

Seniors' Interest Focuses On Jobs

For freshmen the most important part of the Union would have to be the Crib. But for seniors, emphasis shifts to the third floor, where the job-placement center is located.

Frank Hallgren, director of the placement service said that the placement service began its operation in 1963. Before that, placement was done on a college-by-college basis.

According to Hallgren, service can affect not only seniors, but alumni and juniors who are interested in summer employment relating to their career.

Ag Students Pass Exec Constitution

A new constitution for the Executive Board of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics was passed in an election on East Campus Thursday.

Students voting for the new constitution numbered 294; 21 voted against it and three ballots were invalid.

The Ag Exec Board had adopted the constitution last spring, said Dave Snyder, Exec Board president, and it had to be submitted to Agriculture College students for final approval.

"Last year," said Hallgren, "we placed five to six hundred seniors. I would estimate that of the seniors who actually accepted employment, 90 percent were placed through our office."

A graduate of the University should have little problem finding a job, said Hallgren, and probably will be faced with a choice of several job offers.

Each year the University arranges interviews with seven thousand employers, ranging from General Motors to the "Municipality of Grand Island."

"The important thing," stressed Hallgren, "is that each senior, no matter what his post-graduation plans, should file his credentials, — faculty evaluation, references, and a resume of his educational background, — with the placement office, and set up interviews."

For one thing, a student can meet more employers through the placement office while he is a senior than he could in six months after graduation.

"Another factor students should remember is that most employers have military leave programs, so that even if a graduate is faced with a military obligation," explained Hallgren, "he will have many job opportunities."

NEBRASKAN

APPLAUDS

The pledge officers of Tau Alpha are: Christina Dema, president; eJan Underwood, vice president; Jane Kinkead, secretary; Marti Sommer, treasurer; Janet Fudge, scholarship; Karen Jo Bennett, music; Jean Burr, social chairman; Avril Kucer, Junior Panhellenic.

The Ag Men pledge class officers are: Larry Green, president; Jim Jarosik, vice president; Kenneth Stevens, secretary-treasurer; Jim Wobig, social chairman.

The 1966-67 officers of Pi-Per Hall are: Sandy Lovell, president; Susie Williams, vice president; Brenda Nicholson, secretary-treasurer; Lana Hughes, activities; Bev Cassidy, social; Claudia Schaefer, intramurals; Susan Thompson, inter-dorm council representative; Susan Deitemeyer, scholarship; Jane Critchlow, A.W.S.; Jody Eldridge, publicity.

New Dates Announced For Teaching Exams

College seniors preparing to teach school may take the National Teacher Examinations on any of the announced today by Educational Testing Service, a nonprofit, educational organization which prepares and administers this testing program.

New dates for the testing of prospective teachers are: Jan. 7, March 18, July 1, and Oct. 7, 1967. The tests will be given at nearly 500 locations throughout the United States, including the University.

Results of the National Examinations are used by many large school districts as one of several factors in the selection of new teachers and by several states for certification or licensing of teachers. Some colleges also require all seniors preparing to teach to take the examinations.

Leaflets indicating school systems and state departments of education which use the examination results are distributed to colleges by ETS.

On each full day of testing, prospective teachers may take the Common Examinations, which measure the professional preparation and general cultural background of teachers, and one of 13 Teaching Area Examinations of the subject they expect to teach.

Prospective teachers should contact the school systems in which they seek employment, or their colleges, for specific advice on which examinations to take and on which dates they should be taken.

A Bulletin of Information containing a list of test centers, and information about the examinations, as well as a registration form, may be obtained from the Teacher Placement office at the University or from National Teacher Examinations, Box 911, Educational Testing Service, Princeton, N.J., 08540.

Collegiate Poetry Due For Contest

The spring competition of the National Poetry Press being held for students in all junior and senior colleges will close Nov. 5.

There is no limitation as to theme or form of the entries, but the judges prefer shorter works because of space limitations.

Each poem must be typed or printed on a separate sheet and must bear the name and home address of the student, as well as the name of the college attended.

Manuscripts should be sent to the Officers of the Press, National Poetry Press, 3210 Selby Avenue, Los Angeles 34, Calif.

KU Women Make Own Hours Rules

Key systems, narcotics, charity drives and loyalty oaths are a few of the things preoccupying other campuses as the sixth week of school begins.

Kansas University junior and senior women now have no closing hours. Each living unit is permitted to decide on its own "sign in" and "sign out" system, keys or however they want to run their system.

Freshmen and sophomores have 11:30 p.m. hours Monday through Thursday, 1:30 a.m. hours on Friday and Saturday and 12 a.m. hours on Sunday.

The Kansas State Collegian reports that it is studying its rules.

The University of Kansas Alpha Phi's stayed out late one night to try out their new liberty under the key system. They came back and found they were locked out because the lock had been changed during the summer and they hadn't been told.

The Colorado Daily reports that a 17-year-old coed and a 24-year-old part-time watchman were arrested and charged with illegal possession of marijuana. Earlier another male student was arrested on similar charges. The arrests were part of an increasing number of narcotics violation in the Boulder area.

The Iowa State Daily reports that the Campus Chest drive netted $16,400. The money was raised by carnivals, beauty contests and games.

Colorado State is considering adding an extra week to each quarter to allow a "dead week" with no classes before each quarter's finals, the Colorado State Collegian reports.

Iowa State is experimenting with closed circuit television classes. It currently has 7,000 students enrolled in 22 television courses.

The University of Illinois YWCA and the SDS are working together to collect funds to aid the appeals of 11 South African apartheid defendants, according to the Daily Illini.

The Kansas State Collegian reports that the head of the local Women's Christian Temperance Union is circulating petitions to cause repeal of the recent city ordinance which permits dancing in taverns within the city limit.

Kansas State fraternities will use a summer rush beginning July 1 to ease the pressure of rush week and to add more men to the system.

Oklahoma State University students paid $35,000 in campus parking fines last year, according to the Daily Oklahoman.

Debate, Social Studies Attract High Schools

Four hundred students from 50 Nebraska high schools will attend a debate and social studies institute at the University Saturday.

Dr. John L. Petelle, speech professor and director of the institute said that the institute is a workshop-type situation.

The high school students will be exposed to more ideas and information about their high school discussion topic and they will observe a model discussion and debate.

The high school discussion

Art Collections To Be Displayed During October

Two major exhibits, the Howard S. Wilson Memorial Collection and the Art of Printmaking, will open at Sheldon Memorial Art Gallery on Tuesday.

The Art of Printmaking is a 10-day inaugural showing of selections which will be circulated throughout Nebraska in 1967 as part of the Centennial celebration. The display consists of an extensive loan of prints from the Library of Congress in Washington, D.C., and is sponsored by the University of Nebraska Art Galleries and the State Library Commission.

The exhibit contains old master prints of the 18th and 19th centuries, including early American examples. Such master printmakers as Durer, Rembrandt, Goya, Callot, Whistler, and Picasso are represented in the display.

The Howard S. Wilson Collection was begun in 1959 by Mrs. Wilson as a memorial to her husband, a lifetime Lincoln resident. The collection, donated to the University through the University of Nebraska Foundation, is composed of works by American artists, with particular emphasis on the early decades of this century.

This exhibition is the first complete showing of the paintings, drawings, and sculpture acquired for the collection to date. Additions and changes may be made in the future. Thomas Eakins, Ernest Lawson, Patrick Henry Bruce, and William Brown are among the artists whose work will appear in the display of over 30 pieces, which will be at the Gallery through Nov. 13.

Odd Bodkins

Hathaway has a fatuous conversation with Jonathan Winters

Hathaway: Mr. Winters, how do you like our new Club shirts?

Winters: Fine. Except for that tapered waist.

Hathaway: Not enough?

Winters: Too much. The first time I wore one, I looked so darned slim that people would come up to me in the street and give me money for a meal.

Hathaway: Pretty embarrassing, but...

Winters: Then, girls would feel sorry for me and take me home for dinner. Their mothers would take one look at my tapered middle and pow! I'd spend hours at the table.

Hathaway: I see. But...

Winters: And I want to tell you it's pretty frustrating. After all that food, I was too tired to do anything but go home and sleep.

Hathaway: Yes, I can understand that. But taper apart, how's the rest of the shirt?

Winters: Great. As soon as I get some weight off, I'll be wearing 'em again.

Jonathan Winters, star of television, motion pictures, etc., is both author and cartoonist of the recently published "MOUSE BREATH, CONFORMITY AND OTHER SOCIAL ILLS." In our picture he is wearing Hathaway's Discocheque. About $9.50.