Education Emphasized By 9 Visiting Masters

By Bruce Giles
Senior Staff Writer

The importance of education was stressed by nine distinguished University alumni in "what success they have attained" at a press conference Monday.

Visiting the University campus for the fourth Masters program, the Masters differed on emphasis of a broad, specific or elementary and secondary education.

Dr. Walter Judd, a former Congressman from Minnesota noting the "increasing burden of knowledge descending on this generation," said that in his day the best men went into the professions where the influence and power existed. Sensing a change from the center of influence from the professions to government, he said "for the future we must challenge the ablest to get into government."

In most cases, the former congressman said, this means the people have "got to go into government as a public service and sacrifice their career."

Local Level
J. Martin Klotsche, chancellor of the University of Wisconsin, said that one of the areas of government particularly opening up is at the local level.

"The problems of the city are the major problems that face society," he said. Klotsche stressed the importance of a broad general education.

"A broad education is the beginning point, but it doesn't mean we don't need specific education," he added.

Eugene Holland, past president of the Masonite Corporation, agreed with Klotsche about a general education, but said that if circumstances prevent a person from getting the broad education, "it doesn't mean he can't get a broad education."

Holland noted that top executives have had to become more active in governmental affairs. However, he expressed concern that "it takes a millionaire to get into Congress . . . to become President."

Broader Education
The partner in charge of the Omaha office and supervising partner of the Lincoln office of Peat, Marwick, Mitchell and Co., John Becker, said he has found he would have been a better man if he would have received a broader education at the University.

"For whatever success I have had, work is the answer," he added.

Forrest E. Behm, president of Corning Glass International, said that from a standpoint of time it is a real serious problem to balance a broad education with a specific education.

Specific Education
"If I had a choice, I would get a specific education and then broaden my education as I went along," he said.

Mrs. Calista Cooper Hughes, Nebraska legislator, cited a lack of uniformity in education at the elementary and secondary levels as a serious problem.

"We have gone under the assumption that children are imbeciles," she said. "If we would strengthen the educational system so students would have a broad educational background before they went to the University, then they could specialize."

Human Engineering
Allen J. Sutherland, chairman of the San Diego Division Board of Security First National Bank, said "it is very important in education to train people in human engineering. He noted that human relations are perhaps an even greater part of getting an education.

"I don't believe there is anything more challenging to us as to improve the lot of people in the underdeveloped nations," commented Albert H. Moseman, assistant administrator for Technical Cooperation and Research, a federal agency for international development (AID). Backing his statement, Moseman said the projections indicated that by 1975 the world food shortage will reach 42 tons and by 1980 that figure will double.

Milton E. Mohr, vice president of Bunker Ramo Corporation, said it is important to recognize that education never stops.

In addition to education, he said work is still an important element in success.

"And one element too . . ." he added, "luck!"

Republican Candidates Challenge Rep. Callan

"We do not need another vote for LBJ on everything before Congress," Robert Denny, candidate for First District Congressman told the Young Republicans last week. Denny's sentiment was echoed by Robert Krall, a second candidate for the congressional office, and by John Reiser, a spokesman for Loren Schmit who is a third contender for the office now held by Rep. Clair Callan of Odell.

FM Station Planning To Incorporate

The articles of incorporation for a proposed campus FM radio station are being drafted and should be ready in time for the meeting of national officials that would include elections for Congress every three years rather than the present two.

Former YR president, Reiser, called Schmit of David City "our strongest candidate for Congress."

Bruce Hagemier, a contender for the Republican nomination for governor, told the group "the things we do are things you're going to have to finish up."

Hagemier called himself the "only Republican candidate for governor who supports a broadened tax base for the state." He said a state income tax is the only logical way to solve the tax bite.

YR president Cathie Shattuck announced that Bill Harding has been named state YR credentials chairman.

At the time the articles of incorporation are presented to Student Affairs, Wilson said, a complete report on the station will also be submitted. The plans will include management, budget, studio design, concepts and purposes of the station.

"Other aspects of the station cannot move forward until approval is given by the Student Affairs," Wilson stressed.

Wilson said the committee hopes to see the station in operation by January of 1967. The station, he said, will be "for the University campus and will not attempt to behave as a commercial station."

French Teachers Plan Conference

French professors and teachers from a three-state area will meet at the University Saturday for the annual meeting of the West-Central Chapter of the American Association of Teachers of French.

A highlight of the meeting at the University Faculty Club will be an address by M. de la Villesbrunne, French consul, following the noon luncheon.

Professors from Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri attended.

Dr. Reino Virtanen, professor of romance languages at the University, spoke on the Claude Bernard centennial observations. Roger Ikor, contemporary French novelist, will attend the meeting and speak on playwright Albert Camus.

Mrs. Ruth Stephenson, instructor of voice at Wesleyan University, will sing a number of French art songs in the afternoon.

Elective Officers Of Selleck Chosen; Suhr Assumes Council Presidency

Executive officers for RAM Council, Selleck Quadrangle, were elected Monday in a dormitory election.

Ted Suhr, junior, was elected president. He is a member of Phi Eta Sigma, Inter Dorm Coordinating Committee delegate, past RAM activities director and student government associate.

The other new officers are: Deanna Grotzinger, vice president; Linda McKain, social director; Larry Anderson, treasurer; Gayle Weeks, activities director; Peggy Kaufman, social chairman; Bill Fuller, scholastic director; and Bonnie Bonneau, publicity director.

Miss Grotzinger, vice president, is president of MacLean House, Alpha Lambda Delta vice president last year, Journalism School council secretary and RAMGRAM staff member.

Anderson, the new treasurer, is a member of Corn Cobs, IDCC delegate, quiz bowl team member, past RAM vice president, RAM scholastic director and house activities director.

Nothing can take the press out of Lee-Präst slacks

Not that it's on his mind right now. And it needn't be. Those Lee-Präst Leesures can't help but stay crisp and neat. No matter what you put them through. They have a new permanent press. So the crease stays in. The wrinkles stay out. Permanently. And that's without ironing. No touch-ups, either. They're made from Lee's special blend of 50% polyester and 50% combed cotton. For wash and wear... with conviction.

Incidentally, that permanent press is the only change we've made in Leesures. They still have that lean, honest look... smart, tailored fit. New Lee-Präst Leesures. Test their permanent press yourself. It isn't necessary, but it's a great way to spend an evening. From $6.00 to $8.00.
