New Buildings Rise

To meet ever-rising enrollment, the University is currently engaged in an active building program.

Two major projects currently under construction are the new Music Building (right), and the Dental College.

According to a spokesman in the office of the Physical Plant Director, construction on both buildings is on schedule. Completion date for the Music Building is Sept. 1, 1966. The Dental College will be ready for use by fall, 1967.

The new Music Building is located at 11th & R St., just west of the old Music Building, which was recently razed. Construction is being financed by funds appropriated by the 1963 Legislature.

The total cost is $1.5 million.

Located on the East Campus, the new Dental College will be a T-shaped structure, two stories high.

The new building will include seminar rooms, class rooms, 84 semi-private stations for clinic work, a research laboratory, and animal headquarters. There will also be closed-circuit TV facilities.

ASUN To Select Homcoming Finalists

By Julie Morris
Senior Staff Writer

A motion making the selection of Homecoming Queen finalists the exclusive privilege of ASUN was passed by Student Senate Wednesday.

The action removes the selection of Homecoming Queen finalists from the jurisdiction of Tassels, but leaves the overall direction of Homecoming to that group.

Tassels President Marilyn Hardee spoke before the Senate meeting endorsing the motion. She stated that Tassels feels it is necessary that "there be an unquestionably recognized Homecoming Queen" and said that putting the selection of finalists under ASUN direction would bring this about.

Selection Board
The resolution provides for the establishment of a selection board composed of the presidents of ASUN, Tassels and Corncocks, three student senators and a non-voting faculty adviser.

The board will select ten finalists from entrants who must be junior women and meet eligibility requirements for activities. The Homecoming Queen will be chosen in an all-University election.

Another provision of the resolution will make it illegal for living units of the candidates to be designated on campaign posters.

Miss NEBRASKAland
The Senate also passed a motion presented by the ASUN Centennial Committee providing that ASUN sponsor a competition to choose a University coed to represent the University in the Miss NEBRASKAland competition June 10-11 in Lincoln.

Sen. Bob Samuelson proposed an amendment requesting that living units submit at least one candidate for the competition, but the amendment was defeated. Samuelson suggested that having living units sponsor a candidate would insure participation in the contest.

Other senators, however, stated that the amendment would be unnecessary because there would be enough interest generated just by the contest itself. Sen. Pam Wood asked, also, how an off-campus independent would enter if she had no living unit to back her.

Entries will be accepted from any coed who is a Nebraska resident. Selection will be made by an ASUN interviewing board.

The Miss NEBRASKAland competition is part of the NEBRASKAland Days Celebration sponsored by the State Game Commission.

Student Court
New appointments to the Student Court were announced. They are Robin Stickney and John Schreking. Five other students, already members of the court, will continue in their present positions. They are Keith McIntyre, chief justice, John Klein, Gale Muller, Sue Turner and Gary Wahlgren.

The Senate approved the recommendations of the constitutional committee that the constitutions of the Interservice Christian Fellowship and Cather Hall be approved.

The committee also announced that the constitutions of Abel Hall, the Agricultural Economics Club and the Nebraska Turkish Students Association are under consideration.

Pickering Resignation
ASUN Vice President Larry Frolik read a letter from former Sen. Tom Pickering which announced that Pickering had to resign from the Senate because of the ASUN constitution.

Pickering's letter explained that he had to resign because he had transferred colleges and is no longer a member of the college which elected him. The ASUN constitution says that a senator must be a member of the college which elected him.

Pickering ran for Senate last spring as a member of the Graduate College and has now transferred to Arts and Sciences.

Quiz Bowl
Larry Johnson, past Quiz Bowl chairman, reported that the organization is continuing attempts to make itself an independent body, separate from the ASUN financial support which it now has.

He said Quiz Bowl's main problem this year has been "too many teams." Johnson said the number of teams is up 25 this year over last year's number and this surplus has created scheduling problems and problems obtaining moderators for matches.

He said the organization is attempting to work out a system that will limit the number of teams in competition, but that nothing has been developed yet.

Johnson said the finals for Quiz Bowl are April 22 on KUON TV. The Big Eight Quiz Bowl finals, he added, are April 29 at Ames, Ia.

Gibbs Publishes Airport Sketches In Magazine

Both the charm and the neglect of airport architecture in the United States was brought to the attention of the flying public this week by the sketches of a University professor.

The sketches appear in the April issue of "Flying" magazine and were executed by Dale Gibbs, professor of architecture.

During the past several years Gibbs, with the magazine's managing editor, has gathered information about the nation's air terminals—from ramshackle sheds to the magnificent international airports of coastal cities.

Gibbs concludes that while many historic, colorful structures dating to the time of barnstorming still stand, they are rapidly falling apart and the flying public ought to do something about it.

Commenting on the many rarely used, weather beaten lean-to sheds capped with windsocks, Gibbs explained "these structures reflect or evoke the spirit of flying in the beginning, the canvas and bailing wire era of Lindbergh, Post and Earhart, of barnstormers' mail flights and World War I."

A good number of these historical airports have already reached the point of no return in shabbiness and decrepitude, he says, but some can be saved.

Majority Favor Viet Nam Policy

"Who is the head of the North Vietnamese government?" may seem like a relatively easy question, but 47.6 per cent of 250 University students could not answer it correctly.

Over Half Correct
Those supporting U.S. policy answered 22.1 per cent correctly, while 29.9 per cent of those opposed to U.S. policy answered correctly.

Majority In Favor

The one question which required an opinion was whether or not the student supported the present United States policy in Viet Nam. Affirmative answers were given by 68.4 per cent of the students questioned.

In a similar poll conducted by the Colorado Daily at the University of Colorado in Boulder, it was reported that 66.4 per cent of the students supported U.S. policy.

The second question, "Who is the head of the North Vietnamese government?" was answered correctly by 52.4 per cent of the University students polled. At Colorado, the percentage of correct replies was four points higher, 56.4 per cent.

Of the students who supported U.S. policy in Viet Nam, 48.7 per cent answered correctly with Ho Chi Minh, while 71.4 per cent of the students who opposed our policy answered the question correctly.

One-third Correct
To the question, "Who is the head of the South Vietnamese government?" 30.8 per cent of the Nebraska students answered correctly with Nguyen Cao Ky. By comparison, Colorado students amassed a percentage of 48.8 correct answers.

Of ten students who opposed U.S. policy, 4.3 per cent answered correctly, while those favoring our policy answered at a rate of 33.4 per cent correct.

The fourth question, "What is the name of the political arm of the Viet Cong?" (the National Liberation Front), elicited even fewer correct responses. Only 25.2 per cent answered correctly. Students at Colorado answered 41.6 per cent correctly.

Concerning the fifth question, "Who is the head of the U.S. forces in Viet Nam?", a paradox arises. At the University of Colorado, those supporting U.S. policy answered correctly at a higher rate, 46.9, than those not supporting U.S. policy, (45.2 per cent correct).

At the University, the results were reversed, with those against U.S. policy answering 40.1 per cent correctly. Those in favor answered at a rate of 38.4 per cent correctly. The correct response was General William Westmoreland.

Dien Bien Phu?
The final question, "When was the battle of Dien Bien Phu?" brought the fewest correct responses on both campuses. In Nebraska, 15.2 per cent of the students answered correctly with 1954. In Colorado, 22.4 per cent of the students were right.

The correct answer was given by 22 per cent of those opposed to U.S. policy, and by 9.5 per cent of those supporting U.S. policy.

Nominating Procedure Approved

By Nancy Henrickson
Junior Staff Writer

An article containing provisions for the nomination of officers in an interform council was temporarily approved after a heated discussion at the Interform Coordinating Committee (IDCC) meeting Tuesday evening.

The article on nominating officers for election read that two weeks prior to the elections, the old executives shall announce nominations for the new executive offices. Further nominations may be made from the floor until a deadline one week prior to elections. People defeated from a previous office may be nominated for another office the night of election.

This article was passed changed by the IDCC. As submitted by the constitutional planning committee, the nominating procedure for officers providing that one week prior to the elections, the executives would announce nominations for executive offices and at the time further nominations may be made from the floor. IDCC president Mary Almy explained that the executives would nominate candidates for the offices because the executives have the best knowledge of the job and awareness of who is qualified.

Tom Holeman, Abel, suggested that more flexibility was needed in nominating candidates for officers. He said that some representatives may be reluctant to nominate qualified persons at the meeting one week before the election.

Other sections of the constitution temporarily approved covered qualifications of officers, election procedures and term of office.

The name of the proposed organization was approved. It will be called the Associated Residents of the University of Nebraska Residence Halls and all students living in residence halls will be members of the organizations.

Oklahoma Dean Of Men Is Greek Week Speaker

W. Rex Brown, dean of men at the University of Oklahoma, will speak to fraternity and sorority members Monday during Greek Week.

Brown's address will be given at 7:30 in the Nebraska Union ballroom, April 4.

Greg Andrews, Interfraternity Council affairs committee chairman, said that Brown, who was the speaker at the Big Eight Interfraternity-Panhellenic Conference in February was well received by delegates there and "should prove to be a very interesting speaker."

Brown, born in Oklahoma City, attended Central State College, the University of Virginia, and Oklahoma City University where he obtained his B.S. degree in business administration.

He received additional degrees from the University of Oklahoma.

In addition to being dean of men he is faculty advisor to the Interfraternity Council.

Brown previously worked as a classroom teacher, coach and high school principal in the Oklahoma school system. He joined the staff of the University of Oklahoma in 1949.

Brown's address will be preceded by exchange dinners between sororities and fraternities. Serenading has been encouraged for later Monday night.
