

Packers Sign Jeter

By Jim Swartz

The only Husker football starter for three years is going to try his hands in pro ball.

Tony Jeter, the Husker end who starred his sophomore year on defense and who has performed the last two seasons at tight end, has signed a contract with the Green Bay Packers.

Jeter, the Packers third-round choice and a member of the Coaches All America team, will join his brother Bob on the Green Bay squad.

Packer scout Lew Anderson, who signed Jeter on the sidelines following the Orange Bowl game, lauded him as "a fine player, as far as the NFL is concerned."

Anderson continued his pre-game press box conversation saying "Jeter has a good opportunity to make the club at tight end with his exceptional blocking ability."

The veteran Packer scout explained that Jeter's blocking ability fits perfectly in the Green Bay playing scheme, where all the players on the field are required to block.

"Our game plan," Anderson said, "is his long suit. Tony has good hands and is most effective on the short passes, which shows he has real courage and is not bothered by the close presence of defenders."

Asked the size of Jeter's bonus, Anderson chuckled and explained the policy of never publicizing the amount that a player is signed for but gave assurance that "he is not a poverty case."

Jeter's only possible weakness the scout reported is "he lacks the weight needed for defense."

Jeter's happiness with the contract seemed cancelled by the disappointment of the Husker loss to Alabama, after he caught two touchdown passes. Talking in the dressing room after the singing he said "I am looking forward to playing in pro ball."

"I feel fortunate to get drafted by them (Green Bay) and am happy with what they gave me."

Huskers Edge Iowa State

Nebraska's Cornhuskers extended their record to 9-2 as they clipped the Iowa State Cyclones 17-14, at Ames last night. The contest was the opening Big Eight conference game for both teams.

Coach Joe Cipriano said, "If we can win this one (Iowa State), we're going to be tough." And the Cornhusker victory, in what was figured to be one of the toughest road games for the Huskers this season, puts Nebraska in top contention to walk off with Big Eight honors.

Sophomore Stuart Lantz was the hero of the game as he potted an all important field goal with 38 seconds left in the game for a slim two point edge. On a freak break, Lantz took a Cyclone rebound with only 11 seconds left and upped the lead one more point when he was fouled two seconds later, scoring the winning points.

Nate Branch was high point man for the Nebraskans, accounting for 19 of the Huskers' 76 points. Three other teammates joined Branch in double figures. Team captain Grant Simmons scored 18 and Tom Baack and Lantz shared a berth with 14 counters.

Sophomore Jim Damm started in the contest, but failed to score. He was replaced by Fred Hare, who put on an affectively aggressive defensive show, particularly under the boards. Hare added eight points to the Husker victory before he fouled out on personals in the last minutes of the game.

Again Coach Joe Cipriano applied his team strategy attack, with eight men seeing action against the Cyclones. Tom Baack was an early game stalwart on offensive, hitting all his points then from over 20 feet out. The steadiness of Simmons fired the Cornhuskers for their second half rally, as he found his scoring range in the last minutes, yet shaking the Cyclones with his playmaking ability.

Nebraska never saw the lead until 15 minutes were left in the second half. Iowa State played a strict ball control game and led the Huskers as much as 10 points in the first period.

Facing a halftime deficit of points, the Cornhuskers trailed 40-36. Nebraska's big rally came when the combination of Simmons and Branch put the Huskers in the lead for the first time, and 7,000 fans were at their feet as the lead changed hands five times in the next four minutes.

Iowa State took advantage of a close official's decision, taking the lead and holding it, the Huskers pushing close behind. With 2:55 left, Nebraska deadlocked the score at 73 each, and submitted to a possession stall by the Cyclones. I.S.U. took a one-point lead on a free throw, with just 38 seconds left, but Lantz stole the carom from the second free throw attempt and led the Cornhuskers to their ninth seasonal victory.

Contrary to the final score, the Cyclones outshot Nebraska from the field, hitting 50 per cent compared to 47 per cent for the Huskers. The shorter Nebraska team, with not a man over 6.5, held down the Iowa State rebounding machine, which included two men 6-8 and 6-11. Nebraska took 30 rebounds themselves while allowing the Cyclones 45.

Standout for Iowa State was Don Smith, 6-8 sophomore with 27 points and 19 rebounds. Smith was a constant thorn in the Huskers' side and only committed one personal foul. Al Koch backed up Smith with 14 points at his guard position and played aggressively in all categories before he left the game on personals in the last minutes.

The Cornhuskers host the Missouri Tigers in Lincoln Jan. 8 at 7:25. On Jan. 18, the Kansas Jayhawks invade Lincoln for the second meeting with the Huskers. Nebraska took second place to Kansas in the Big Eight holiday tournament at Kansas City.

The cagers closed out their December schedule on a successful note. During the holidays they ran up a 4-1 mark and nailed down runner-up in the Big Eight Christmas Tourney.

Coach Cipriano's cagers posted wins over South Dakota and Stanford in Coliseum action. In the tourney the Huskers gained wins in the lower bracket over Missouri and Oklahoma before bowing out to favored Kansas 71-61.

The game was nip and tuck until the closing minutes—with Kansas holding a slim lead—the Huskers had to foul to try to gain possession and the Jayhawks turned in their winning margin at the charity strip.

Bama Tops AP Ratings After Downing Huskers

By Jim Swartz

Nebraskan Sports Editor Alabama climbed to the top of the Associated Press's final football rankings. The Tide made it a complete sweep in the New Year's Day upsets that saw the top three undefeated teams go down in defeat.

Nebraska, who lost out 39-28 to Alabama, slipped to fifth in the AP's final poll.

UCLA moved up to fourth after downing Michigan State 14-12 to round out the top five. Missouri held onto sixth place with a 28-18 win over Florida.

The Bear Bryant inspired Bama squad, led by the passing perfection of Steve Sloan, walked into the Orange Bowl the game favorite giving the Huskers a 30 pound weight advantage and walked off of the field an 11 point victor.

The Huskers were not able to match the Tides' breaks and the mistakes that weren't committed during the undefeated season plagued the fired up Nebraska squad.

All was not lost though in the record setting evening, Bob Church came off of the bench to equal a record for touchdown passes thrown at three and the Huskers were written in the record books for the most points scored by a losing team in the Orange Bowl with 28. This was also the most points a Bama opponent has scored against them all season.

The question of who was better than who will probably be the rhetorical question of the hour with not a whole lot being decided by any talk.

The answer to any question is that Nebraska played a former Huskers Bill "Thunder" Thornton and Pat Fischer.

John Strohmeyer defensive tackle signed with Buffalo in the AFL. He was drafted by the Bills as a future last year.

Other Huskers that were drafted by the pros include linebacker Lynn Senkbeil and tackle Dick Czup.

Senkbeil was a twelfth round choice of Chicago in the NFL and the fifth round choice of Kansas City in the AFL.

Czup was drafted by Cleveland in the twelfth round in the NFL and by Buffalo in the fifth round in the AFL.

Both Senkbeil and Czup have a year of eligibility remaining but were eligible for the draft because they were red-shirted their sophomore year.

fine game while getting consistently outguessed by a fine Alabama squad. Their come back threat and their strong will to win registered as big of surprise on the bragging Bear as the 11 point loss did on the Husker rooters—with an estimated 11,000 making the trek.

Husker Gridders Favor NFL Contracts In Signings

The National Football League has signed all of the Husker gridders that they drafted while the American Football League signed one of four.

All America end Tony Jeter signed with Green Bay, he was the Packers third round draft choice. Jeter was also drafted by Oakland in the AFL.

Jeter joins former Husker stars and teammates Dennis Claridge and Lloyd Voss at Green Bay.

All America split-end Freeman White signed with New York. White was the Giant's ninth round choice and was Denver's second round choice in the AFL.

Jim Brown offensive tackle signed with St. Louis. He will join the Cardinal team with
