

Vietnam Doves Urge Policy Review

Official To State Policy

The current U.S. Administration's position on the war in Vietnam will be represented by a state department official Wednesday, according to Al Spangler, chairman of the ASUN Committee on Vietnam Week.

H. Freeman Matthews, Jr., will speak at 2 p.m. in the Nebraska Union Ballroom as Vietnam Week seminars move into the third day.

REFERENDUM

The week's discussion will culminate Monday in a referendum for students and faculty on the conduct of the Southeast Asian conflict.

Matthews, who received a B.A. degree from Princeton University, has served with the Vietnam Working Group of the Bureau of East Asian and Pacific Affairs since 1966.

After serving in the Armed Forces in Japan and Korea in 1950-51, Matthews joined the State Department. From 1964-66 he served as the State Department's Deputy Chief in Saigon.

PANEL ON S.S.

Also planned for Wednesday is a three-man panel on the selective service draft.

The panel, which will discuss issues surrounding the draft, is composed of Rev. Alan Pickering, United Ministries in Higher Education; Rick Latrell, president of the University of Nebraska's Students for a Democratic Society and Nate Human, director of the state selective service board.

Following the discussion will be a Hyde Park discussion, with questions from interested students.

Also, the film "Vietnam: War and People" is available to interested groups of students Wednesday and Thursday. The film, produced by the British Broadcasting Company, was shown Tuesday night and is available from Spangler.

Sex, Drugs, Morality . . .

Coeds To Attend AWS Teach-In

A teach-in on "Sex, Drugs, Morality and the Future" is being held Oct. 30 in the Nebraska Union in conjunction with the AWS Focus on Coeds Week.

A total of eight sessions has been planned. There will be two separate meetings on "Sex, Morality and the Future" each at 8 p.m. These two sessions will be repeated at 9 p.m.

There will also be two separate sessions on "Sex, Drugs and the Future" at 8 p.m. which will also be repeated at 9 p.m.

There will be two teams speaking on each topic. Reverend Alan J. Pickering, director of the United Ministries for Higher Education (formerly UCCF) and Reverend Charles S. Stephen of the Unitarian Church compose Team 1 on sex and morality.

Team 2 on this topic is Reverend Raymond Hain of the Catholic Student Center and Reverend Elmer H. Murdock of the Christian and Missionary Alliance.

The teams for sex and drugs include Dr. Douglas O. de Shazer, research director of the University Dental College; Dr. Harry J. Cannon, director of the University Counseling Service; Dr. Carmen H. Grant, clinical psychologist and a fourth mem-

Panel Of Professors Discuss Withdrawal

By ANDY CORRIGAN
Junior Staff Writer

Doves rested softly in the main lounge of the Student Union Tuesday as three anti-war advocates took the stand at a special Hyde Park Forum on Vietnam in conjunction with ASUN's Vietnam Week.

Ivan Volgyes, assistant professor of political science, Phillip Scribner, assistant professor of philosophy, and Lawrence Poston, assistant professor of English jointly advocated United States' withdrawal from Vietnam in the hour-long discussion.

In his opening remarks Volgyes emphasized that, as a political scientist, he was not dealing with moral issues but with the war's effects on U.S. foreign policy.

"This war is against our national interests. A nation must guard its survival and growth and this war endangers our very survival," said Volgyes.

Volgyes outlined six points to support his stand. First, the U.S. is spreading its defenses very thin and if the U.S. had to amass troops in another part of the world it would be impossible.

Second, there is a possibility of Chinese intervention and in this event the U.S. would be forced to use nuclear weapons. Third, the existing rift between China and the Soviet Union is being narrowed and will eventually consolidate to form an anti-American front.

Fourth, the growth within the U.S. has been brought to a standstill and we are unable to combat our internal problems. At this point Volgyes asked, "To whom are we responsible? Ourselves or South Vietnam?"

Fifth, the war momentarily stimulates the U.S. economy but in the long run will prove detrimental.

Sixth, the U.S. is not enhancing its position as defender of freedom by continuing this war and is losing prestige in the world community.

Poston attacked U.S. intervention in South Vietnam from the standpoint of "let's check our premises."

"The state department is operating on the assumption that the Communists are trying to undermine us, that there is a communist conspiracy afoot that plans to take over the world," Poston stated.

The second assumption that we operate under is that we must stop the communists in Vietnam so as to dissuade them from further aggression, according to Poston.

He stressed that both assumptions were false and that as a result we are in a pointless war.

"In reality we cannot hope to win this war. In five years or maybe twenty years the best we will have accomplished is a stalemate and at a cost that is totally out of proportion to the gains," he said.

In his bid for withdrawal from Vietnam, Scribner said that at the present the U.S.

is at a political and military stalemate.

"We have not gained any extensive support from our allies and we have failed to construct a viable government for the Vietnamese people," he said.

Scribner stressed the inadequacies of the present South Vietnam government saying that they had failed in their attempts at land reform, had little control over the villages, were incapable of resolving the refugee problem, and upheld an unfair election last September.

Although all three men agreed that the U.S. should pull out of Vietnam they differed as to the type of withdrawal that should be utilized.

Volgyes advocated cessation of the bombing followed by the U.S. disavowing support of the present government.

"We should then encourage the new government to negotiate with North Vietnam. We should have no part in the negotiations since you can only control the things you own and we don't own them," he said.

In opposition to Volgyes stand, Scribner felt that the U.S. should take part in the negotiations because the U.S. has an obligation to create a reasonably peaceful transition of governments.

Best-Dressed Coeds Named

The University's 10 Best-Dressed Coeds were announced Tuesday night at Howland-Swanson's style show, sponsored by AWS.

The 10 Best-Dressed Coeds are: Jolyne Almqvist (Delta Gamma), Jeanne Bartels (Pound Hall), Nancy Eaton (Delta Delta Delta), Marty Gottschalk (Pi Beta Phi), Stephanie Floyd (Pi Beta Phi), Vicki Hakanson (Alpha Omicron Phi), Mary Keim (Alpha Phi), Nanci Shook (Kappa Kappa Gamma), Nyla Soukup (Alpha Phi), and Marian Wisniewski (Kappa Alpha Theta).

TO REPRESENT NU
A panel of judges selected Marian Wisniewski from the 10 to represent the University in Glamour magazine's Best Dressed Coed contest.

The style show was part of the AWS activities for Focus on Coeds Week.

Each living unit nominated 10 girls for Best Dressed Coed and the 20 girls receiving the most nominations were semifinalists.

A panel of judges chose these 10 girls from the finalists as Best Dressed Coeds.

OUTFITS MODELED
Each of these girls modeled two outfits for the style show, one appropriate for campus events and a long formal.

The judges included: John Horner, vice-president of Howland-Swanson's; Mrs. Judith Johnson, instructor in the Home Economics department; Pam Wragge and Jeanie Howard, finalists last year; Claude Bolton and Gene Hohenstein, innocents; Dick Schulze, ASUN president; and Marv Mueller, co-captain of the football team.

ASUN will not meet Wednesday, according to Phil Bowen, speaker pro tem. ASUN Vice-President Gene Pokorny is out of town.

Panhellenic Recommends Raise For Sorority Initiation Average

Panhellenic passed a resolution Monday recommending that the required grade average for sorority pledge activation be raised from 2.0 to 2.2.

The resolution, which will be given to the new constitution committee, states that each house can set the required accumulative average for activation of upper class pledges.

PLEDGE INITIATIVE

The reasoning behind this resolution is to increase pledge initiative to study, and to improve overall scholarship, according to Shari Mueller, Panhellenic president.

Miss Mueller said that first semester last year the all-sorority average slipped below the all-women's average, but was raised second semester above the all-women's average.

In other business the president said that Panhellenic will definitely have a combined rush book for rush next year.

RUSH BOOKS

Previously, each house sent out rush books during the summer before rush to introduce rushees to their sorority.

"The houses were limited financially as to the number of rush books they could send out," she said. With a combined book each girl will get information from each house.

The book will allow a set number of pages for each house, she explained.

Miss Mueller said that most of the Big 8 schools employ a combined rush book and that the University sends out combined rush books.

EDITOR

The Panhellenic Rush Council, which is composed of the rush chairmen from each house, has decided on the requirements for the editor of the combined rush book.

Each applicant must be a junior or a senior, have some journalism experience, and have a 2.3 accumulative average, explained the president.

She said that an assistant chairman will also be chosen. Requirements for assistant chairmen are the same, but sophomores are also eligible.

Miss Mueller said that applications should be submitted to Trish Sultzbaugh at Gamma Phi Beta or the Panhellenic Office by Oct. 27, and that interviews will be Oct. 29.

A salary will be given to the editor and assistant editor, depending on the allowed budget, she explained.

DEFERRED RUSH

Panhellenic discussed deferred rush at Monday's meeting. Panhellenic is against a deferred rush system, she said, but at least we want to have a choice if the Regents do pass it.

She said that a summary of the present rush system, including suggestions for improvement in the system, will be presented to the Regents in December.

The representatives discussed problems of the present rush system, said Miss Mueller, suggestions were made to extend rush week for a longer time period.
