Cather Hall Government To Study Its Constitution

tive Council (CHEC) voted late Tuesday night to establish a constitutional study committee to revise the present Cather constitution after debating a report from leaders of seceded John F. Kennedy House and a coordinating committee.

In naming an eight-man study committee, the Council also voted to recommend two of the report's proposals and to place three constitutional amendments on a May 9 Cather Hall ballot.

Named to the committee, which was proposed by Cather vice-president Jim Cavender, floor representatives to CHEC-Dave Keifer, Ron Klutman, Ken Noha and Dan Smith-and president of the seceded floor 13, Robert Wolff.

Cavender will head the committee, which will also include floor representatives to CHEC, a faculty advisor and a writer of the original Cather Hall constitu-

Cavender's motion to establish the group was preceded by two hours of debate on the recommendations of floor 13, which last week seceded from the Ca-

He said the committee will look into the contradictions and the workability of the present constitution and will possibly "consider other forms of government such as the Abel-Sandoz joint government and we will also study constitutions of other dorms on campus."

He added that, "as we've worked with the floor 13 coordinating committee, we found several contradictions that should be corrected and other areas that need to be defined more care-

Saying that "our main interest is to make our constitution acceptable to us," he said he hoped that the committee would have its report ready for presentation by Nov. 1.

LSD Is Possible Cause Of Cancer, Deformities

LSD's positive uses are best brought out under medical guidance, according to Dr. Henry Caron, director of the University Counseling Service.

Canon made this statement to the Daily Nebraskans Wednesday when asked about the recent report of a New York geneticist which said that LSD could cause cancer in the drug users and deformity and death in their children.

Damage Chromosomes

Dr. Maimon Cohen of the State University of New York School of Medicine at Buffalo has been reported to have discovered that a single dose of LSD can severely damage human chromosomes, cells which carry the genes that convey hereditary characteristics from mother to child.

Canon said that if the chromosomes passed by the parents to the offspring would be damaged by either parent using LSD, then the only sensible thing would be to stop using the
