

ASUN Plans New Programs

A host of new programs, an "open door" policy and an expanded budget are among the many innovations planned by ASUN for this year, according to President Richard Schulze.

The Senate will convene for its first meeting Wednesday at 4:00 p.m. in the Nebraska Union. Schulze said that ASUN will consider the recent changes in University housing policy, the ASUN budget and the group's committee structure.

AREAS STRESSED
Schulze indicated that he is anticipating a "very busy" year for the Senate. He said three areas will draw special emphasis:

—the Senate will "strive to improve the quality of student participation in the decision making process of the University."

—it will "attempt to introduce topics that are important nationally to the students of the University."

—it will encourage political participation in all levels of national, state and local government.

In seeking the first aim — an increased student voice in University decision making, Schulze said, the Senate will continue its efforts to secure the Student Bill of Rights passed last spring by a campus-wide vote.

FURTHER PLANS

Other program being considered include the formation of an ad hoc committee on curriculum, the establishment of a University FM radio station, and a study of the University's program expenditures to see "if the University is meeting the cultural and intellectual needs of the students."

To acquaint University students with national issues, Schulze said that he will propose the creation of several conferences, including one on "The World in Revolution" and another on urbanization.

These conferences would invite recognized national authorities to come to the University to discuss the featured topics.

MODEL U.N.

Plans are underway to hold a Model United Nations session in December in conjunction with the Nebraska Union Talks and Topics Committee, Schulze added.

In the area of student political participation, the Senate may take some part in the local referendum on open housing this fall, he said.

Schulze said he would also like to see the formation of a Student Body Presidents' Association, drawing from the colleges of Nebraska. Such a group could meet to discuss and issue statements on pertinent state issues.

Schulze said he plans to abandon the practice of appointing Senators to the Senate and Executive Committees and will instead ask for volunteers to work with the chairmen.

COMMITTEE AIMS

These committees will be more "task-oriented" and less structured, coming in to fulfill specific goals over a short period.

Some of the larger committees, notably the one dealing with education, may be divided into subcommittees "enabling us to expand our activities."

The Senate's "open door" policy comes as a result of the hiring of an ASUN secretary, he continued.

"We want students to know that we are here to deal with their problems," Schulze said. "Now that we have a secretary, we will be able to have office hours and to talk with any student desiring our help."

INCREASED FUNDS

The addition of a paid secretary to the ASUN staff was necessitated by a budget. The three top executives will also draw salaries for the first time.

This year's Senate will be working with an annual budget of $9,600 in contrast to last year's allocation of $3,600. This increase results from a change in the procurement of senate funds, Schulze said.

In past years ASUN has petitioned for funds on the basis of the programs planned. This year it will receive 30 cents per student, each semester, from the University fees. Much of these additional funds will be utilized for new programs and for next spring's elections, he said.

Regents Prohibit Drug Use

The Board of Regents, restated the University's policy against the student use of drugs and voted to require entering freshmen to take the college board tests.

The Board, at a meeting Tuesday, explained that they "strongly reaffirmed the existing policy prohibiting the illegal use of drugs by students."

The Board admitted that "drug abuse has not been an acute problem at the University of Nebraska," but added that it wished to make "crystal clear its intention of enforcing the existing policy."

"Students violating the policy will be subject to suspension from school," the Board stated. "The University recognizes no rationale for even a single instance of drug misuse."

NU Coeds To Discuss Drugs, Sex, Morality

Drugs, sex and morality will be the featured topics during Focus on Coeds week, October 24 to November 2, AWS Board announced Tuesday afternoon. Speakers have been contacted to present the subjects to small groups, with group discussions following the talks.

Coed Follies chairman, Kathy Kuester announced that Coed Follies will have an international theme this year. A workshop will be held September 27 to deal with Coed Follies.

It was announced that all women participating in the key program must attend an orientation session Thursday. Extra instructional periods will be arranged for those who cannot attend the scheduled orientation.
