

Europe Via ASUN Is Less Expensive

By Cheryl Dunlap
Junior Staff Writer

Plans are already underway for a student European Flight next summer, according to Bob Samuelson, second vice president of ASUN.

Thirty-one students flew to Europe last year when ASUN sponsored the flight, Samuelson said. Interviews are being held for chairman of a European flight committee and as soon as the committee is formed they will begin investigating the prices and dates for the flight.

Samuelson continued that if the Nebraska Union can sponsor the flight for the same price or less to students ASUN will turn the program over to them.

Lower Price
Dave Snyder, speaker pro tempore of ASUN, headed the European Flight committee last year. He agreed with Samuelson on turning the flight sponsorship over to the Nebraska Union but added, "I feel, we, as a non-profit organization, could give students a lower price and we could do it as a service, not as a project."

Last year's round trip including train fare cost students $395, Snyder said. Each student paid his own expenses while in Europe. The group traveled by train from Lincoln to Chicago where they boarded a plane for New York. From New York they flew by Pan American Boeing 707 jet on a regular commercial flight to London.

After arriving in London the students were free to travel wherever they wished, Snyder said. The left Lincoln June 15 and returned together via Dublin and Shannon, Ireland, London and Chicago by August 17.

Snyder explained that if each student had flown to Europe on his own the flight would have cost about $610.

Parted in London
After going through customers in London most of the students went to different parts of Europe, Bill Dick a senior who took role at points of embarkation, said. He and another boy bought European cars to drive and had them shipped back to the United States.

Most of the students traveled in groups of two to four, Dick said. He traveled in England, Switzerland, Austria, Germany, Holland, Belgium and France, he added.

One boy traveled through Spain, hitch-hiked through northern Africa and spent considerable time in Italy, Dick said.

$5 A Day
Dick estimated that the minimum cost of room and board per day would be $5, but added that transportation and souvenirs must also be considered in figuring expenses.

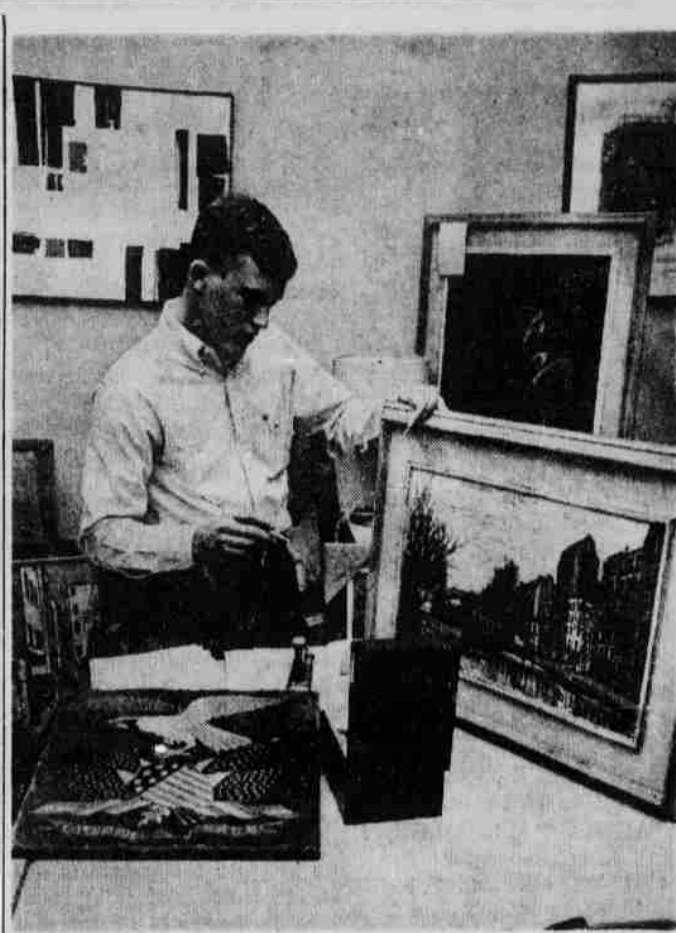

"The best way to travel is to buy a Eurail pass," Dick said. A pass is purchased for a certain amount of time and a student can travel by train to any point in Europe, he explained.

The Common Market makes going from country to country very easy, he said. American students need a passport to enter and leave Europe but they are not closely checked when crossing borders within Europe, he added.

Dick said it was easy to meet the European students and that most Europeans were very friendly to Americans.

Some Language Problems
Language problems were not serious in the larger cities where most of the people in shops spoke English, Dick said. In some rural areas, however, it was difficult to find someone who spoke English.

"It helps if you know French or German because most Europeans are bilingual," Dick said.

SCANNING THE SELECTIONS—Logemann reads paintings for the Art Lending Library.

Library To Lend Originals, Prints

Culture-minded students may incorporate art into their living units' decor from the Art Lending Library. It will be held in the Nebraska Union Pan-American room Sept. 19 from 9 am to 5 pm, according to Sid Logemann, assistant chairman of the Contemporary Arts Committee.

A variety of paintings will be loaned without charge for two semesters to University students, explained Logemann.

"The library consists mainly of prints purchased by the Contemporary Arts Committee," said Logemann, "but there are also some original works included which were bought at the student art sale last spring."

Preview displays of the paintings to be loaned are being conducted in the Pan-American room Monday from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. to enable students to become acquainted with the type of work which will be offered.

A selection of "approximately 130 prints and originals" will compose the lending library, continued Logemann.

No imitations have been set on the quantity of paintings which may be borrowed, he added, but students are expected to use discretion in the number of selections they make.

The Union Contemporary Arts Committee also supervises the student art sale held every spring and the selection of the paintings for the art gallery in the Nebraska Union.

1966 Graduate Goes To Uruguay

A 1966 graduate of the University, Susan Wiles of Benet, will spend six months in Uruguay as Nebraska delegate in the International Farm Youth Exchange program.

She will spend the six months with eight different families.

Veterans' Benefits To Include 4,300 GIs In Nebraska Schools

An estimated 1,500 to 2,000 veterans will take advantage of the Veterans' Readjustment Benefits Act of 1966 while attending the University this year.

Charles St. J. Chubb, manager of the Veterans Administration office in Lincoln, surmised that 35,000 Nebraska veterans are eligible for educational benefits under the new bill.

Chubb said he expects 4,300 to be enrolled in Nebraska educational institutions by Oct. 1.

Educational Assistance
The law to provide educational assistance for veterans who served on active duty with the Armed Forces after Jan. 31, 1955, was approved by the President on March 3, 1966.

Since the passage of the bill, the University Housing Office has reported a sharp increase in the demand for married student housing.

Eligible for the benefits are veterans who served continuously on active duty for a period of at least 181 days, any part of which was after Jan. 31, 1955, and who was discharged or released under conditions other than dishonorable.

May Be Eligible

A veteran who served less than 181 days may be eligible if he was discharged or released because of service-connected disability.

Also eligible for the benefits, is a person who is in the service and has served on active duty for at least two years.

The service period of 181 days does not include periods when the veteran was assigned to a civilian school by the Armed Forces for a full-time course, or service at one of the service academies or any period of reserve active duty for training.

Reservists Not Eligible
Persons who enlisted in the Army or Air National Guard, or as a reservist, under the Reserve Program, with four months or more of active duty for training required and subsequent transfer to the Standby Reserve, are not eligible based on this service.

Eligible veterans may pursue a course at a college, vocational, business, high school, or correspondence school. The course must be approved. Under certain circumstances, a college course pursued in a foreign country may be approved.

The basic payment is $100 a month with additional amounts if the veteran is married and has dependents. The basic payment decreases if he does not attend school full-time.

Cautions Veterans
William Holdorf, adjudication officer, cautioned that the veteran going to school should be prepared to pay his expenses for at least two months.

He said that the law requires the Veterans Administration to make payments to the veterans after they have attended school for a full month. Payment normally is made on the 20th of the month after the month of attendance.

The limit for education under the new GI bill is 36 months. This would cover four school years of nine months each for a veteran who served on active duty for at least three years after Jan. 31, 1955.

Veterans serving less than three years may receive one full month of educational assistance allowance for each month or part of a month served on active duty on or after Feb. 1, 1955.

May Be Reduced
The 36-month period of eligibility for educational assistance may be reduced for veterans who have previously received any VA educational benefits based on their own service or as a war orphan.

VA may not provide training after eight years from the date of the last discharge or release from active duty if the discharge was on or after June 1, 1966.

The time limit for a veteran whose service ended before June 1, 1966, is May 31, 1974.

Persons who are eligible for training under the new bill, or would like to have further information about it, should contact the Lincoln VA Regional office or the local County Service Officer of the Nebraska Department of Veterans Affairs.

Hoover Begins Teaching

After serving ten years as University Registrar, Dr. Floyd W. Hoover has relinquished his position to join the Teachers College staff.

Dr. Lee W. Chatfield, associate dean of students, is the acting Registrar.

In a letter to Chatfield dated April 14, 1966, Hoover explained his reasons for requesting to be transferred to the Teachers College Staff and why he felt the move would be advantageous to the University.

"I know that we have come a long way," Hoover stated. "I like to believe that I have helped to open the door to tremendously important developments that lie immediately ahead," he continued.

When he first worked at the office of the Registrar, Hoover said, operations were handled with no machines except typewriters. The office stood uncoordinated with agencies with which it should logically be associated with, he added.

"I think the time has come when you must surround yourself with alert young men who have a thorough understanding of how machines function, of what you can expect from them, of how you 'talk to them,' Hoover told Chatfield.

Hoover said if he did not have complete confidence in Chatfield he might not have been willing to transfer.

"I honestly believe I can make a contribution to students in the Teachers College," Hoover said. "Certainly, my experience in educational work since 1930 has been wide," he added.

He stressed his close relationship with Chatfield and hoped their would be no misunderstandings or doubts about his request.

"To be the best darn teacher I can be," is Hoover's goal. "I asked for a section of freshmen," he said, adding that he felt some of the older faculty members should be in contact with the younger students.

Med School Trio Directs Sessions

Three faculty members from the University College of Medicine presented scientific sessions at an inter-professional seminar for veterinarians and physicians in Manhattan, Kan., Sept. 15 and 16.

The three are Dr. Henry M. Lemon, Dr. Norman G. Miller and Dr. Harry W. McFadden Jr.

The annual seminar, "Diseases Common to Animals and Man," was co-sponsored by Kansas State University College of Veterinary Medicine, the University of Kansas Medical Center and the Kansas State Department of Health in cooperation with the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Activities Office Needs Names Of Club Officers

A call has gone out for the names of student organization officers, and their addresses from the Student Activities office.

This is needed, according to Mrs. Lucille Miles, cashier of the student activities fund because of the difficulty of locating some of the campus organizations.

"Last Spring we got a number of officers to fill out cards with the information we need, but so many have moved that we need their current addresses so that they may be contacted," explained Mrs. Miles.

A list of the organizations, with such information as officers, advisers, addresses and telephone numbers is compiled so that they can be easily located.

"Creditors often times desire to close an account of an organization, but we can't ever tell them where to send the bill," Mrs. Miles stated.

Also in the Student Activities Office are statements of some organizational accounts in the activities fund, which could not be sent because of the lack of addresses.

Also in the office are the new campus handbooks for organizations and estimated budget forms for the coming year.

The ASUN also has a form for campus organizations to fill out. This form is a necessary step in order for a student organization to be approved by the Student Senate and the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs. According to Mrs. Miles, the ASUN form may be picked up at the same time as the Student Activities form.

Mrs. Miles also asked that any new organizations report and keep contact with the office even though they are not in the activities fund.

Building Plans For Med College

Workmen and architects are beginning the first phase of the Medical College building program, according to a college bulletin.

Plans on the Omaha campus call for both expansion and remodeling. Workmen presently are remodeling part of the University Hospital into a modern 40-bed pediatrics ward, scheduled to be completed before Feb. 1.

Builders To Seek Committee Heads

Builders interviews for chairman and assistants of "First Glance" and "Special Edition" committees will be held September 28 at 6 p.m. in the Builder's Office.

Applications, which are available on the Builders' door in the Nebraska Union today, will be due next Friday.

Last week Hovland-Swanson spent $225 to tell you about their new fall fashions and their fine store. They spent that money to tell you where and when and how they can give you better service and finer quality in the things you buy. They care about University of Nebraska students . . . they care about you. If they didn't, they wouldn't advertise (many don't).

Patronize the businesses that have shown an interest in you. Their Daily Nebraskan advertisements are a guarantee that they are ready and willing to give you the service and quality you want . . . because they care.
