

Formal Clothes

Delgado notes, "cocktail dresses and suits are for five to nine occasions."

Style Trends
As far as trends in style are concerned, formal styles this year have changed little from last year. The A line is still very popular though there are some full skirts in soft fabrics like chiffon and velvet. Sheaths appear in the very heavy brocades and satins. The fitted bodice with the empire look is still in demand.

White is still the most sought-after color in gloves, but gloves that match the dress are also in good taste, according to Mrs. Delgado.

With a sleeveless, long formal gown the gloves should extend above the elbow. Over-the-elbow gloves should not, however, be worn with a sleeveless short formal. Short gloves that come to the wrist and gloves that extend up to the elbow are appropriate according to the sleeve length of a short formal or cocktail dress.

Organza, Feathers, Furs
Wraps pose perhaps the biggest problem with a long gown. Mrs. Delgado notes that stoles are quite popular during the spring season and are now available in ruffled organza, feathers and furs. Long coats to match the gowns are also appropriate. Most sorority social chairmen advise against wearing a three-quarter length coat with a long gown.

Though white will still be the most frequently worn color in dinner jackets, the daring man will be seen in pale green and gold hues now arriving in the formal fashion picture.

According to James Kopetka of a local tuxedo rental shop, red, blue, striped, plaid and madras are still popular with both long and short formal. Kopetka states that most men will want dinner jackets for formal occasions. Suits are permissible, he says, but he feels that a formal affair should be kept on a formal basis. Sport coats, he notes, are not appropriate for formal or semi-formal dances.

"Butterfly" Tie
The most popular tie for formal dress is, according to Kopetka, the "butterfly." This tie is thin at the knot and wings out to the collar. The "pierre" (a puff with a pleated front. It may also come in colors.

Once the question of formal dress has been decided, the question of flowers arises. One fraternity suggests that if the boy is invited to a girl's formal, he should buy a corsage. However, if the boy invites the girl to his formal, the additional expense of flowers is not advised. Several fraternities state that they no longer consider flowers necessary at formal functions.

The type of music played at a formal affair has no effect upon the dress to be worn, say social chairman. Many fraternity house formals have switched recently from slow dance bands to fast combos, in an effort to increase attendance at the dance toward the end of the evening. But whether the dancing is slow and formal or fast and furious, the occasion still demands attire that is in step with formal taste.

'Christianity' Is Topic Of Panel
The impact of Christianity on the development of the Western World is the topic of a panel discussion sponsored by the History Club Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

The panel includes Fr. Raymond Hain, director of the Newman Center; Dr. Alan Pickering of the United Campus Christian Fellowship (UCCF) and Dr. Steven Ross, assistant professor of history.

THE UNIVERSITY THEATER'S... next drama presentation with Mrs. Sweetser starring as Mother Courage will open this Friday.

Mother's Role: 'Mother Courage'

The mother of four children and wife of an Air Force major heads the cast of the University Theatre's production of "Mother Courage."

Mrs. Marcene Sweetser, a University student, will play her first leading role as Mother Courage in the play which begins Friday.

"Mother Courage," Mrs. Sweetser said, "is a fascinating character, arduous, yet marvelous to play. I love Mother Courage, and I'm really enjoying the play very much."

'Contradiction in Character'
She described the play as being unusual because the whole production is a different style.

'In all of Brecht (author of "Mother Courage"), there is a complete contradiction in the character, and we see all sides of the character. In the production we see elements of realism and non-realism,' she said.

Mrs. Sweetser said she does not feel unusual because she is older than most college students. "I have met quite a few people in school my age and it seems to be a trend almost."

She attended teachers college in Australia. In June she will receive a bachelor's degree in fine arts and plans to enter Graduate College in speech and theatre next fall.

High Average
A Wilson Foundation Fellowship nominee, Mrs. Sweetser was honored last semester by Mortar Board for having one of the five highest accumulative grade averages among women at the University.

A native of Brisbane, Australia, she began participating in the theatre at Boulder and Colorado Springs, directing the Academy Players and working for the Community Playhouse.

Mrs. Sweetser has appeared in the University Theatre productions of "Peer Gynt" and "Antony and Cleopatra."

She received a Dallas Award for her direction of the laboratory theatre play "Escorial."

Writes Comedy

Last fall she adapted, wrote, produced and directed "Master of Comedy and Their Servants," a series of scenes that depicted the evolution of comedy throughout the years.

Pennsylvania State University produced her original musical comedy "Fair Weather" in 1963. In addition, she has written three other plays and has had some of her poetry published.

The Sweetsters came to the University in 1963. Major Wesley Sweetser is an assistant professor of aerospace studies. After he retires from the Air Force, they both plan to teach college. They have four children, ranging in age from 10 to 19.

"Mother Courage" opens March 11 and 12 and will also be presented March 25 and 26, April 29 and 30, and May 13 and 14.

Sorenson Invited To Washington For Conference

Dr. Frank Sorenson, director of summer sessions at the University is presently attending the 1966 National Foreign Policy Conference in Washington, D.C.

The conference for non-governmental organizations is sponsored by the Department of State. It is designed to provide an opportunity for exchange of views on world developments, according to Dean Rusk, Secretary of State.

Topics at the two-day conference which ends Wednesday include the non-military side of the war in Viet Nam, EastWest relations, communism in developing countries, labor on the world scene, Alliance for Progress, United Nations, and food and population problems.

IFC To Vote On Waiver Amendment

An amendment changing the number of automatic waivers per semester will be voted on at the Interfraternity Council Wednesday night.

The IFC last week passed an amendment granting each house two automatic waivers per semester for men who either did not have a 2.0 average or who were not in the upper half of their high school graduating class.

At that meeting Larry Frolik proposed the amendment changing the number from two to one, noting that the number of waivers should be reduced until their success could be determined.

IFC members will also consider Rush Week schedules and costs.

Applications for Gamma Gamma honorary for Greek men and women will also be passed out. The new members of Gamma Gamma will be revealed during Greek Week.

NROTC Instructor Recognized

A University instructor of Naval R.O.T.C., Marine Corps Maj. Glen T. Beauchamp, received the Bronze Star in ceremonies at the University Tuesday.

The medal, awarded in the name of the President of the United States, was made for "meritorious achievement in connection with operations against Viet Cong forces."

Maj. Beauchamp, serving with the First Battalion of the Marine Corps from May 7th to December 6th, 1965, drafted plans for the landing of the Battalion and seizure of enemy installations at Chu Lai.

As operations officer of this Marine Corps air strip on the coast between Saigon and Da Nang, Major Beauchamp was responsible for counterinsurgency planning of combat patrols, and search and clear operations.

According to the citation, drawn by Lt. Gen. V. H. Krulak, commander of the Fleet Marine Force, Maj. Beauchamp "exhibited exceptional and inspiring coolness, professionalism... and was instrumental in the Battalion's success in winning the support of the local population which made possible the defense of the Chu Lai air field."

The Bronze Star was awarded to Maj. Beauchamp before an assembly of University Naval R.O.T.C. students by Capt. A. C. Mullen, professor of Naval Science.

1. Is it true you're planning to get engaged?

I'm on the brink of giving Jane my Beethoven sweatshirt.

2. How are you going to guarantee security to your family when you're married?

I have a rich aunt, you know.

3. What about money for your children's education?

My Uncle Henry is very fond of me. He owns a steel mill.

4. Who'd pay off your mortgage if you should die?

You never can tell. Every time I help an old man across the street I give him my name and address in case he doesn't have anyone to leave his money to.

5. I know something that can help you meet almost all your financial needs. And be independent, too.

Nothing can do all that.

6. Living insurance from Equitable can. It can even give you a lifetime income when you retire.

I wonder if Uncle Henry has it?
