

Dent School Alums To Give TV Circuit

The University Dental College Alumni Association plans to give a $80,000 closed circuit TV system to the University Dental College on the East campus.

According to Dr. Ralph Ireland, Dean of the Dental College, said that the Dental College Alumni Association has a third of the closed circuit television cost on hand from graduate contributions.

The entire fund will come from the alumni.

Cables for the circuit are presently being installed for monitors to all classrooms and labs, Ireland said.

The addition of closed circuit TV will be a big help in explaining technical lab procedures, he said.

By the use of the system all students will be able to observe delicate or complicated work close-up.

Ireland said that presently students must all crowd around an instruction chair to watch instruction and noted that at times those in the rear are unable to see.

The television circuit will be used for general dentistry, oral surgery, and pedodontics or child dentistry.

In pedodontics, students will be able to observe the proper procedure for handling the patient from the time he arrives to the time he leaves.

The television circuit will also allow the students to notice how child patients should properly be treated.

Ireland noted also that graduate students will gain valuable assistance from the television circuit.

The system is particularly adaptable to post graduate education courses given regularly at the dental college each year, he said.

Ireland said that while the television circuit will be of assistance in many areas, he noted that "at best it is only a good adjunct and will never replace the really inspiring teacher."

Dessert Initiates Events Of Two-Week Program

AWS will initiate "Focus on Coeds" Thursday with a kick-off dessert for the AWS Board, representatives, advisers, and workers at 7 p.m. in the Nebraska Union Pan American Room.

Dr. Dudley Ashton, head of the University women's physical education department, will be the guest speaker.

The purpose of the dessert is to acquaint the AWS workers and representatives with the activities planned for the two-week "Focus on Coeds" program, Ann Boyles, Standards Week chairman, said.

AWS Standards Week schedule has been expanded this year to span almost two weeks to encourage more University women to attend the programs, Miss Boyles added.

Displays designed to appeal to feminine interests will be exhibited in the Nebraska Union Pan American Room Oct. 25. The items included in the displays are donated by the Lincoln businesses.

Curricula prints, ideas for men's gifts, cosmetics, new books and records and china displays will be featured.

The Ten Best-Dressed Coeds will be announced at a Holiday Fashion Show, sponsored by Gold's Department Store Oct. 25 in the Union Ballroom.

The winners of the Ten Best-Dressed Contest will be modeling the fashions in the style show, Miss Boyles said.

A Vocational Seminar will be conducted Nov. 1 in the Union Pan American Room. Eight women will speak to University women about the different aspects of their professions.

The professions which will be represented at the seminar are social work, Peace Corps, government work, teaching, law, journalism, fashion and medicine.

'Black Power' Teach-In To Be Held In Ballroom

In order to accommodate the expected crowd, the Black Power teach-in, scheduled for Oct. 30, will be switched to the Nebraska Union ballroom.

The teach-in, sponsored by Students for a Democratic Society (SDS), will be an educational forum concerning the newest concept in the civil rights movement — the concept of "Black Power."

At the Wednesday meeting of SDS, Al Spanger, president, noted that in addition to representatives of all major civil rights groups, the teach-in panels will have a representative from the JOIN SDS project in Chicago.

There is also a possibility that Rev. Tom Rehorn, the write-in peace candidate for the U.S. Senate, will be sitting on one of the panels, according to Spangler.

The teach-in will be one of the first major projects undertaken by SDS this semester.

It was proposed that SDS join with another local organization to distribute information on the Viet Nam war at churches and football games.

It was also suggested at the meeting that SDS look into the possibility of sponsoring the S. F. Mime Troupe, a nationally traveling minstrel show that bills itself as "Civil Rights in a Cracker Barrel." The show would be used as a fund-raising project.

A study of the poverty district near T Street is in the offing for SDS. The study would include a survey of actual owners of the T Street properties and a look at what the landlords have done in the way of upkeep in the area.

Tickets For Union Available Comedy Still To Any Speaker Available

Tickets for "As You Like It," which opens Friday at the University Theatre, are still available.

The first production in the repertory season will be presented Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m.

"We are pleased with the advance ticket sales, and a few seats are left," said Mrs. Harold Kempton, theatre business manager.

Season tickets good for five performances are still being sold for $6. The season tickets will be available until the end of the first semester since the five seats may be used at any one performance or all at once.

Regular ticket price is $1.50. Reservations not paid for in advance will be held at the box office until one-half hour before curtain time for the performance.

Tickets for the operas "Gianni Schicci" and "Rita" to be presented Feb. 1-4 are selling rapidly, according to Mrs. Kempton.

Centering mainly around the problem of obtaining speakers for convocations and the freedom of bringing speakers to the campus, the first student-administrative discussion was held Tuesday afternoon.

The intent of this discussion and future ones, are for members of the administration and students to get together informally and discuss problems which are brought forward. At times, the administration will present a topic which they will explain and then open for discussion.

According to Russ Brown, Associate Dean of Student Affairs, any group on campus has the freedom to bring a speaker to the University and present a program, using the Nebraska Union facilities.

He said that there are two groups on campus that spend money for the purpose of bringing speakers. They are the Faculty Senate Convocations committee and the Talks and Topics committee of the Nebraska Union facilities.

It was brought out in the discussion that Talks and Topics works with the Faculty Senate Convocations committee, but acts independently in certain other aspects of the program.

Allen Bennet, director of the Nebraska Union, stated that there is no approval system for the selection of speakers within the University.

He stated the convocations committee was asked several years ago to earmark $2,000 of its budget for use in obtaining all-University convocation speakers. This came at the request of the Talks and Topics committee.

According to G. Robert Ross, dean of student affairs, this is the only major connection between Talks and Topics and the convocations committee.

Ross went on to explain how speakers are chosen.

"The reasons for the convocations committee choosing one speaker over another is based upon a faculty survey for ideas for speakers, consultation with Talks and Topics for ideas, and a survey of students. The convocations committee is always eager to hear suggestions."

In response to a question by ASUN president Terry Schaa, it was explained that any organization on campus can bring a speaker to the campus without administration approval and can use the Nebraska Union facilities.

Several ideas were brought forth to help alleviate the problem of obtaining convocation speakers. One was that the University work with other schools in the region in bringing national speakers to this area.

Another suggestion was to obtain one of the various national grants which are designed to help institutions obtain outstanding speakers.
