North Vietnamese Can Win . . .

North Vietnamese Can Win... Victory Will Not Be America's

following is one installment of a series of articles on the war in Vietnam written by Howard Moffeet, Collegiate Press Service correspondent Johnson's. in Saigon. The Daily Nebraskan has run two series and several articles by Moffett, who was former editor of the Yale Daily News.) Saigon, South Viet Nam (CPS)-Trang, which is not his real name, came to see me this morning. He's been on vacation s i n c e the government shut down his newspaper in December. The GUARDIAN had always been critical of Ky and the junta, but its pointed coverage of Tran Van Van's assassinationspecifically its refusal to assume he was murdered by the Viet Cong-brought the lid down

Trang is soft-spoken, but capable of bitter invective. He's fond of imported cigarettes, and reads both Maugham and Balzac in the originals. He led a Viet Minh company in the war against the French. Withal he is one of the most charming and loyal men I know.

He had nothing particular on his mind. We talked about Operation Cedar Falls, Ky, the assembly, the price of rice, the prospects for civilian government. What he had to say wouldn't have made Mr. Johnson any happier. For example:

Item: American soldiers will never beat the Viet Cong. We had been talking about the U.S. attempt to raze the Viet Cong jungle stronghold known as the Iron Triangle, 30 miles north of Saigon. "Americans can't defeat the Viet Cong: only the Vietnamese can do that." he said. But Trang, protested, the ARVN sure isn't doing it now. (The Army of the Republic of Viet Nam, except for a few commanders and a handful of units, is notorious for low morale, inflexibility, ing public relations.)

Item: Prime Minister Ky's credibility gap is almost as wide as President

"Nobody believes him," Trang said. "One day he announces that press censorship will be lifted, the next day the papers are full of white spaces. (This is true. It happened just last week.) He shouldn't say things that he knows will never be done.

Item: When the people think of the government, they think of two things-American influence and cor-

I had asked him what kind of government might expect to win the support of the people. "There will be no solution that is not a nationalist solution," Trang said. (Is that so hard to understand, Mr. Johnson, Mr. Rusk, Mr. McNamara?)

He was not optimistic about the chances of Ky and the military stepping aside to allow a transfer of power to a constitutionally elected civilian government: "If Ky wants to stay in power, there is no reason for the Americans to allow anyone else to replace him. He's easy to handle. He has no training, no education, no independent character. His government is full of corruption." But Trang, I said, I have never heard any of his critics call him personally corrupt. "He has his own kind of corruption. One of his Air Force pilots just came back from the Philippines and Hong Kong with 600 transistor radios. Do you think he doesn't know about that? Have you ever been in the house of the army staff? (I hadn't) They have everything-cars, television, refrigerators, air conditioners -and no papers for any of it. It's all illegal.

These problems are not new, nor are they easy to solve. Basically they are the same problems that Ngo Dinh Diem and John F. Kennedy. Promises and programs have come and gone for six years, making cynics out of thousands of Vietnamese and hundreds of Americans serving in Viet Nam. But the probicans.

lems are still here. Some of Trang's details may be inaccurate. The graft stories would be virtually impossible to verify, and an American might even have trouble checking the report of defoliation in Dinh Tuong.

But that's not the point Politically what Trang said is just as true as if he had made it all up. Because hundreds of thousands of Vietnamese blieve it. They have seen enough of what he was taking about, enough promises and programs turned into pork barrels, that they will believe nothing else until they see massive evidence to the

I don't know if Trang is more right than they are. I don't know how many Vietnamese Trang speaks for. But I tend to think it is many, many more than most of the Americans re-

Want to be a leader and double you chances for success in life? You can, by earning both a degree and an Army officer's commission at the same time . . . even though you may not have taken ROTC training in your first

There are a limited number of vacancies open in a program through which you can be commissioned as a Second Lieutenant after taking two years of Army ROTC training while you complete your studies for a college degree. You can qualify for this program by attending a special six-week summer training camp after your sophomore year and then completing the ROTC Advanced Course in your junior and senior years of college.

Here's what ROTC training and an officer's commission will do for you:

- It will qualify you to fulfill your military obligation as an officer.
- You will learn to organize, motivate, and lead others.
- You will develop leadership qualities that many college men miss-selfdiscipline, physical stamina, poise, bearing, the acceptance of responsibility and other qualities that contribute to success in either a civilian or military career.
- You will receive $40 per month during your junior and senior years, plus pay and mileage for summer training.

The training and experience you will receive through Army ROTC will pay off for the rest of your life. A decision to take advantage of this new program could be one of the most important you will ever make.

You owe it to yourself to investigate this new important opportunity. For complete information on the new Two-Year Army ROTC Program se the Professor of Military Science on campus.
