Rood Awakening

Coverage during the football season seems to provide a contrast of material for sports writers. At once, the much-read man must become an able statistician or a brilliant theorist.

Grist for the sports experts' mill lately has been pure theory. The team is starting to win with that magnificent boring fashion that makes fans persnickity and, like it was said, makes the writers turn to theory.

Latest to suffer at the poke of the propagandists' dull pens is the team. While disgrunted fans indulge in the trivia of "Why don't they win by more," the sportswriters accomplish little more trying to measure Husker

"greatness." The latest game — namely exactly a definition of Husker greatness—was really Jack Mitchell's fault. All the scribes heard that Jack thought Nebraska just wasn't great-whatever that is.

Anything they can do, I can do too . . . but, let's go to the source. Many pages were missing from the Rag's tattered dictionary, but the page with the word "great" remained. On page 239, there are five definitions, all of which apply. 1. of much more than ordinary size, extent, etc. What could be more applicable to the Devaney team?

Nothing more need be said. 2. much above the average; esp., a) intense: as, great pain. b) eminent:as, a great writer.

Well, they've got to be above average, football-wise. And in the examples, sideline shots this year will tell you that nobody has registered more pain at certain times than Bob Devaney. As for eminent writers, we know about them. Yeah, sure. 3. most important; main.

Wrongly or rightly, what is more important in this state than Nebraska's team. In the main too. 4. designating a relationship one generation removed:

as, great-grandparent. And who but Nebraskans are more proud to say every year that this team is the granddaddy of them all, 5. excellent; fine-used colloquially. The most favorite words of Husker supporters are excellent and fine-everybody knows that. Well, there you have it. The ultimate in thorough Husker-greatness-calculation. Straight from Webster's New World Dictionary, with able interpretation of course.

Forgetting all that, as I know we will, upcomes the Cowpokes, Several years in this series it was thought here that Nebraska might run the Staters out of the Stadium. It has yet to happen.

The margin should be wider Saturday. The Huskers seem to be building to a bowl pitch in contrast to some past years. All the silly talk about how much better they could be should keep them fired up. Tommy Prothro need say no more.

Through wind, sleet, snow and or rain the team will carry the mail and or the football to victory by NE-BRASKA 22, OKLAHOMA STATE 0.

Orange Bowlers ToWatch5Teams

Five games will be scouted this weekend by the Orange Bowl Committee. The teams being watched by the Orange Bowl are undefeated Alabama, Nebraska and Georgia Tech and on ce-beaten Florida and Georgia.

"This is the most games we have covered this sea-son," stated Orange Bowl President John Ring, "but we have a lot of irons in the fire to watch."

Ring indicated that the Orange bowl would offer its bid on Nov. 21, the first date authorized by the NCAA.

Past Games Show O-State Tough Foe

By Bob Flasnick Sports Editor

Oklahoma State, a team that has been a thorn in Nebraska's side ever since they joined the Big E i g h t Conference in 1960, will bring a 2-1-1 conference record to Lincoln Saturday which includes a one-point win over Colorado. Another sellout crowd of approximately 65,000 is anticipated.

Nebraska has never lost to the Cowboys from Stillwater while Bob Devaney has been the Husker coach but Nebraska has never beaten Oklahoma State by more than two touchdowns. That was in 1962 when the Huskers won 14-0 in Devaney's first year at Nebraska. In the two following years Nebraska won by scores of 20-16 and 27-14.

water produced the slimmest win margin for Nebraska, 21-17. Nebraska kept an undefeated season in tact by driving 76 yards in the final five minutes for the winning touchdown.

Cowboy fullback Wal Garrison was a one-man gang in the 1965 encounter. Garrison is gone this year and in his place as the leading Cowboy rusher is fullback Jack Reynolds. He has lugged the ball 105 times this year for a 3.8 yard average.

Nebraska's Harry Wilson ranks two notches above Reynolds in Big Eight rushing with a 4.6 yard average in 98 carries Both Sugar and Orange Bowl representatives will scout Saturday's game. Dr. Fred Wolfe will be making his third trip to the Cornhusker campus for the Sugar Bowl. It will be the second trip to Lincoln for the Orange Bowl's Jim Llewellyn and Bob Hector.

It was announced Wednesday that there is a good chance that defensive tackle Carel Stith, halfback

Ron Kirkland, and right end Dennis Richnafsky will be ready for Oklahoma State, All three were on the Husker injury list early in the week.

Stith was sidelined with an ankle sprain last Saturday at Kansas while Richnafsky and Kirkland were injured in the Wisconsin and Iowa State games respectively.

Husker quarterback Bob Churchich will be shooting for another Nebraska record Saturday. He needs only two yards passing to break the season record of 975 yards set by Dennis Claridge in 1962.

Last week at Kansas Churchich became the alltime career total offensive record holder with 2,675 yards and the Husker record holder for most passes attempted in one season (131).

The Columbus, Neb. Chamber of Commerce has named Saturday's game "Mary Mueller Day," in honor of their hometown defensive standout. A large delegation of Columbus fans will travel to the game via special buses.

A total of 24 Nebraska seniors will make their final appearance in Memorial Stadium Saturday.

They are LaVerne Allers, Gary Brichacek, Ken Brunk, Kaye Carstens, Bob Churchich, Langston Coleman, Rick Coleman, Dick Czap, Bob Hill, Ron Kirkland, Lou Narish, Jim Osberg, Tom Pappas, Kelly Peterson, and Bob Pickens.

Ron Poggemeyer, Steve Schaefer, Lynn Senkbeil, Carel Stith, Pete Tatman, Dennis Thorell, Jim Unrath, Larry Wachholtz and Harry Wilson.

Potter Is 'Pleased' With Frosh Cagers

By Ed Icenogle Sports Assistant

Nebraska freshman basketball coach Glenn Potter is pleased with the new crop of yearling cagers that he is cultivating.

"I'm very pleased," Potter said of the squad's preseason progress. "As far as the squad is concerned, we have depth - something usually lacking in our fresh-

"We have more speed and quickness," he added and then pointed out that the 1966-67 frosh are a bigger squad than the NU standouts who have vaulted the Cornhuskers into national basketball prominence.

"We're superior to what we had last year." said the coach. "I don't think there's any question about that."

The freshmen initiate their season Thursday, Dec. against Drake at Des Moines. The yearlings have an eight-game schedule, three of the tilts at home.

On Dec. 5, NU's frosh will host the Creston Junior College varsity at the Coliseum at 7:30 p.m. in Lincoln. It is the only non-preliminary contest of the campaign.

"This will give the fresh-men a night of their own instead of just a preliminary game," said Potter. The other matches will precede Cornhusker varsity games or be away games.

Potter, who has had the frosh in practice since Oct. 17, indicated the probable contenders for starting positions this season:

Frosh May Sign For BB Kernals

Freshmen interested in becoming members of Kernals for basketball season may sign up at the Nebraska Union Thursday beginning at 11:30 a.m.

Only those freshmen who were not members of Kernels for football are eligible. There will be no quota for each living unit, as there is during football season.

To become a member. each Kernal must purchase a uniform and attend all home games.

Calif., Sam Martin of Pawnee City. Neb., and Tom Scantlebury of Oakland, Calif., were listed as leading the guards. Line is 6-3, Martin 6-0 and Scantlebury Bob Gratopp, Grafton, Neb. Cauble and Collins stand 6-5 and Gratopp is 6-4.

Ken Peden, 6-7, Alliquippa, Penn., and 6-6 Ed Mc-Pherren of Ten Sleep, Wyo., are the choices at center.

At the front of the forward ranks are Ken Cauble, Midland, Texas, Larry Collins, Englewood, Calif., and
