

State Assembly Speaker Attacks Reagan's Plan

... California Higher Education

California Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh attacked Gov. Ronald Reagan's budget cut and tuition proposals for California public higher education in an address to college and university administrators.

"I am implacably opposed to this administration's attempt to impose tuition through the device of a budget cut," Unruh said, "and I resent its effort to sell this proposal through an appeal to an incipient distrust of higher learning."

In discussing the tuition proposal, Unruh noted that while the Governor had proposed specific tuition levels, he has failed to outline a specific scholarship program for low-income students.

Program Out

"The only concrete proposal the Governor has made so far with respect to scholarships, is to cut our present meager program by ten per cent," Unruh said.

"There are other thoroughly-studied revenue sources available in California. The withholding of income taxes, for example, would produce more new revenue each year than the Governor's proposed tuition would produce for many years to come."

Unruh quoted statements by Reagan and Lieutenant Governor Finch describing tuition as a disciplinary measure aimed at "maturing" students involved in campus demonstrations.

Punishes Activists

"This administration is attempting to justify tuition as a punishment for student activists," Unruh declared. Even if it were just to use taxation for this purpose, the tuition method is both unfair and illogical.

"It is unfair because it is, in effect, a fine on all students levied for the real and imagined infractions of a small minority," he said.

Unruh noted that many of the students involved in the 1964 Sprout Hall sit-in at the Berkeley campus were non-residents paying a tuition of $800 per year.

"It is difficult to see just whom tuition is going to 'discipline' but experience has shown us who is not likely to be affected—the determined student agitator," Unruh said.

"It would seem most probably that the student who has a greater financial stake in his education would be more inclined to express with vehemence his view of the educational and social establishment. After all, he has paid a pretty high price of admission."

He accused the Governor of refusing to compromise on his budget cuts.

Firing The President

Unruh described the firing earlier this year of University of California President Clark Kerr and assessed the effect of this move.

"For some," Unruh said, "the dismissal was simply a logical reaction to the series of Berkeley 'crises.' For others, it was a repudiation of the policy of assimilation which had been used by the University administration with regard to protests and infractions of campus regulations.

"Many others, including the world-wide press, saw the firing as a gesture of appeasement to a new political administration."

"No matter why it was done, the dismissal of Dr. Kerr was most untimely," Unruh declared.

Education Weakened

"Within California, the position of the University has definitely been weakened. The confidence of faculty, students and administration has been severely shaken. In the midst of grave crisis, this vast educational complex is left without experienced leadership in a position to argue the case of the University," Unruh stated.

"Whether by design or by accident, the dismissal of Dr. Kerr did focus responsibility for the current crisis in public higher education in California upon the new administration and that is precisely where it belongs."

SABICAS... world famous flamenco guitarist to play Thursday.

Guitarist Sabicas Will Give Concert

World famous flamenco Sabicas will appear in concert at the Nebraska Union, Thursday at 8 p.m.

A Spanish Gypsy, Sabicas received his only guitar lesson at five years of age from an uncle who knew two chords. Blessed with an ear with perfect pitch and the age-old musical traditions of his people, he became a child prodigy, debuted in Madrid at the age of nine.

Conference Theme Is Modern World

"Religion in the Modern World" is the major theme of the Inter-Faith Conference being sponsored by the Council on Religion, according to Barb Mihelic, chairman of the conference.

The conference will be held Friday and Saturday at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education. Registration begins Friday at 4 p.m. with a six dollar registration fee which covers meals and lodging.

The main idea of the conference is "to promote a better understanding between groups and to promote a better religious spirit," Miss Mihelic said.

The conference will consist primarily of discussion groups led by campus pastors on such topics as the morality of sexual relations with the racial problem.

will be shown.

In addition Miss Constance Parvey will give a series of talk and the movie "The Prophet," dealing the racial problem, will be shown.

Campus religious groups participating include the Episcopalians, Student Religious Liberals, Hillel, Methodists, Catholics, Missouri Synod Lutherans, American Lutheran Church and Lutheran Church of America, United Campus Christian Fellowship, Baptists and Christian Scientists.

Persons interested in attending the conference should contact any campus pastor, or Council on Religion representative.

Panel Discussion On Housing Scheduled For Thursday

The basic purpose of Thursday's panel discussion on the housing issue will be to "inform people" according to Ken Rawie, organizer of the discussion.

The panel has been set up in hopes of representing both the students and the administration, he said.

Terry Schaaf, ASUN president, and Marv Almy, president of the ad hoc committee on housing policy, have been selected to represent the student's views on the current controversy.

"It may not be unanimous that Schaaf and Almy best represent the students, but we feel they are the best informed and will be the best able to discuss the issues," Rawie said.

Ed Schwartzkopf, a member of the Board of Regents, G. Robert Ross, dean and vice chancellor for student affairs, and Helen Snyder, associate dean of student affairs, will represent the administration.

Rawie said that he hopes that some unified statement of policy can be made.

"This would help to clarify the issue. Many people are confused as to what the administration's policy is," he said.

Roger Doerr, first vice president of the ASUN, will be moderator of the discussion. Members of the audience can question the panel, but they will be asked to write out their questions, Rawie said.

The discussion is being sponsored by Abel IV and will be held in the Pan American Room of the Nebraska Union at 3:30 p.m. Rawie stated that the Union Talks and Topics chairman, Bob Maxner has agreed to cancel Hyde Park Thursday for the discussion.

Midwest Student Politics ...

Oklahoma's Student Senate Has Rights Bill Like NU's

Elections, student government activities and protest movements continue to occupy the attention of students in midwestern universities as second semester nears its mid-point.

The Oklahoma State Student Senate is working on a Student Bill of Rights similar to Nebraska's.

In an editorial the Daily O'Collegian suggested that it might have been wise for Oklahoma students to do as much background work and research on their Bill of Rights as the Nebraska students have done.

It called for administration-faculty-student discussion to more clearly define the rights students already possess and additional rights which they should have.

"It is vital that all students understand before they take a stand," the editorial continued.

Suspended Athletes

The Illinois Student Senate voted 18-14 to support the 12 suspended athletes and three coaches involved in a slush fund scandal.

arbitrary rule and that the sentence passed by the Big Ten was too harsh.

The University of Kansas is considering changes in the form of its student government. The proposed student council would consist of 10 school representatives and the four class presidents.

The Kansas State Collegian applauded the Student Union for its decision to keep the cafeteria open until 2 a.m. Such a service, they claimed would be most appreciated by the journalism and architecture students.

Kansas Has New AWS

The University of Kansas has established a new AWS Constitution.

The new constitution was chartered by the Board of Regents and it will have power to formulate and administer regulations pertaining to women. The representative bodies have been changed from legislative to discussion groups.

Election irregularities at Kansas State caused the Kansas State Student Senate to declare the results of a party primary void.

A non-affiliated candidate withdrew when the primary was declared invalid. He said he was withdrawing for financial, physical and moral reasons.

A number of Kansas students plan to fast for three days as part of a national movement to protest all war and the inhumanity of the Vietnam war in particular.

Ag Committee To Talk On Proposed Board

An Agricultural Executive Board committee will discuss the proposed advisory board for the College of Agriculture Thursday night with Mel Schlachter, chairman of the Arts and Sciences Advisory Board.

"We plan to set up a constitution this month and hold election of representatives this semester. We hope to have the Advisory Board functioning next fall", a committee member said.

The representatives will be chosen from the 13 departments in the College of Agriculture.

The School of Home Economics has an advisory board established last year by Mrs. Virginia Trotter, Director of the School of Home Economics. Its members are chosen by Mrs. Trotter and from Home Economics Organizations.

The Agriculture Executive Board hopes to act as the governing body of the two advisory boards.

Problems to be faced by the advisory board are looking into the possibilities of an international agriculture major and a wildlife curriculum.

in special education and elementary education from Aurora to Allen Cepak from Ord.

Enrollment Rises In NU Ag College

Undergraduate enrollment in agricultural studies at the University has risen more than twice as much in the last 10 years as that of 14 agricultural colleges in the north-central region of the U.S.

An increase of 83.4 per cent at the University since 1956 dwarfs a 33.8 per cent rise in agriculture students in the 14 college region, a part of the National Association of State Universities and Land-grant Colleges.

The figures are from studies by Dr. Franklin E. Eldridge, director of resident instruction at the University, and Dr. Louis M. Thompson, associate dean of agriculture at Iowa State University.

Within the University itself, total enrollment since 1965 has increased 12.4 per cent, compared to a 15.0 per cent rise since 1965 in agricultural undergraduates.
