NFU Enrollment May Top Last Year

SUSIE PHELPS . . . interests a student in the educational opportunities of enrolling in Free University course.

Marriage, Cheap Travel Are Top Attractions

By ED ICENOGL
Senior Staff Writer

Over 250 University students registered for Nebraska Free University (NFU) courses Monday and Tuesday in the first two days of the NFU's registration drive. This number, according to Susie Phelps, chairman of the ASUN's NFU committee, indicates that the enrollment for the 21 courses may surpass last year's total of 600.

SECOND SEMESTER

A no-cost, voluntary collection of courses, NFU is entering its second semester of operation at the University. "Since we waited to start registration during the fifth week of school," Miss Phelps said, "more students already know whether or not they can fit an NFU course into their schedules."

Miss Phelps emphasized that many of the courses have limits on the number of students who may participate and that interested students should register early in the week.

MOST POPULAR

Opening registration was heaviest for the courses "Marriage: Sexual, Emotional and Social Contract" and "Theory and Practice of Free and Low Cost Travel".

The number registering for some of the courses may influence their structure, according to one of the course leaders.

"The structure of the course I am organizing," said David Kelley, "will depend on how many people sign up and how they want to handle it."

SUPPLEMENT

Kelley, an associate professor of anthropology at the University, is leading "The Concept of the Incredible".

There are certain subjects that are difficult to treat in the ordinary class situation, said Kelley, who attended Harvard University and has been with the Nebraska anthropology department for almost four years.

"Some courses are over-structured sometimes and for some students," he said, "the NFU courses can be a useful supplement to University courses."

FORMAT

"The Concept of the Incredible" will be conducted at an informal level, Kelley said.

"I would like to have some sort of seminar," he said, "if we have between 20 to 30 people."

Kelley added that "The Concept" will be approached from two different aspects, what kind of evidence has been presented and the factors in accepting and rejecting the incredible.

UFO'S

The course will concern itself, according to Kelley, with areas such as unidentified flying objects and ghosts.

"There are a series of ultimately determined attitudes towards what may or may not be believed at a certain time," he explained.

Factors that affect the credibility of many concepts, such as ghosts and UFO's, vary with the individual and his training, Kelley indicated.

Kelley said that he has collected considerable information on "the incredible" and that the course will be designed to see what people can do with these concepts.

"I think we will find that the types of explanations, rather than the data themselves," Kelley said, "is more important in considering credibility."

AWS Changes Overnight Rule

AWS board members voted Tuesday to eliminate the ruling that all women taking overnights and out-of-town permissions stay with hostesses at least 25 years old.

This ruling will become effective second semester, according to Ann Windle, AWS president.

Susie Sitorius, judicial vice-president, said that the stipulation placed on these permissions will be left up to parents. Coeds will be able to take overnights with those people that have been designated on the parental permission cards.

The schedule for Focus on Coeds, entitled the American Woman, 1967, will include the following events, according to program chairmen.

Tuesday, Oct. 24, AWS will present a "How To Do" workshop in the Nebraska Union from 2 until 4 p.m. The program will feature creative women showing how to use decorative accents in a home or dorm room along with other displays.

That evening a dessert for house representatives has been scheduled for 7 p.m. This will be followed by the Howland-Swanson style show where the 10 best-dressed-coeds on campus will be announced.

"Challenge for Creativity," an evening of entertainment, will be held at the Music Building, Oct. 25, at 7 p.m.

A seminar on the morality of the 1967 American Woman and the way that it has affected her life will be held Oct. 30. Speakers will also discuss drugs and the birth control pill. The speakers have been contacted and they will soon be announced along with the meeting times and places.

Senate Agenda Includes Vietnam Ballot Questions

Student senate will begin considering possible ballot questions for a referendum on Vietnam at its Wednesday meeting, said Gene Pokorny, ASUN vice-president.

The Senate will also discuss the possibility of including a vote on the proposed University FM radio station at the same time as the Vietnam referendum vote, he said.

Pokorny said Al Spangler, chairman of the Ad Hoc Committee on Vietnam, would ask the Senate for approval of questions to appear on the referendum ballot. The committee will propose that faculty members be allowed to vote in the referendum.

ASUN must consider how it will finance the proposed series of Vietnam discussions, he added.

By including a question on the FM station on the ballot, students would be given an opportunity to express their approval or disapproval of this proposal, Pokorny pointed out. He said ASUN must decide first what it is going to do to help the FM station planners.

A third major item on the Senate agenda is the selection of a senator from the Graduate and Professional College to fill the vacant seat of Bill Tooley who resigned several weeks ago. Candidates will be interviewed and voted on during Wednesday's meeting.

NU Team Premieres On GE Quiz Bowl

University of Nebraska and University of Wisconsin (Milwaukee) quiz bowl teams will match wits Saturday. The match, sponsored by General Electric, can be seen on television Sunday, Oct. 15, at 4:30 p.m. CST.

A Nebraska team has not competed in the event since 1960, according to Dr. James Roberts, sponsor of the team.

Last spring team members Jim Allard, Larry Grossman, Linda Marcello, and John Simmons were selected to compete by a committee of faculty members, he said. The committee used examination results and the applicants' speed response in a buzzer situation as criteria for their selection.

The winning school will receive a $3000 scholarship, according to Dave Cummins, last year's quiz bowl president, and the losing school will receive a $1000 scholarship. Schools may return for a maximum of five matches, he said.

The team has been meeting several nights a week for review sessions in current events, the sciences, philosophy, mythology and other areas for questioning, Dr. Roberts reported.

"We have also been especially emphasizing quick recall responses," he said.

The team members and Dr. Roberts will fly to New York on Thursday, and they will receive tickets from GE to the Broadway musical, "Auntie Mame", on Saturday night.

The annual AWS Freshman Activities Mart will be held Wednesday, Oct. 11, in the Nebraska Union Ballroom. University organizations will sign up members from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Some of the groups included in the Activities Mart are: Builders Union, ASUN, All University Fund, Corn Cobs, Tassels, Orchestras, Quiz Bowl, AWS, IFC, Young Republicans, Young Democrats, Panhellenic, People to People, Cadence Countesses, Pershing Rifles, and Red Cross.

Sellout Predicted . . . Peter, Paul And Mary To Appear In Repeat Performance Friday

By BARB MARTIN
Junior Staff Writer

Peter Yarrow, Paul Stookey and Mary Travers met in a Greenwich Village apartment in May, 1961, and sang "Mary Had A Little Lamb." One year later the trio had become the most highly acclaimed folk singers in the country, according to an International Talent Associates release.

Two years ago the group appeared in Lincoln and the performance was a sellout. Ticket sales for the two-hour concert to be presented at Pershing Auditorium, Oct. 13 at 8:30 p.m. are paralleling previous sales, said Pershing's representative.

TICKETS AVAILABLE

Although tickets are still available at Pershing's box office from noon to 6 p.m. daily, the representative said the $3 and $4 tickets are expected to be sold out by Wednesday. The $2.50 ticket sales will probably continue until the end of the week.

The trio, whose three most recent records appeared on the best-seller charts simultaneously, was formed through the efforts of Albert Grossman, who arranged their first meeting at Mary's apartment.

Immediately a problem arose the release said. The threesome couldn't think of one song to which they all knew both melody and lyrics, so they chose "Mary Had A Little Lamb."

ENTHUSIASM SHARED

But the unsophisticated rhyme didn't deter the group. Yarrow said, "we found that we shared the same enthusiasm for our work, and the same conviction that folk music is a way to communicate ideas and concerns." International Talent Associates said.

For seven months following the first interview, the trio worked towards this communication with arrangements, harmonies and rehearsals before their debut at the Bitter End, a Greenwich Village night club.

Engagements at the Gate of Horn in Chicago, the hungry in San Francisco and the Blue Angel in New York followed the initial performance.

In the spring of 1962, "Peter, Paul and Mary" the singers' first album was released and was soon at the top of the charts. Single records from the album, "If I Had A Hammer," and "Lemon Tree," also gained popularity.

The wave of acclaim started by the trio's first releases occasioned a series of cross-country and world tours. Attendance records in nearly every major concert hall in the U.S. were broken, according to the Talent Associates release.

AWARDS RECEIVED

In only one year the group had developed from three individuals meeting for coffee and harmonizing to a polished and popular folk singing trio, the release said. The group has received gold records for their albums, "Moving," "In The Wind" and "Peter, Paul and Mary in Concert," and for their singles, "Puff, the Magic Dragon," "Blowin' in the Wind," and "Don't Think Twice, It's All Right."

The release said the group has consistently refused to compromise their ideals for publicity and has even walked out of performances when requested to change the wording of authentic folk songs.

Participation in the Civil Rights movement has affected sales and appearances in the South.

THE FOLK SINGING TRIO . . . of Peter, Paul and Mary will appear at Pershing Auditorium Friday night.

A student poll sponsored by the All University Fund has selected the Cancer Society, United Service Organization, Larc School, Mental Health Association and Multiple Sclerosis Association to receive AUF funds. Most of these funds will be raised at the AUF Beat Dance Oct. 21 at the Nebraska Union. AUF is co-sponsoring the dance with the Inter-Dormitory Association, with all profits going to AUF. Activities Queen will be announced at the AUF dance. Interviews for Activities Queen and Big Man on Campus start at 1:30 p.m., Thursday. Activities Queen finalists will go through a second set of interviews on Oct. 19. BMOC finalists are voted on at the AUF dance.
