dissent, there is apathy and unawareness, a condition of prevailing stagnancy."

"When people are challenged to defend their ideas and actions, they have to rally, investigate the reasons for their belief, and actively support it. Declarations of support for government policy take place only after protests against government support have been voiced."

The Minnesota Daily in a special university issue predicts that a typical university student in 1975 may start out his day by attending a lecture with 12,000 other students and finding that he can no longer crouch in the back of the auditorium for a quick nap. A

"Guthrie-like" amphitheater will make the back row only 12 rows away — close enough to establish personal contact between students and professors, the paper says.

Gatekeepers and ushers at the Orange Bowl, according to an editorial in the Miami Hurricane at the University of Miami, are setting a bad example for the students. The editorial said that of the five gatekeepers and ushers observed only one was sober and that the rest told "intoxicating tales." The editorial also pointed out that the attendants treated the students as though they were "cattle."

Students for Positive Action at Kansas State University in Manhattan, Kan., picketed the stadium at Saturday's Homecoming game in an effort to receive new library facilities instead of a new football stadium, according to the Kansas State Collegian.

The Daily Iowan at the University of Iowa reprinted an editorial from Human Events which described the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) as being "so far out that even extreme leftists are becoming skeptical of its tactics. In its convention last June, for example, the SDS decided to engage in rough and tumble activities with the police and struck out opposition to Communism from its membership cards."

Builders Contest To End Nov. 12

One or two right words and a date to the Kosmet Klub show with either Candy May, 1965 Homecoming Queen, or Ron Kirkland, Cornhusker football player, can be yours.

All that the word or words needs to be is a name to replace the "Student Committee for Coordinating Student Gifts to the Nebraska Foundation" name currently being used by the special committee of Builders.

Open Contest

The contest is open to everyone and a student may enter as often as he likes. Name suggestions will be accepted until Nov. 12 and may be placed in the ballot box next to the information-candy counter in the Nebraska Union.

Judging the contest will be: Dr. Robert Narveson, professor of English; Mr. Joyce Ayres, president of Ayres and Associates Advertising Company; Albert Book, assistant professor of journalism; Buzz Madsen, vice president of Innocents; Shirley Voss president of Mortar Boards, and Jon Kerkhoff, committee chairman.

"People have asked us what kind of names should be entered," Kerkhoff said. The name need not be serious or funny. First it should be informative. It should stand out among the other names on campus," he explained.

Three Purposes

Kerkhoff said the new committee has three purposes:

- To inform students of the aims and purposes of the Nebraska Foundation.
- To increase the number of students who contribute to the Foundation before they leave school.
- And to make money through unusual projects for a Big Red scholarship fund, to be administered by the Foundation.

The committee is planning a Foundation Week beginning April 22 with a "computer dance" in which couples will be paired by a computer, according to Kerkhoff.

Kerkhoff said the committee hopes to have Nebraska alumni, who are now entertainers, appear during the week. The committee is planning two big projects for next semester, which Kerkhoff said would be announced later.

CANDY MAY . . . Awaits a phone call and a possible date with the winner of the "name the Builders' committee" contest.
