

DR. HALL ... Daily Lantern Status To Be Unchanged

There will be no changes made in the status of the Daily Lantern, the Ohio State University newspaper, when Dr. William Hall takes over as director of the school's journalism department.

Hall, NU School of Journalism director, told about 85 journalism majors assembled at a convocation Tuesday, "My thinking is to make no changes in the Lantern." Controversy that has arisen over Hall's appointment to the Ohio State position revolved the issue of whether or not an outsider appointed to the post would attempt to "muzzle" the paper in accordance with the alleged wishes of Ohio State President Novice G. Fawcett. The paper is a laboratory for the school of Journalism there.

Hall told the students he feels the Lantern has distorted reports of his actions in connection with the appointment. The paper's headline for a story reporting Hall's suggestion that dissenting faculty at the school cooperate with him or resign was "Hall Invites Nine Faculty to Resign."

Hall said headlines from other papers around the nation had taken the precaution to indicate that he made the statement as an answer to faculty who declared they would resign if he took the directorship.

Dave Hopcraft, the managing editor of the Lantern, will be on campus this week to report the situation, Hall said. "We'll operate on the assumption that he is here to get the other side of the story," he added.

Hall observed that Hopcraft has been "handling most" of the stories connected with the appointment of the new director for the school.

Hopcraft will hold a press conference in the Nebraska Union at 4:45 p.m. Thursday. "Further charges and counter-charges can serve no useful purpose," Hall said. "It appears that we will start the next school year at Ohio State with a full, if divided faculty."

"Please, push no panic buttons," Hall urged the journalism students. He stressed that the "main objective" of the journalism faculty will be "completing the school year without a loss of momentum or a loss of morale." He said he wants to avoid the "type of emotional situation that has developed at Ohio State."

Candidates To Attend YR Event

Twenty-five Republican candidates and office holders will be honored Friday at a reception given by the Lancaster County Young Republicans.

The event will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Lincoln Hotel. Gubernatorial candidates planning to attend are Henry Kuhlman, Val Peterson, Norbert Tiemann and Bruce Hagemeyer.

Candidates for Congress from the First District will include Robert Denny of Fairbury, Robert Krall of Lincoln and Loren Schmit of David City.

Fern Hubbard Orme, Edwin Hart and John Everrod will be the lieutenant governor candidates at the meeting. Other candidates and officials who will be present are: Lincoln Mayor Dean Petersen, Secretary of State Frank Marsh, State Auditor Ray Johnson and Attorney General Clarence Meyer. County officials, candidates and officeholders will also be present.

ANGEL FLIGHT ... Commander Marian Sicklebower receives the Purdue Cup which was awarded to the University group.

Joyce-Johnson Flight Earns National Award

The Joyce-Johnson Flight from the University was awarded Angel Flight's highest award, the Purdue Cup at the 11th National Angel Flight Conclave held in Dallas, Texas.

Presented at the Awards Banquet, the Joyce-Johnson Flight was recognized as this year's Flight that "best fulfills the Angel Flight mission." The cup has been presented annually since 1959 by the Arnold Air Society Squadron from Purdue University.

The Angel Flight Conclave was held in conjunction with the 18th National Arnold Air Society Conclave. Over 2000 Air Force cadets and Angels attended.

Arnold Air Society is the honorary professional society of Air Force ROTC with squadrons at 167 colleges. Angel Flight is a service auxiliary of the Arnold Air Society.

Hosts for the conclave were the Air Force ROTC detachment from Southern Methodist University.

Closer Contact

Placing the associates under Senate jurisdiction and bringing the senators in closer contact with their proteges is stressed by Cindy Cherry. She also suggested having Senate maintain a strong relationship with other organizations by "presenting ideas through the proper channels."

Kathy Costello stressed defining of the ASUN powers; placing ex officio members on the Board of Regents, Faculty Senate and Legislature Budget committee and revising Homecoming queen selection to be nominated from colleges rather than living units.

She also advocated the expansion of the book exchange, establishing a separate building for studying to allow the library to be used for research and abandoning the idea of a Faculty Evaluation Book for a course evaluation book.

Completion of the Faculty-Evaluation Book, placing at least one Senator on every ASUN committee and including a provision in the ASUN constitution to formally provide for an associate program

Teachers, Engineering, Architecture ...

Candidates Give Platforms

Candidates for Student Senate from Teachers College and the College of Engineering and Architecture expressed concern over such matters as the Faculty Evaluation Book, the associate program and general follow-up on projects already passed.

Sixteen students have filed for candidacy from Teachers. Twila Andreason noted that she would like to see more polling places on election day "to eliminate the long lines," a system set up whereby senators from a different college each month would inform living units of ASUN projects and having the one and two hour parking zones rezoned to three and four hours.

Follow through on projects like foreign student housing, establishment of more recreational facilities and a study of earlier programs of student teaching are advocated by Carolyn Bedient.

Speak About ASON Kris Bitner recommended placing a member of Student Senate on the Teachers College advisory board, assigning each senator from Teachers a teaching society at which to speak about ASUN throughout the year and creating an ASUN bulletin board in Teachers College.

She added that committees within Senate should be coordinated "to prevent duplication of effort," the civil rights committee should become more active and a program instituted to inform entering freshmen of the goals, purposes and structure of ASUN.

Following up this year's programs and having more Senate contact with the deans are also included in Miss Bitner's platform.

Putting the associates into action in the spring rather than the fall by early selection of the sophomores, defining ASUN powers in relation to other organizations and investigating the student code are goals of Kathy Kuester.

Liz Madole stressed defining the relationship between the Administration and Student bill of rights, revising the associates program and looking into the elimination of the Upperclass Regents examinations.

Changing the school year to have first semester end before Christmas vacation, acquiring more parking facilities, checking student opinion in regards to the Faculty Evaluation Book and bringing different departments with the colleges closer together are suggested by Leonard Jedlicka.

Cooperation With Dorms

Mike Jess advocated Senate cooperation with the Inter-dorm Council in matters of dormitory structure, student assistant selection and housing rate investigation.

Changing the four-point grading system to include half-point ratings, adopting a student bill of rights, studying reasons of faculty loss and providing closer student-faculty relations through use of the counseling service are goals of Glenn Nees.

Bill Origer stressed working "more with faculty Senate rather than against them" and having senators become closer to the students by dealing with the professional societies.

Furthering Senate involvement in areas other than activities and placing members on faculty committees like the tenure committee are goals of Ron Psota.

are advocated by Kathy Eichhorn.

Ann Evans said she would like to see more lobbying within the Senate, a study of the student code and the completion of the Faculty Evaluation Book.

Publishing of a faculty and course evaluation book, instituting a pass-fail system and stabilizing the year-to-year curriculum is advocated by Kathy Kelley.

Tuition Study

She said she would like to see an expansion of the tuition study, addition of an associates provision to the ASUN constitution, improving relations between organizations and Senate and placing senators on every ASUN committee.

Jane Klimes stressed more use of lobbying by ASUN in Faculty Senate, the Board of Regents and Legislature. She added the curriculum should be looked into and the advisory boards defined.

Opening the library on week-end evenings, defining organizations and establishing an ASUN primary are also supported by Miss Klimes. She continued that Student Health should be studied and the student cabinet put to more effective use.

Early Selection

Putting the associates into action in the spring rather than the fall by early selection of the sophomores, defining ASUN powers in relation to other organizations and investigating the student code are goals of Kathy Kuester.

Liz Madole stressed defining the relationship between the Administration and Student bill of rights, revising the associates program and looking into the elimination of the Upperclass Regents examinations.

Furthering Senate involvement in areas other than activities and placing members on faculty committees like the tenure committee are goals of Ron Psota.

Dick Schulze would like to

The Daily Nebraskan was unable to contact the two other candidates from Teachers—John Hall and Pam Wood.

Cooperation Stressed

The 15 candidates from the College of Engineering and Architecture stressed more cooperation between senators and the professional societies.

Warren Bishop suggested that teachers should be pressured to keep their office hours, vending machines should be placed in buildings that do not have them at the present time, work should be continued on the foreign student housing and improvements made in the area of faculty-student relations.

Improvement of student parking lots and closer student-faculty relations were advocated by Larry Groff.

Defining Position

Continuance of research into national affiliation and defining the position of student government "so as not to become bogged down and stagnant with projects no longer in the scope of student government" are the goals of Bill Hansmire.

Rory Holmes stressed that senators should work more closely with the societies within their particular colleges.

Changing the school year so that first semester would end before Christmas vacation, acquiring more parking facilities, checking student opinion in regards to the Faculty Evaluation Book and bringing different departments with the colleges closer together are suggested by Leonard Jedlicka.

Dick Schulze would like to see changes made in the engineering curriculum, student involvement in the Regents' election campaigns and not having "college representation end after the election."

Support of the Faculty Fellows program to improve student-faculty relations and aiding in better organization within the dorms are supported by Bob Strayer.

Foreign Students

Joel Swanson seeks "improved relations between foreign and American students by orientations of foreign students to help them become accustomed to classes and housing."

He added that a special committee to help the foreign students should be established and an election procedure worked out to represent them on Senate. He also advocated continuing work with the centennial and working more with the Legislature.

Establishing a protege program within Engineering and Architecture, increased communication with faculty and Administration and working more with the state senators and the Legislature through a senators day are proposals of Bob Tucker.

Bill Of Rights

Don Voss suggested following up recommendations of intramurals and recreation, adopting a responsible student bill of rights and creating effective communication with the faculty.

Having student government take more initiative concerning projects and then adding the necessary follow-up are goals of Mike Wiese.

CU Grad Joins

Astronaut Crew

Among three Colorado graduates included in the latest crew of United States astronaut candidates is Jack Swigert, a tough little offensive guard on Dal Ward's fine Buffalo teams of 1950-51-52.

A runty (185), dogged competitor who drew constant friendly jibes from his teammates because of his duck-like gait caused by ski-type feet, Swigert was an unorthodox-moving but highly effective guard back in those platoon days.

"One of the toughest, smartest offensive linemen I've ever coached and a great competitor," is Ward's current sizeup of Swigert, a Denver native who prepped at East High before coming to CU.
