Reading, Writing Is Unique Course For Med School

Freshman medical students are being offered an elective course to improve their reading and writing abilities.

Dr. Joseph C. Scott teaches an 11 week rapid reading course and Mrs. Pringle Smith conducts an 11 week course in medical writing.

The medical writing course is believed to be the only one offered to freshmen students by a medical college.

The class is restricted to 30 students. Half take the reading course and half the writing course during the first 11 weeks and then the groups exchange instructors for the final 11 weeks.

Watching Team Popular Pastime

If they wanted to, University athletic department officials may have found a new source of income for financing athletic events—selling reserved seats on the south bank of the football practice field.

Since the opening of fall drills from 50 to 75 people have rested beneath the elm trees that line the slopes near the Columns on the City campus to watch Coach Bob Devaney send his team through rigorous training for the approaching season.

IIE Reports Competition To End For 1967-68 Fulbright Awards

The Institute of International Education (IIE) has reported that competition for U.S. government grants for graduate study or research abroad in 1967-68, or for study and training in the creative and performing arts, under the Fulbright-Hays Act will close shortly.

This is the 20th anniversary of the exchange program. Since 1946 approximately 15,000 grants have been awarded to American graduate students for study in countries throughout the world.

IIE conducts competitions for U.S. government scholarships for students below the Ph.D level, provided by the Fulbright-Hays Act, as part of the educational and cultural exchange program of the Department of State. This program provides more than 850 grants for study in 54 countries.

Candidates for the award must be U.S. citizens at the time of application, have a bachelor's degree or its equivalent by the beginning date of the grant and be proficient in the language of the host country.

Selections will be made on the basis of academic and/or professional record, the feasibility of the applicant's proposed study plan and personal qualifications. Preference is given to candidates who have not had prior extended study or residence abroad and who are under 35.

Creative and performing artists are not required to have a bachelor's degree but they must have four years of professional study or equivalent experience.

Applicants in social work must have at least two years of professional experience after the Master of Social Work degree. Applicants in the field of medicine must have an M.D. at the time of application.

Two types of grants are available under the Fulbright-Hays Act: U.S. government full grants and U.S. government travel grants.

A full award provides a student with tuition, maintenance, round-trip transportation, health and accident insurance and an incidental allowance. In some countries a maintenance allowance will be provided for one or more accompanying dependents.

Fifty-three countries participate in the full grant program. Travel grants are available in eight countries.

Grants are available to a number of countries in the American Republics area in the fields of history, the social sciences, law, the humanities and other fields.

Applicants for these grants must be proficient in the spoken language of the country for which they apply and should have knowledge of the American Republics area, especially the country or countries for which they are applying.

Teaching fellowships for those interested in teaching the English language and American literature are available in five countries.

IDCC Reps To Correct Constitution

Final corrections on the constitution for a proposed interterm council will be made at the Interterm Coordinating Committee (IDCC) meeting Wednesday evening.

Presidents and representatives from all University residence halls will hold the first IDCC meeting for the year in the Abel Hall north cafeteria at 8 p.m.

Jim Ludwig, IDCC chairman, said that copies of the constitution will be distributed to the delegates at the meeting.

The committee will also discuss the appointment of a faculty member to be the interterm council advisor.

Finances of the IDCC and homecoming displays will also be discussed at the meeting.

ASUN Postpones Centennial Plans

A meeting originally planned for Tuesday night of presidents of campus organizations and the ASUN Centennial committee to discuss the University's participation in state centennial activities has been postponed, according to Elaine Kallos, committee chairman.

Miss Kallos explained that the meeting will be held later this month and that those involved with the program would be notified by mail and telephone of the new date.

Sales End Sept. 30 For Music Series

The deadline for purchase of season tickets to the 1966-67 Lincoln Community Concerts is Sept. 30.

According to Mrs. J. B. Shannon, chairman for the concert committee, after this date no season tickets will be sold. Neither will there be tickets available for individual performances.

Urging students to buy the five-dollar season tickets now.

Mrs. Shannon said that it is a "now or never proposition." Ticket orders may be mailed to: Lincoln Community Concerts, 2834 Sheridan Blvd., Lincoln.

This year's productions will range from the music of Richard Rogers to the operatic talents of Jerome Hines.

On Oct. 13, Richard Haysman and his orchestra will play "The Music of Richard Rogers," starring Elaine Malbin, William Metcalf, Joanne Wheatley, and Hal Kanner.

On Jan. 25, Ruth Page's International Ballet will bring a company of 50 and "famous guest stars."

The Singing Boys of Monterey, a choir of 30, will give a concert on Nov. 15.

Duo-pianists Gold and Fizzle will appear on Feb. 27.

On May 12, Metropolitan Opera bass Jerome Hines will perform.

Mrs. Shannon said that community concerts are a co-ordinated effort between area campuses and the townspeople of Lincoln.

She pointed out that the low per-concert cost is possible because of the large membership. Estimating current student membership at 1,300, Mrs. Shannon said that total membership is between 3,000 and 3,500.

"We're very proud of the programs this year," Mrs. Shannon said. She pointed out that the success of this year's membership drive would determine the program content of the 1967-68 season.

YD's Push Publicity Campaign

The University Young Democrats are attempting a full-scale effort this year to publicize their meeting times to the students, according to YD President Sabra McCall.

The Young Democrats meeting set for Wednesday was announced to the campus by posters and letters sent to living units. Miss McCall said that she felt more publicity would attract new members.

"Last year," Miss McCall said, "many students who could have joined didn't because they didn't know where or when the meetings were held."

Wednesday's meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Nebraska Union Small Auditorium. Miss McCall said that the meeting will be organizational, with a "pep talk" from Norman Krivosha, Lancaster County Democratic Central Committee chairman.

Miss McCall estimated that YD's would have about 100 returning members.

One order of business will be an upcoming rally featuring major Democratic candidates in October.

Members of the organization who campaigned around the state during the summer will speak of their experiences, Miss McCall said.
