Arundel, Canarsky File For Executive Posts

By Mark Gordon
Junior Staff Writer

Two applications were received late Wednesday by Inter-Dormitory Coordinating Committee secretary Joan Spivey, for the positions of Inter-Dormitory Association (IDA) president and vice-president.

Applications were accepted until the IDCC meeting Wednesday night and the complete list of candidates will appear in Friday's Daily Nebraskan.

Jim Arundel, Abel Hall sophomore, has filed for the IDCC position of the vice-presidency in the forthcoming IDA election.

Presidential Candidate
Arundel, a pre-law English major is presently

Abel-Sandoz social director and was chairman of the AUF Independent Men Fund Drive last fall.

He has been an ASUN Associate for two years, working on the Student Conduct Committee, the Student-Faculty Relations Committee and the Centennial Committee.

Arundel, who has resided in University residence halls for two years, served on the Abel Supreme Court last year.

English Major
Canarsky, an English major from Rosalie, is currently Abel-Sandoz intramural director.

An Abel vice-presidential candidate last year, Canarsky is also the chairman of the Abel-Sandoz food committee.

The presidential and vice-presidential campaigns begin today and will continue until the elections are conducted in University residence halls March 9.

Until the officers are elected the IDCC is functioning as the Inter-Dormitory Council, election committee and Inter-Dormitory Court.

Plurality Needed
In the election a candidate will be declared the winner if he receives at least 40 per cent of the ballots.

If such a plurality does not exist, a run-off election will be held within ten days between the two candidates receiving the largest number of votes.

The president and vice-president will assume office one week after their election and will serve a one-year term, according to the IDA constitution.

IDCC Will Disband
After the election, the IDCC will disband and as the IDCC's last official function, Ludwig will swear in the entering officials of the Association.

Among the president's major duties are appointing the IDA secretary and treasurer, serving as an ex-officio member of all committees and presiding at all Council meetings.

The vice-president can assume presidential duties if the presidency is vacated, and can serve as president if the presidency is vacate.

Coed Visiting Hours . . .

Committee To Present Statement To Faculty

By Mark Gordon
Junior Staff Writer

The official statement of the coed-visiting hours committee will be released early next week, according to the group's chairman Dave Shonka.

The committee, composed of Abel Hall residents Norm Mattson, Wayne Morton and Ron Schneider, would have had the statement completed earlier, but "there were unexpected difficulties," said Shonka.

Evaluation
He said the statement would contain an evaluation of the coed visiting hours and "it would be presented as the formal request to be heard with the Faculty Committee."

The Faculty Committee on Student Affairs, comprised of ASUN representatives, faculty members and administrators, has recently had a series of three meetings with the ASUN conduct committee.

Ross' Statement
Two weeks ago, G. Robert Ross, dean of student affairs, said the "committee is open to talk to any group of students who asks for a meeting."

Shonka said the committee, advised by Abel residence directors Richard Arndt and Bob Muschewski, is meeting to discover temporary solutions to the problem until the coed visiting hours are formalized.

The committee is attempting to obtain coed visiting hours in University residence halls, once a week, with certain restrictions.

YD To Decide Extent Of Steen Aid

The Young Democrats (YD) will decide the amount of financial aid that they will give to William Steen, Heroic Bookstore Owner, at a YD meeting tonight, according to Bruce Mason, president.

Mason also said that the candidates for YD president and their slates for a March 16 election will be announced. He said that the meeting is the deadline for filing for the election and for registration of new members who wish to vote.

"Election procedures and the Student Bill of Rights will be discussed at the meeting Mason announced.

Heart Fund Dance Nets About $350

The "Pop at the Heart Throb Hop" was a "great success" according to Mike Shonsey, overall chairman of the dance.

The dance netted nearly $350 for the Lincoln Area Heart Association. About 764 persons attended.

Shonsey said that the dance, which was jointly sponsored by the Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Alpha Phi pledge classes and Selleck, will probably be held again next year.

The Sigma Alpha Epsilon pledges also collected an additional $393 for the Heart Fund with their charity bicycle.

The pledges had offered to peddle a mile on an exercise bike in front of Ben Simons for every dollar Lincolinites contributed through them.

Speaker Not Confirmed For Spring Convocation

An announcement should be made late this week or early next week about a speaker for the University spring convocation, according to Paul Schach, chairman of the Faculty Convocation Committee and Germanic languages department.

Schach said he hopes to hear soon whether or not a nationally prominent statesman he had contacted will confirm an agreement to speak at the spring convocation.

The contacted speaker is of the same caliber as Supreme Court Chief Justice William Douglas, who spoke at a University convocation several years ago, Schach said.

Five faculty members and several students who serve as advisers make up the Faculty Convocations Committee. Each member serves five years, with members going on and leaving annually on a rotating basis.

The committee was established to help the different colleges and departments bring speakers to the campus.

"We have a rather modest budget that's more or less adequate for our purpose," Schach said. Half of it is used to bring speakers for all-university convocations, which are held in the spring and/or fall, and the other half is used to bring speakers to the departments.

Schach said that the present budget system is rather complicated and could be more simplified if it did not operate on a fixed annual budget. He suggested a larger budget to last four or five years, providing more flexibility.

The committee solicits suggestions for speakers from the departments and groups on campus early each fall. A list of about a dozen names is selected and correspondence is started.

Most speakers are obtained through personal contacts within the University rather than speaker bureaus or agencies, Schach said.

TV To Feature 'Stomp' By Cadence Countesses

Crowd noise causing marchers to lose their count is one of the main problems Cadence Countesses have encountered performing at basketball games, according to Vicki Metzger, honorary colonel and commander of the organization.

She explained that the Countesses perform at games mainly for practice. Their real interest is in competition with other drill teams.

Network Television
The Cadence Countesses will be featured on network television at the game between Nebraska and Kansas. They will also march in national competition March 10-12 at Champaign, Illinois.

The basic maneuver of the Countesses is the "stomp," Miss Metzger said. They also specialize in a high arm fling, "something no other drill team that we've ever competed with does."

They were organized in 1958 as an auxiliary to Pershing Rifles Company A-2 and three years ago won a national championship.

Regional Meeting
Their next competition is at a regional meet in Sioux Falls, South Dakota.

Sophomore girls with 2.3 averages are eligible for membership. Tryouts are held each fall to select new members and substitutes.

British Columbia University Vetoes Liquor In Residences

Washington (CPS) - University of British Columbia housing czar Malcolm McGregor has vetoed liquor in campus residences there, but statewide collegians are having an easier time of it.

George Washington University has dropped its regulations prohibiting liquor at campus social events, while at Northwestern coeds are working to establish a Key Club on campus so students at their otherwise dry University can be spared the walk into town for a drink.

McGregor, commenting on a story which appeared in the campus newspaper, the Ubyesey, which reported that drinking was not allowed in dorms at Georgetown University, Washington, D.C. said: "I don't care what they do in any other part of the world. Any students caught drinking in UBC dorms will be expelled."

Georgetown officials said they legalized liquor to help students develop personal responsibility and to end the pretense of an unenforceable rule.

At George Washington, which became the second D.C. institution to liberalize liquor regulations this year, drinking has been allowed in the residence halls for several years. Revised regulations now permit student organizations or faculty groups to serve alcoholic beverages at their meetings and social gatherings as well.

At Northwestern University, coeds Bobbi Fairchild and Drew Velde have introduced the Key Club concept to the campus. The idea grew out of an Associated Women Students executive board meeting, Miss Fairchild explained. "Drinking is essentially a social act," she said.
