ASUN Concern Over Areas Of Rights, Budget

By Randy Irely
Senior Staff Writer

The semester has been a "successful one" if judged by the accomplishments of the Associated Students of the University of Nebraska, according to its president, Terry Schaaf.

"At the beginning we faced the problem of having a great number of projects being started at the same time and it took time to organize and coordinate the various activities of the committees," he explained.

"But once the initial problems were overcome, dously and the projects have either been completed, or the groundwork well laid for completion in the second semester," Schaaf stressed.

He applauded the senators for becoming more aware of what is going on all over the University. "In addition, they are becoming more and more responsible in assuming leadership within the senate. This has resulted in some outstanding work being accomplished on the committee level."

Two Concerns

Schaaf sees two major areas of concern which have been the subject of much Senate action. These are the areas of student conduct and bill of rights and the area of legislative liaison in regard to the proposed University budget.

"The Student Conduct committee has accomplished their goal of obtaining a rough draft of a bill of rights, resulting from investigations into the area," Schaaf noted. "Next semester they will be involved in explaining and selling the bill to the three areas of the University, the students, faculty, and the administration."

Schaaf thinks that his basic philosophy in regard to a bill rights has not changed. "I never have opposed a bill of rights, nor do I oppose the proposed bill. Dick Schulze, chairman of the committee, has done an excellent job."

"However, I feel that I differ from some people on the campus in that I see the bill as a negotiated statement among the three areas of the University, not as a declaration of what students think they should have."

The bill, according to Schaaf, is a statement of position on "things we hold necessary to a quality total education." Once a final document is drawn up, Schaaf said, we must work towards obtaining them.

"The document sets forth goals for us to obtain. It is not necessarily the thing that will bring about the changes asked. I am confident that we will get what we request but it will be a matter of time before it is obtained," Schaaf explained.

Come Out Ahead

"Through degrees of compromise, we will come out ahead of where we are now. The bill can then serve as a basis towards fulfilling total goals. Some areas will take time in working out. It may be a matter of several years transpiring before we go from where we are now until we get what we ask," he continued.

"In the area of housing regulations, this is where we will have to move gradually, taking a step each year. We can't realistically believe we'll reach all of the goals by the end of the year. We'll reach some, for sure, and in the others, we will be ahead of where we now stand."

In regard to the proposed budget, the Legislative and Liaison committee has made good head way throughout the state, Schaaf pointed out. He thinks that their speeches to service clubs around the state, Curt Bromm's speech before the legislature, and other actions planned by the committee are important because they are showing citizens of the state that the students care about the budget.

Important Role

"The students must and will play an important role in obtaining any budget increase for the University. How much the University receives will be partially reflected by the degree of concern about the budget and the education that results, then maybe we don't deserve a budget increase," he declared.

Concerning other areas of progress, Schaaf cited the publication of a Faculty Evaluation Booklet. "It is not perfect, but it will improve as more teachers are evaluated and problems are perience. Ladd Lonquist did an excellent job in getting it out."

In the area of the college advisory boards, Schaaf pointed out the work of Mel Schlacter in defining the purposes and actions which should be carried out by these boards.

"In the area of liaison between ourselves and the administration, our goals for the semester were to establish better communications. This has been accomplished. We have held a series of forums with administration designed to discuss general policies," he stated.

This is your chance, Student #7026941. Drink Sprite and be somebody.

MR. BIG

Take heart. Take a dime. Then take a bottle of Sprite from the nearest pop machine.

Suddenly it's in your hand. Cold. Biting. Tart and tingling. You cackle fiendishly and rub your hands together. (You should; they're probably chilled to the bone by now.)

You tear off to a corner, alone, but within earshot of your fellows.

"I'd then? And then? And then you unleash it. SPRITE! It fizzes! It roars! It bubbles with good cheer!

Heads turn. Whispers. "Who's that strangely fascinating student with the arch smile. And what's in that curious green bottle that's making such a racket?"

And you've arrived! The distinctive taste and ebullient character of Sprite has set you apart. You're somebody, uh...uh, whoever-you-are.

SPRITE. SO TART AND TINGLING, WE JUST COULDN'T KEEP IT QUIET.

1. What's eating you? Can't decide on dessert? Worse. Can't decide on a job.

2. How come? The recruiters are swarming the campus. The kind of job I want just doesn't exist.

3. Givo me the picture. I'm searching for meaning. I want to be of service to mankind.

4. You can get a job like that with your eyes closed. The trouble is, I also want a slice of the pie.

5. Then why don't you get in touch with Equitable. Their whole business is based on social research. As a member of their management development program, you'll be able to make a significant contribution to humanity. And pie-wise, the pay is fine. Make mine blueberry.

Make an appointment through your Placement Officer to see Equitable's employment representative on January 9, 1967 or write to Patrick Scobard, Manpower Development Division, for further information.
