

Root-Tilden Scholarship Applications Due Dec. 31

New York University's School of Law is accepting applications from top students across the nation for the Root-Tilden Scholarship Program.

The deadline for applications is Dec. 31. Successful applicants will receive grants of $3,300 a year for three years of study at the NYU School of Law.

Twenty winners, two from each of the ten Federal judicial districts, will be chosen and will begin classes in Sept. 1967.

The Root-Tilden scholars study under a special tutorial program that augments the traditional law curriculum with seminars in other disciplines.

Participants in the program are housed in dormitory near the School of Law at the University's Washington Square in Manhattan.

Each has a practicing attorney or judge as his sponsor. They are afforded personal contact with leaders of both the legal profession and government.

To be eligible, a student must be in the upper quarter of his graduating class; receive a baccalaureate degree prior to entering law school; take the law school admission test and submit his score with his college record; be single, male and between 20-28; not have attended any law school previously.

Selection is made by a circuit committee composed of the chief judge of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the circuit, an officer of the Federal Reserve Bank for the district, and NYU law professor and a former Root-Tilden Scholar.

Journalists Attend ACP Conference

Four University students are attending the Associated Collegiate Press's national conference in Philadelphia this weekend.

The conference is for college and university publications, and is being held Oct. 20-22 at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel.

A line-up of workshops involving all aspects of student journalism from layout and typography to news, feature, and editorial coverage is scheduled.

Separate sections are planned for large publications and for small ones.

The business end of the conference is being expanded from last year.

Meeting concurrently with ACP will be the National Council of College Publication Advisers.

Tickets Gone, Buses Full; 2200 Migrate To Boulder

By Lynn Ptacek Junior Staff Writer

Bird Week has hit the University campus, as at least 2,200 students migrate to Boulder for the Nebraska-Colorado game this weekend.

Students are traveling in a variety of ways, but the majority are taking cars. Departure times vary; some students left as early as Wednesday night, while the remainder will leave Lincoln Friday.

One student remarked, "We are taking five people in a Renault, and we don't even have room for clothes. We are leaving Friday morning and hope to make it to Denver by Saturday morning."

Tickets for the trip sponsored by the Nebraska Union are completely sold out, according to Karen Jones, trip chairman. Miss Jones said that 90 people, including 75 girls and 15 boys, will travel on two chartered buses.

"We had enough student interest that we could have sold another bus load," she said.

The buses will leave from the south entrance of the Union Friday night at 10:20, and will arrive at the Colorado Memorial Center at 9:30 Saturday morning. The students will stay at the Brown Palace Hotel in Denver, and return to Lincoln on Sunday.

Miss Jones also said that since the girls going on the bus were allowed to wear slacks, a problem had arisen as to where they could change in Boulder before the game. Two rooms were finally obtained in the Boulder student union where the girls could change clothes, and the boys could shave.

Tickets Sold Out
According to the University ticket office, a total of 11,000 tickets have been sold, including 2,200 student tickets. No more tickets are available.

Lincoln transportation facilities will have heavy traffic this weekend. According to the Greyhound and Continental Trailways bus depots, many buses have been chartered by private groups, but there has been only a small increase in irregularly scheduled trips.

The Columbus Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a special train on the Union Pacific line, while Burlington trains include a Lincoln Elks Lodge special with 500 people. The Omaha Sportscasters Club will also sponsor a Burlington train for 600 people.

The Burlington California and Denver Zephyr which leaves Lincoln early on Friday and Saturday mornings is completely filled for both days.

Band To Perform
University band members will leave Lincoln Friday morning at 7, according to band member Larry Beldon. They will eat lunch in North Platte, and then go on to Scottsbluff where they will perform at the Scottsbluff High School football game Friday night. The band will leave for Boulder at 6:30 a.m. Saturday morning. Nebraska's halftime performance will include precision drills to music from Broadway. The band will return to Lincoln immediately following the game.

Some of the Innocents may be traveling in Marv Almy's pick-up truck to Boulder, due to the problem of transporting a 75-pound buffalo head which goes to the winning school.

Many students expressed excitement about the trip. A sophomore commented that never having been to Boulder she was looking forward to seeing the mountains and the campus. Tulagi's, however, seemed to be the number one place students were going to visit.

One student forlornly said, "My ride fell through, so I'm looking forward to a lonely weekend here in Lincoln."

The mass migration will leave the campus rather empty until the deluge of returning fans begins on Sunday.

ASUN Sponsors Housing Forums

A forum on student housing will be presented next Tuesday in the west hall of the Nebraska Union Cafeteria.

It is the first in a series of scheduled forums which are designed to bring the administration and the students together to discuss mutual problems.

The forum is scheduled on a bi-weekly basis and will begin at 4:00 p.m.

ONCE MORE UNTO THE BREACH

Way back in 1953 I started writing this column about campus life. Today, a full 13 years later, I am still writing this column, for my interest in undergraduates is as keen and lively as ever. This is called "arrested development."

But where else can a writer find a subject as fascinating as the American campus? Where else are minds so nettled, bodies so roiled, psyches so unglued?

Right now, for example, though the new school year has just begun, you've already encountered the following disasters:

1. You hate your teachers.
2. You hate your courses.
3. You hate your room-mates.
4. You have no time to study.
5. You have no place to study.

Friends, let us, without despair, examine your problems one by one.

1. You hate your teachers. For shame, friends! Try looking at things their way. Take your English teacher, for instance. Here's a man who is one of the world's authorities on Robert Browning, yet he wears $30 tweeds and a pre-war necktie while his brother Sam, a high school dropout, earns $0 thou a year in aluminum siding. Is it so hard to understand why he writes "F" on top of your themes and "Eeeyich!" in the margin? Instead of hating him, should you not admire his dedication to scholarship, his disdain for the blandishments of commerce? Of course you should. You may flunk, but Pippa passes.

2. You hate your courses. You say, for example, that you don't see the use of studying Macbeth when you are majoring in veterinary medicine. You're wrong, friends. Believe me, some day when you are running a busy kennel, you'll be mighty glad you learned "Out, damned Spot!"

3. You hate your room-mates. This is, unquestionably, a big problem—in fact, the second biggest problem on American campuses. (The first biggest, of course, is on which side of your mortar board do you dangle the tassel at Commencement?) But there is an answer to the roommate problem: keep changing room-mates. The optimum interval, I have found, is every four hours.

4. You have no time to study. Friends, I'm glad to report there is a simple way to find extra time in your busy schedule. All you have to do is buy some Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades. Then you won't be wasting precious hours hacking away with inferior blades, mangling your face again and again in a tedious, feckless effort to winnow your whiskers. Personna shaves you quickly and slickly, easily and breezily, hacklessly, scrapelessly, tuglessly, nicklessly, scratchlessly, matchlessly. Furthermore, Personna Blades last and last. Moreover, they are available both in double-edge and injector style. And, as if this weren't enough, Personna is now offering you a chance to grab a steal of $100 bills. The Personna Super Stainless Steel Sweepstakes is off and running! You can win $10,000 and even more. Get over to your Personna dealer for details and an entry blank. Don't just stand there!

5. You have no place to study. This is a thorny one, I'll admit, what with the library so jammed and the dorms so noisy. But with a little ingenuity, you can still find a quiet, deserted spot—like the ticket office of the lacrosse team. Or a testimonial dinner for the dean. Or the nearest recruiting station.
