

GREASING . . . a pig is not the easiest thing in the world according to Joyce Huebner and Kan Force, who are shown practicing for Friday's All-Ag picnic.

Girls To Diaper Pigs In Ag Picnic Contest

By Trudy Lieberman

When the pigs wear the diapers instead of the babies, it is picnic time on East Campus.

In the greased pig contest, which will be one of the events at the All-Ag picnic Friday, pigs are caught, diapered and pulled through a ring.

Animals have always been a part of the All-Ag picnic sponsored by the East Union. In 1956 the feathers flew as roosters were the star attractions. A pair of contestants had to catch a rooster and carry it over the finish line.

A picnic supper served from 6:15-7:30 and a street dance starting at 8:30 will end this year's picnic. The Faders combo will play at the dance. Tickets are available until Wednesday and cost 75 cents.

A variety of objects have also been part of the picnic. Eggs, hay, balloons and baseballs are a part of the All-Ag tradition. The year 1960 brought bale-stacking to East Campus. In this event 56 bales are stacked into an organized arrangement.

Past events such as the baseball game between City and East Union members, the balloon ball game between Union employees and faculty members and a witch's relay have given way to the egg toss, piggy back relay and balloon relay of this year's picnic.

Faculty members may compete in the events at the picnic. One event is even scheduled for children of faculty members. In the straw hunt, the children search for candy hidden in the straw.

It's a battle of the sexes in the traditional tug of war games at the picnic as the champion women's team and the champion men's team pull for the trophy. But even the best of ropes can break, and it happened in 1965.

And for the winners, there are trophies. In addition to individual trophies, there will be an over-all trophy awarded to the living unit accumulating the most points. Last year, the first time this trophy was given, Burr East and Fedde Hall tied for the over-all trophy.

John Bircher Claims . . . 'No KKK Connection'

A John Bircher largely discounted what he called "deliberate and widespread attempts to associate the society with the Communist Party and the Klu Klux Klan" in a speech at the Nebraska Union Wednesday.

John Rousselot, national director of public relations for the John Birch Society, stated that the Society "has no sympathy with the Klan and we have opposed the Nazis as much as we have opposed Communism."

Throughout his talk in the Union ballroom, Rousselot continually referred to a "Communist criminal conspiracy" and frequently quoted J. Edgar Hoover, national director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI).

About 200 students and faculty attended the program sponsored by the Union Talks and Topics Committee.

Rousselot also referred frequently to "Communist Party efforts to stop the John Birch Society." The party has been "carrying out that program with increasing fury," Rousselot said, adding that "our only opposition is not the communist Party."

The speaker also gave a statement of purpose of the John Birch Society noting, "We regard education as the means for bringing about change in the government." Members of the Society, he said, are "earnestly determined to be active and responsible participants in civic affairs."

Rousselot also attacked the contention of some citizens that the names of members of the Society should be published. He said no voluntary organizations publish the names of their members and offered this as one defense for the non-publication of names of John Birch Society members. "You write to the Boy Scouts of America or any other national organization and they won't give you their list of members either," Rousselot said.

Some of the current programs of the Society were outlined by Rousselot. He said the group has started over 500 "support your local police programs" throughout the nation, published "over $400 a year retail sales" in books and pamphlets and spearheaded a campaign to "bring about the impeachment of 'U.S. Supreme Court Justice Earl Warren."

Rousselot said the Society is working for Warren's impeachment because under him the Supreme Court "has gone far beyond its given powers and its given authority."

A question-answer session following Rousselot's speech brought numerous questions from the floor and some sharp controversy.

Symposium Honors Retiring Professor

A special symposium on parasitology honoring one of the University's most distinguished professors, Dr. Harold W. Manter, will be held from 2 to 4 p.m. Thursday at the Nebraska Center.

Manter, who will retire at the end of the semester after 40 years of service to the state and University, was chairman of the department of zoology from 1953 to 1961.

A reception for Manter will be held from 4 to 5:30 p.m. in the Columbus Room of the Nebraska Center. The public is invited. He also will be honored by friends and fellow staff members at a dinner Thursday evening in the Hotel Cornhusker.

He came to the University in 1926 and since that time has distinguished himself nationally for his study of trematodes (flatworms, including the flukes and their allies). Manter has contributed more than 50 research papers to scientific journals.

Thirteen papers will be read by Manter's former associates and graduate students. Many of these men are now engaged in important research projects at other universities.

Guest speakers at the symposium will include Dr. M. J. Kopac, New York University; Dr. A. C. Todd, University of Wisconsin; Dr. Franklin Sogandares-Bernal, Tulane University; Dr. G. R. Coatney, National Institutes of Health; Dr. A. C. Cuckler, Merck and Company; Dr. M. F. Hansen, Kansas State University; and Dr. E. S. Robinson, University of New South Wales, in Australia.

Manter

Manter is a Fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Sigma Xi, has served as president of the American Microscopical Society and the Nebraska Academy of Sciences.

Steph Tinan Elected To IAWS Position

A University sophomore, Steph Tinan, has been selected to the dual position of president of Region II and vice president of the Intercollegiate Associated Women Students (IAWS).

Miss Tinan was elected during the Region II convention held in South Dakota during spring vacation.

IAWS is composed of four regions whose presidents make up the National Executive Board of IAWS, with the title of IAWS vice president. The main duty of the national board is to plan the national convention, which will be held this year in West Virginia.

Region II of the IAWS consists of Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota and Wisconsin. Miss Tinan was formerly Region II newsletter editor and publications chairman.

Duties of the Regional president are to preside at regional convention, report to the national board for Region II, serve as chairman of one of the permanent standing committees of IAWS, and attend state meetings and workshops in her region.

Miss Tinan was nominated by the University of Iowa and seconded by the University of South Dakota. Two other candidates ran against her. A question-and-answer session provided an opportunity for the candidates to state their views.

With the University IAWS Miss Tinan has served as member of the sophomore board, elections committee, junior board, was assistant publicity chairman and chairman of Coed Follies.

Miss Tinan will fly to the University of West Virginia this weekend for a meeting of the National Executive Board to make plans for the National Convention.

'Ring' Wins Quiz Bowl Tournament

Champions of the 1966 Quiz Bowl Tournament were the Tweed Ring. They defeated the Blackshirts 210 to 180 in the final match of the tournament Friday evening.

Tweed Ring team members are Marv Almy, Kent Neumeister, Dave Stevens and Ted Suhr.

Members of the Blackshirts team were Larry Anderson, Gregg Kropp, Mel Schlachter and Larry Watzke. Anderson, Kropp and Schlachter were on the championship team last year.

In the semi-finals of the tournament, the Tweed Ring defeated the Misnomers 140 to 120 and the Blackshirts defeated Phi Gamma Delta 175 to 90.

The semi-final and final matches were televised on KUON-TV Friday evening.

Yesterday, you may have had a reason for missing a good, nourishing breakfast. Today, you don't.

Now you can have new Carnation instant breakfast - makes milk a meal that's too good to miss.

Each glass delivers as much protein as two eggs, as much mineral nourishment as two strips of crisp bacon, more energy than two slices of buttered toast, and even Vitamin C—the orange juice vitamin. It comes in a lot of great flavors, too. Look for them in your cereal section.
