STTOP To Seek More Harmony

STTOP, an interracial organization created to promote better relationships among all people, will hold a meeting Oct. 2 at 7:30 p.m., in the United Ministries in Higher Education Building, 333 N. 14 St.

Officers for the coming year were elected last week. They are: Bennie Williams, president; Steve Brememan, vice president; Marie Sherron, secretary; Cynthia Pemberton, assistant secretary; Herman Ray, public relations; Eleanor E. Emerson, program chairman; and Torri Pearlstein, historian.

Members plan to devote time, energy and funds to the realization of equal job and housing opportunities. Consequently, each member will pay an annual dues of $2.50.

He added that there will be a meeting of all skit-masters Oct. 5 at 6:30 p.m. in the Nebraska Union, room 348. Details concerning rehearsals will be discussed at this time.

Tryouts for the show will be held Oct. 12 at 6:30 p.m. in Nebraska Hall, Carraway said. Skits will be limited to 12 minutes and six groups will be selected for the performance.

Trophies will be awarded for first, second, and third places, best costumes, most original music and best individual actor.

Prior to tryouts, skit masters are invited to meet with Carraway and show directors for individual help.

IFC Exec Council Prepares For Rush

The Interfraternity Council (IFC) Wednesday voted to give the executive committee authority to enter into negotiations with the Regents concerning deferred rush.

"This is sort of a preparatory measure for the meeting with the Regents this Friday," IFC president Gene Hohensee pointed out.

"I have no idea what the Regents will present to us concerning deferred rush, but the executive committee should be able to answer questions and proposals without consulting the entire IFC body," he said.

Hohensee said any decision or proposals that don't demand an immediate response would be brought before the IFC.

A new IFC Rush Chairman, Leon (Lee) Polikov of Sigma Alpha Mu, was elected. He is a sophomore majoring in business administration from Omaha.

Polikov plans to begin work in his new position with the rush committee selection.

The IFC also voted unanimously to amend their constitution to eliminate an overlap of rush duties between the Rush Chairman and the vice president.

The rush week responsibilities were placed entirely in the hands of the rush chairman.

A&S Board Interviews Scheduled

Interviews for a vacancy on the Arts and Sciences Advisory Board will be held Sunday in the Nebraska Union from 2:30 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Students must sign up for interview times in the ASUN office in the Union. Applicants must be in the College of Arts and Sciences and have a minimum average of 2.0.

The Advisory Board investigates changes in curriculums and the student advisory programs of the different colleges.

This year the Board will experiment with incorporating students into the advising program in the English department.

The Advisory Board may start weekly meetings of senior students with their professors to discuss the quality of the 4-year programs in their major field.

Immediate plans for the NFU include discussions on the courses and on the NFU in general. The discussions, planned for next Tuesday through Thursday, will be held in dormitories, but will be open to anyone, Miss Phelps said.

There will also be two course centered in dorms, she added. Although the courses have not yet been assigned, there will be one each at Selleck and Pound dormitories.

Deferments Granted By Request

Undergraduate students must take responsibility to request deferment from their local selective service board, the Office of Registration and Records said.

The University will automatically send the State Selective Service Office of Nebraska a notification of each male student's status.

The State Board will then forward the notification to local boards, anywhere in the United States.

Students who do not want the University to send their status to the State Board must notify the Office of Registration and Records before Oct. 6.

Interest in the Nebraska Free University (NFU) is greater this year than last, according to Susie Phelps, chairman of the ASUN's NFU committee.

Miss Phelps said there were not as many instructors, but more students and graduate students are interested.

Registration for the NFU will be Oct. 9-13, with courses beginning the week of Oct. 16.

"There will be about the same number of courses as last year," she said. "They will center around areas like literature, music, politics and other things students are interested in."

Although fewer instructors will be able to spend time organizing courses, Miss Phelps said that the NFU looks as if it will be "as successful as last year."

"The interest is greater," she said, "more solid. We're getting people of greater interest involved."

She said that this interest should eliminate some of the dropout problems the NFU faced last semester, its first at the University.

Student Group Coordinating Minimum Housing Efforts

The ASUN Special Projects committee will coordinate University efforts for the proposed Lincoln Minimum Housing Code, according to chairman Margo McMaster.

The group will work in conjunction with the Better Lincoln Council to promote the code, which would require Lincoln homeowners and landlords to meet certain minimum standards in the upkeep of their property.

J-School Awarded For Public Service

University School of Journalism Sunday was given an Ak-Sar-Ben public service award for programs furnished the state's radio and television stations about the Nebraska Centennial celebration.

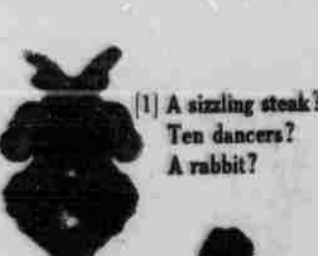

The award was made at the annual Nebraska Broadcasters Association convention held in Sidney, Nebraska Sept. 24-26.

R. Neale Copple, director of the school of journalism said this is the first such award won by the University broadcasting sequence, "which as educational programs go is very young."

Beginning March 1, the official opening for the state's centennial celebration, and for every remaining day of 1967 broadcasting students produced a day-to-day centennial news report of events that happened in the state in 1867.
