

Students Evaluate Attitudes

Forms designed to provide the University with more knowledge about students' attitudes, pre-college preparation and general backgrounds have been sent to about 850 students, Harry Allen, Director of the University's Institutional Research Department said Thursday.

Russell H. Brown, student affairs, psychological counselor working with the research program, said students receiving the forms had not been singled out for any reason other than that they represented a general cross-section of the student body and group norms could be established from their information.

"This is an initial step designed to get descriptive data about our students," Brown explained. "This information will help us evaluate the total impact of university life on students and offer us an opportunity to see where the University can improve its job."

Allen described the Institutional Research Department's job as that of a "continuing study of the University and the assembling of information helpful to management at a variety of levels and to provide an objective look at what is going on within the University."

Allen also said the student information form is actually the new application for admission form that will be used beginning next year and the program is only one of many research studies the department is making.

Susanne Plum Named To NCCY Committee

By Maryann Jorgensen
Miss Susanne Plum of Lincoln, University career scholar in educational psychology, has been elected to a three-year term as the only youth member of the National Council for Children and Youth.

Miss Plum was selected on the basis of her contributions as chairman of the Nebraska Council of Youth (NCCY) and for her leadership with the youth section of the National Council of State Committees for Children and Youth, according to Mrs. Clifford Jorgensen, secretary of the NCCSY and chairman of the Nebraska Committee for Children and Youth (NCCY). In connection with her position she will attend three national conferences in Washington, D.C., during spring vacation.

Youth Council Leader
Miss Plum began her youth council participation as a Red Cross representative to the first meeting of the NCCY, which was reactivated as a result of the 1960 White House Conference on Children and Youth held in Washington, D.C.

Under the leadership of Tom Kotouc of Humboldt, a 1964 University graduate, the NCCY formed in 1961 as a sub-division of the NCCY. Miss Plum served as president of this council from 1962-1965 and, as such, was also a member of the NCCY. John Hall, freshman at the University, is now president of the Nebraska council.

"Most of the success of the NCCY is based on the council members and their enthusiasm and willingness to share their ideas and explore new ideas with the local youth councils in the state," noted Miss Plum.

"The cooperation and willingness of the adult advisers is also a large part of the success of the youth council," Miss Plum added.

'Outstanding' Recognition
Miss Plum was chosen to be included in the national publication "Outstanding Young Women of 1965," on the basis of her community service. She is a member of Omicron Nu, a home economics scholastic honorary, and has served as treasurer of the East Campus Union, treasurer of Chi Omega sorority, a member of the Red Cross Board and a member of the Human Resources Research Foundation's Teenage Project and Special Functions Committee.

Miss Plum served as dormitory counselor and resident assistant at the Women's Residence Halls from 1963-1965. Last summer she was a head teacher in Lincoln's "Project Head Start" program.

Now a graduate assistant in statistics in the Educational Psychology Department, Miss Plum plans to receive her master's degree in August. She has applied for doctorate study in child development and hopes to obtain her Ph.D.

Film Shows Volunteers In Action

The work of the Peace Corps will be shown in the film, "A Mission of Discovery" Friday night at 7:30 in the Nebraska Union South Conference Room.

The film, which was shown Wednesday and Thursday nights also, explains that the task of Peace Corps volunteers is to stimulate action in countries where the most available resource is manpower.

The Peace Corps volunteers teach farming methods, care for livestock and food preparation to people who are living on bare subsistence farming. They work with the people, organizing athletic programs, teaching teammanship and good health.

Placement tests for Peace Corps applicants will be given in the South Conference Room at 9 a.m. Saturday and at 9 a.m., 3 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. Monday and Tuesday.

HOUSEMOTHERS . . . listen to Dean Snyder talking about campus problems such as women's hours.

Housemothers Converse On Problems, Poets, Puppies

Conversations ranged from having poet Allen Ginsberg for dinner to a discussion of whose dog had how many puppies at a coffee for the campus housemothers Thursday morning.

Before a meeting with Helen Snyder, associate dean of student affairs, the housemothers conversed over coffee and rolls about the weather, mutual problems and general topics of interest.

One explained that gatherings of this sort are infrequent, but that the housemothers do meet about once a month "just socially."

"Usually we have some type of refreshments and some entertainment," she continued, "but it's really more of a chance just to get together."

Rule Changes
The meeting concerned a discussion of rule changes that have gone into effect this year.

Miss Snyder explained the changes in both women's closing hours and visiting hours. "The change in visiting hours which removes restrictions in women's units after 4 p.m. is coupled with the suggestion that each house decide its own visiting hours," she said.

"This takes away the uniformity," she added, "but allows for individual circumstances of the houses."

She also discussed the policy on having official guests at social functions.

SE High Defeats College Team In Quiz Bowl Match

A Lincoln Southeast High School quiz bowl team beat a University team by 35 points in a special exhibition match at Southeast Thursday.

Delta Sigma Phi fraternity's quiz bowl team, directed by Charlie Baxter, was playing the Southeast team as part of a new University Quiz bowl program to stimulate high school interest in quiz bowl.

Kirsten Tyson, a member of the Southeast Central quiz bowl committee, said that the high school had been holding matches regularly each week all year.

spend the evening playing bridge with the housemother, she said, when they really should be free to wander around the party and meet the students.

"They are not the same thing as chaperones," she added. "They are there to provide an opportunity for social exchange. Too often they comment that they found the housemother very gracious. We already know that. I'd rather them say the fraternity was gracious."

Miss Snyder also asked the housemothers to compile a list of everything that has been taken from their living units this year, how much it is worth, whether it has been returned, and if it hasn't, it's probably whereabouts.

"We're trying to get a total picture of these thefts and harrassments," she explained, "to see exactly what is happening."

Other matters under discussion included the question of women visiting men's apartments and a report on the progress of the research on a senior key system.

Selected to the committee on automatic waivers were Bill Struyke, Jack Guggenmoss and Stu Forbes.

Named to the committee on the 30-day waiting period were Ken Beebe, Taylor Withrow, Charles Baxter and Dave Geier.

Darryl Gless, IFC secretary, and Jerry Olson, scholarship chairman and Gail Burbridge, Phi Kappa Psi, will attend the joint Big Eight IFC and Panhellenic convention in Stillwater, Okla. Saturday. Dick Scott, assistant to the Dean of Student Affairs, will also attend. Three representatives from Panhellenic will attend.

The next IFC meeting will be a joint meeting of house presidents and treasurers at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education.

At the joint meeting, recommendations about the reporting of house financial statements to the IFC Board of Control will be taken into consideration.

Closer communication between the house presidents and house treasurers will also be stressed.

Air Force Week Includes Blue Yonder Workshop

Programs, including one for fiancées, of men in Air Force ROTC will be a part of Air Force week from Feb. 20-26.

Both Governor Frank Morrison and Lincoln Mayor Dean Petersen have proclaimed the week Air Force Week for Nebraska.

A tea honoring Mrs. Lloyd Johnson, wife of one of Joyce-Johnson squadron's namesakes, Lt. Col. Lloyd Johnson, will be hosted by Mrs. Donald Williams, wife of Capt. Donald Williams, Arnold Air Society and Angel Flight adviser. Angel Flight members and wives of detachment officers will attend the tea Sunday.

"Focus on the Air Force officer's wife: Her Challenging Role" is the theme of the annual Angel Flight Blue Yonder workshop. The Feb. 22 program is planned as an orientation session for future Air Force officer's wives.

It will include speakers on medical care, transportation, legal services, housing, personal affairs and family services.

In connection with the Workshop, those attending will have a chance to talk to Air Force detachment officers' wives at a Feb. 23 coffee at the home of Mrs. William Bowers, wife of the University professor of aerospace studies.

An F86D fighter plane, used extensively during the Korean War, will be on display during the week.

A display on nuclear power from the Atomic Energy Commission will also be on display as will a Civil Air Patrol exhibit.

The Air Force Ball will climax the week of Feb. 26 at the Lincoln Air Force Officer's Club with a dinner and dance. Music will be provided by the SAC dance band.

Morrison's proclamation cited the important role of the ROTC in the development of aerospace oriented activities and the thorough and comprehensive training which the thousands of cadets receive in preparation of their roles as Air Force officers and the many breakthroughs in air science which take the ROTC program.
