Goal For VISTA's Volunteers: 'So They Can Help Themselves'

"It's a person to person program . . . working together with people in poverty areas, showing them the way, so they can help themselves," said Jim Birkhead, graduate student in geography who was a VISTA volunteer last summer.

VISTA (Volunteers in Service to America) is one of the major anti-poverty programs established in 1964. It offers an opportunity for all men and women to join the nation's War on Poverty.

Birkhead, along with four VISTA workers, have been handing out VISTA pamphlets and application blanks at the booth in the north corridor of the Nebraska Union. The booth will close today.

"We handed out more applications in one day at the University than we did all last year," said Jean Langlie, a VISTA worker.

"The purpose of the booth is to spread the word about VISTA," she said.

Birkhead participated in the VISTA Associate Program last summer. In this program, VISTA workers spend a summer in a poverty area.

Stationed at Persimmon Fork Community, Ky., Birkhead worked on remedial education, recreation programs, and community projects.

"We lived in and with the people, living their way of life," said Birkhead. "We worked with them rather than for them, giving encouragement and ideas, trying to create a better understanding. The poor can do just as much for themselves as anyone else if they are given a chance," he said.

"The VISTA program hopes to eventually work themselves out of a job," he said. "We hope the day will come that there will be no poverty areas."

Birkhead said that he has a long time interest in Appalachia. Having lived in Missouri, he came in contact with people from Appalachia, wanted to find out what it was like on the "other side."

"I am interested in this type of work, and I believe in this class of people. Even though the monetary pay is small, I always benefited. . . by giving, I received. It's something you can really sink your teeth into—to see your projects in the operating stage," Birkhead said.

The VISTA workers sum up their stay at Nebraska by saying that they really enjoyed themselves. The professors are extremely cooperative and the students are receptive and interested.

Mayor's Visit Is 'Healthy Sign;' May Establish NU-City Liaison

The intent of Dean Petersen, Mayor of Lincoln, to attend the Student Senate meeting Wednesday is a "pretty healthy sign," according to Roger Doerr, ASUN vice president.

"This is the first time that a civic leader has displayed some initiative in establishing a liaison with the University students," Doerr commented.

According to Doerr, this appearance by a prominent individual from Lincoln could mean that the University is being recognized for the responsibilities its students are assuming.

Doerr stated that Petersen will probably make a short presentation, followed by a period in which he will answer questions.

"I hope," continued Doerr, "that Mayor Petersen will speak on the University growth and its impact upon the city of Lincoln. Along this line, I expect that he will touch on areas of concern between the students and city, such as traffic and parking."

Doerr stated that it will be interesting to see Petersen's reaction to ASUN President Terry Schaaf's report on foreign student housing, which was made in the spring.

ly is the only student organization which has University permission to solicit money from the students.

The aspect of the proposal that Doerr sees debate upon is "to what extent should ASUN get involved in ruling or scheduling of campus activities. If there is a conflict

"Also in this area of foreign student housing, I am looking forward to hearing what the mayor thinks will happen in regard to the housing conditions facing students," Doerr said.

Doerr sees the possibility of debate on the resolution by Sen. Pam Wood, which was tabled last Wednesday, that the night of Oct. 29 be closed to all campus activities except the AUF dance.

"This problem was discussed to a great extent last year before a decision was made," he pointed out. "However, I think there is still a great deal open to question."

The question of AUF's position was never as carefully analyzed as possible, according to Doerr. The problem, as he sees it, is whether AUF is really unique among campus organizations. It present-on a night, should the senate say to one of the organizations that they should find another date?"

In other Senate action on Wednesday, Larry Johnson, Electoral Commissioner, will present the homecoming procedures.

Hours Lengthened For Display Work

AWS Board members voted Tuesday to extend visiting hours in the women's living units the week preceding Homecoming to facilitate the construction of displays co-sponsored by fraternities and sororities.

Visiting hours will be in effect from noon until closing hours Oct. 10 through Oct. 14.

Sophomore and junior women who are involved in the construction of Homecoming displays will be granted midnight closing hours Oct. 13, the day preceding the deadline for the completion of the displays.

The AWS Board stipulated that all work on the displays must be conducted outside the men's living quarters after 11 p.m.

Barb Beckmann, AWS judicial vice-president, stated at the Tuesday meeting that proposals for eliminating the AWS sign-in and sign-out procedure and special permission slips for out-of-towns on late nights will be discussed at a judicial meeting Thursday.

"However, if these new rulings are approved, it is doubtful they will be operational before the next fall term," Pam Hedgecock, AWS president said.

An election for the ratification of new AWS constitution changes has been called for Oct. 19, said Candy May, AWS Board member.

Miss May explained that orientations explaining the constitutional changes and the philosophy behind the changes will be conducted by AWS Board members for University women the week of Oct. 10-14.

YMCA Drops Weekend; Few Freshmen Sign Up

The fourth annual Freshman Weekend sponsored by the YMCA and YWCA has been cancelled.

Alan Crews, chairman of the steering committee, said that the weekend, scheduled for Sept. 30 through Oct. 2, had to be cancelled because of expense.

Crews said the sponsoring organizations would have suffered insurmountable debts with the small number of people that had signed up.

Crews said that because of several failures and unavoidable circumstances, the committee found it impossible to acquire the minimum number of freshmen needed to hold the camp.

One of the major problems was that the steering committee received the labels bearing the freshmen's names and addresses at least six to eight weeks later than was scheduled.

Crews said that by the time the material reached the freshmen they could not make the deadline which was printed on the brochures and so did not bother to apply.

Even with a number of additional entries signed up during the first weeks of school, the committee felt that the number was not high enough to make the program a complete success.

Crews said that the scheduling of Derby Day for the same weekend had been a detrimental factor towards the Freshman Weekend.

"In this case, all greek pledges are required to attend this program, or at least requested not to be out of town for the weekend," Crews said.

Crews said the Freshman Weekend is not unique to this campus, for a program of this type is carried out in many major colleges, including several Big Eight and Big Ten schools.

He said that in most cases the cost for such programs is higher than the program at Nebraska.

"Until we can convince freshmen how worthwhile this program is," Crews said, "and until we can find a scheduled weekend so as not to exclude the Greeks, it is felt that much work would have to be done to make the program as successful as it has been in the past."

All those who have already signed up for the program have been notified of the cancellation and how they can receive a refund.

IDCC Continues Constitution Talk

Discussion will be continued on the constitution for a proposed Interdorm Council at the Interdorm Coordinating Committee (IDCC) meeting Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. in the Abel cafeteria.

Budgetary allotments from each dormitory will be decided at the meeting, Jim Ludwig, IDCC chairman, said. The allotments will be quite small, he said, one per cent or less of the dorms' total activity funds to cover the operating costs of the IDCC.

A dorm workshop to be held in late October will also be organized. The workshop will be sponsored by the IDCC to train floor presidents and vice presidents.

ASUN Board To Select Homecoming Finalists

The ASUN election board will interview candidates for Homecoming queen Wednesday from 7 p.m. until 11 p.m., according to Larry Johnson, member of the ASUN Electoral Commission.

The board, consisting of four ASUN senators and one faculty member, will select ten Homecoming queen finalists on the basis of appearance, personality, poise, scholarship and activities, Johnson explained.

The University student body will select the Homecoming queen from the ten finalists at elections to be held Oct. 12-13 in Love Library and the Nebraska Union. Elections will be conducted at the East Union Oct. 13 only, Johnson added.

The Homecoming queen and her two attendants will be announced at the Homecoming dance in the University Coliseum Oct. 14.

Johnson stated the rules and regulations established for the applicants.

Any full-time, junior female student in good standing at the University of Nebraska may participate. Each candidate must meet the University's minimum requirements for participation in extra-curricular activities.

No more than one candidate per female living unit may participate.

Applications must be returned to the ASUN Office, in the Nebraska Union by 5 p.m. Sept. 28. Johnson stressed that candidates must also sign the interview time sheet in the ASUN office in order to be eligible.

Each finalist should be prepared to pay $15.00 for photography costs.

Except for skits, the only form of publicity allowed will be the official ASUN posters.

Gonzaga Governs Academic Norms

Spokane, Wash. (I.P.)—The Academic Council at Gonzaga University has established norms that will govern department requirements, according to the Rev. Neil G. McCluskey, S. J., academic vice president.

Under a proposal passed by the Academic Council, no department may require more than 33 upper and lower division credits in the major field and supplementary courses combined. No department may require more than 24 upper division credits in the major field and supporting fields.

However, "Departments normally requiring more than 18 upper division credits in the major field will be authorized to provide that a supporting minor in a teaching field is also required."

Sales Start Oct. 3 For CU-NU Game

A special allotment of 2,000 tickets for the Nebraska-Colo-rado game at Boulder on October 22 has been set aside for student sale, according to Jim Pittenger, athletic ticket manager.

"Because of the anticipated heavy demand for these tickets, they will be sold at a special student sale using the policies adopted and coordinated by the Student Senate for the Missouri game in 1965," Pittenger explained.

The tickets which are $5.00 each (there is no special student rate) will be on sale outside the Ticket Office in the Coliseum on Oct. 3, 4, and 5 from 9:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon and from 1:00 p.m. until 4:00 p.m. on each of the three days noted.

The procedure, as described by Pittenger will be as follows:

1. Each full-time University student may apply for one ticket only.
2. Each student must appear in person, producing his ID card and leaving a check with his ticket application. Applications may be obtained at the ticket table in the coliseum.
3. Those students desiring to sit in a group must appear together and apply for their tickets as explained. Their applications will be placed together and will then be handled as one order.

"In the event that there are less than 2,000 ticket orders received, all applicants will receive a ticket. In the case that there are more than 2,000 orders received, a drawing will be held to determine those students who will receive the tickets," Pittenger stressed.

He added that if they desire, the Student Senate may supervise the drawing.

Students may pick up their tickets at the Coliseum Ticket Office beginning Monday, Oct. 10. Pittenger stated that if all the orders cannot be filled, students who do not receive tickets, will be able to pick up their checks at the same time.

"Any student who does not pick up his ticket by Friday, October 14, will have his order cancelled," Pittenger noted.

He emphasized that since there are three days set aside for ticket sales, it makes no difference if the applicant is the first to order tickets, for as soon as the office has received the 2,001st order, there will automatically be a drawing to determine who receives tickets.

"We have set aside three days for ordering so that all students might have a chance to order tickets, no matter what their schedule," Pittenger concluded.

1967 CORNHUSKERS are now on sale at the Tassels-Corn Cobs booth in the main corridor of the Nebraska Union. Yearbooks also may be purchased for $6.50 from individual members of the organizations.
