

THEATRE MARQUEES . . . reflect the quiet side of Lincoln night-life.

Go-Go Girls Outdate Movies

For several years the big thing on the west coast for a scintillating evening of entertainment was the so-called topless joints, which featured girls in topless bathing suits who waited tables, danced and even shined shoes.

The fad is now dying out, never to reach the mid-west, but even Lincoln has adopted a more sedate form of this entertainment, go-go girls clad in fringed bikinis.

Lincoln boasts two go-go establishments, the Inferno in the downtown area and the Royal Grove in west Lincoln district.

REVERBS

A small bar across the street from the Red Ram, the Inferno is dimly lit by red lamps and reverberates to rock-and-roll records six nights a week.

Inside, on a small stage located in a strategic corner, a go-go girl frugs to records of female rock stars. The girls have boosted business, "longer than I originally thought," manager Jerry Hardesty explained.

At first, he had expected employing go-go girls to be profitable only for about two months, until everyone had seen them, but the Inferno has featured the girls for eight months now, Hardesty said.

Hardesty pays his dancers from $4 to $6 an hour. "When we have two-to-five girls dancing, it adds up to around $20 an hour. When it costs this much we have to be nearly full to be making any money," he said.

He added that they would keep the girls as long as the public wants them.

TOURING GIRLS

Most of the go-go girls are local, Hardesty said. The Inferno has featured dancers from Omaha, Chicago and one from Las Vegas who was on tour.

The Royal Grove, located at 340 West Cornhusker, has several attractions besides its go-go girls. It features dancing to the Nordics, a rock combo which got its start at Mother's in North Hollywood.

The night club moved to its present location, which was formerly the Cockatoo Club, last March, according to one of its owners, Jai Sma. The building was enlarged and now houses a bar, restaurant and dance floor.

Sma said the Royal Grove caters to a younger clientel. There is dancing to the Nordics six nights a week and three to four go-go girls dance on table tops Monday through Thursday.

After a night of watching the gyrations of go-go girls, sampling the beer and German food at the Red Ram or Der Loaf and Stein, or eating Myron's pizza, where do University students go to pull themselves together?

One long standing favorite is Don and Millie's Cafe, sandwiched in between warehouses and railroad tracks at 21st and L Sts.

Don and Millie's stays open from 9 p.m. to 4:30 in the morning, with their busiest hours from 1 to 3, according to their waitress. The cafe has been run by Don and Millie Galloway for 12 years.

The waitress cited the homey atmosphere as the reason behind its enduring popularity.

"Don and Millie are like a grandfather and grandmother to college students away from home," she said. "The kids have a good time but when Millie speaks, they listen."

TABLE TOPS

"Their family has grown," she said, and Don and Millie are currently looking for a location with more room.

One student seemed to agree, describing Don and Millie's as "small but clean."

THE BLUEBIRD

Another favorite of college students who keep late hours is Eddie's Bluebird Cafe. The "Bluebird" is open "twenty-four hours a week, seven days a week, holidays and everything," according to its owner, Mrs. Eddie Fristoe.

The cafe, located directly across from the Burlington Railroad Depot, was purchased two years ago by Eddie Fristoe and run by him until his death last August.

During the day, the clientele is not collegiate but "kind of a mixture of everything," she said.

One student, a regular customer of the Bluebird Cafe said he "liked the atmosphere of the place although I'm not crazy about the food. Even its milk shakes are greasy."

Student Senate Passes New Election Procedure

An outline for changes in the 1967-68 ASUN election procedures was approved Wednesday by the Student Senate.

Students will again be required to present identification cards and sign a college roster in order to vote, according to the approved regulations. Voters also will be marked with an ultraviolet ink to deter them from voting a second time.

Voters will use special can be counted by computer, the regulations say, validated ballots which will hasten tabulating operations.

Last year the electoral Commission labored two days to count over 7,000 regular ballots plus a variety of ballots for Advisory Board elections and constitutional amendments.

The regulations stipulate that students who are convicted for infractions of the election procedures may be fined up to $100. In addition, offenders will not be allowed to hold any office on campus or participate in any student activities or organizations.

Specific fining procedures will be included in the detailed regulations to be approved later this year, according to Gene Pokorney, ASUN first vice president.

The regulations will help eliminate the causes of complaints in last year's voting procedures, according to Electoral Commissioner Ed Hilz.

The Electoral Commission will now develop a comprehensive plan within the framework of the approved outline which will be voted on at a later date.

The petition was rejected because the Electoral Commission said it was vague and unspecified.

Hilz said that the Commission hopes to avoid similar challenges this year by reforming the election procedure.

Don't laugh at Charles Van der Hoff's big ears. He can hear a party a mile away, thanks to Sprite.

Social-life majors, take a look at Charles Van der Hoff. He can't play the guitar. Never directed an underground movie. And then look at his ears! A bit such? Yes! But—Charles Van der Hoff can hear a bottle of tart, tingling Sprite being opened in the girls' dormitory from across the campus!

What does it matter, you say? Hah! Do you realize that Charles Van der Hoff has never missed a party in four years? When he hears those bottles of Sprite being uncapped—the roars—the fizzes—the bubbles—he runs! So before you can say anti-existentialism, he's getting in on that tart, tingling, slightly tickling taste of Sprite. And delicious refreshment—as well as a good time—is his.

Of course, you don't have to have ears as big as Charles Van der Hoff's to enjoy the swinging taste of Sprite. You may just have to resign yourself to a little less social life.

The Norelco Tripleheader.
 The closest, fastest, most comfortable shaver on wheels.

On campus. On-off switch.

It also has three Norelco Microgroove™ "floating heads" to shave you 35% closer. So close, we dare to match shaves with a blade. But comfortable too, because the Norelco rotary blades shave without a nick or a pinch while the floating heads swing over the hills and valleys of your face. And there's a pop-up trimmer to give you an edge on your sideburns.

Now there's a Rechargeable Tripleheader Speedshaver™ 45CT too. It works with or without a cord. And delivers twice as many shaves per charge as any other rechargeable.

Two great Tripleheaders with more features than any other shavers on the market.
